SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 19.—(UP)—The theory of a suitcase containing the bomb that killed 10 persons in a preparedness day parade explosion, July 22, 1916, was lebeled as false today by Ralph Jones, Sacramento service station proprietor, who said he witnessed the dynamiting.

Jones story was considered important by the defense in a retrial of Warren K. Billings in 1916 was based on the assumption that he placed a suitcase containing a bomb at the corner of Steuart and Market streets a few minutes previous to the blast.

Edwin V. McKenzie, attorney for Billings, brought Jones to San Francisco to testify in the Billings pardon application now being considered by the supreme court.

It was the first time Jones ever appeared in connection with the Billings and Thomas J. Mooney cases.

In addition to declaring there was no suitcase at the bombing scene, Jones denied the trial testimony of John Crowley who identified Billings as the man he saw leaving the dynamite corner.

"Crowley worked for me at my service station on Steuart street near Market," Jones said. "He was in the garage shortly before the explosion. I was out on the street and returned to the garage and told Crowley what had happened.

Jones supported testimony previously presented in this hearing by W. L. Claiborne, Oakland attorney, who was associated with Jones in ownership of the service station and garage.

Claiborne told the court a week ago that Crowley was under a car greasing it and that he was not on the street while the Preparedness day parade was in progress.

"I saw the corner plainly," Jones continued. "There was no suitcase there and all witnesses who said later they saw one were mistaken."

Calvin Coolidge Says

BY CALVIN COOLIDGE
Former President of the United States

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., Aug. 19.—Our own interdependence and that of the rest of the world is emphatically exemplified by the present unrest in India. It has not only affected our direct trade in that region but by reducing Indian imports of manufactured goods from England has reduced our sale of raw materials that would go into such goods, and by injuring British business has lowered British general purchasing power for our other exports.

While we have every sympathy with the aspiration for self government, we realize from the historical development of our own institutions that self government cannot be conferred upon one people by another people but must be acquired by long and painful experience. It is only of gradual growth through many intermediate grades, none of which can be omitted. When India is unified, educated and equipped for self government it will come with benefit to all concerned.

At present the problem is how the people of India can best be helped to progress along that pathway. Undoubtedly the British Empire furnishes them with guarantees of order and stability which are their first requisites in working out their own destiny. Meantime hope lies in such an adjustment of governmental and trade relations as will insure domestic tranquility.

SURVIVORS OF S. S. TAHITI TO LAND TONIGHT

PAGO PAGO, SAMOA, Aug. 19.—(UP)—A hero's welcome awaited Captain W. R. Meyer of the Matson liner Ventura today as that ship neared this island port with 251 survivors of the British steamer Tahiti which floundered Sunday in the South Seas.

The Ventura is due here around 2 p. m. (5:30 p. m. Pacific standard time) today and on its arrival island residents will pay homage to Captain Meyer and his crew for their heroic work in speeding 750 miles across the Pacific, arriving just in time to remove those aboard the disabled Tahiti.

That there wasn't a moment to spare was indicated in a radiogram telling of the rescue, sent out by F. N. Davidson, radio operator of the Tahiti, now aboard the Ventura.

Off In Time

"Passengers just got on Ventura in time as all bulkheads started giving away and all holds were filled to the "'tween decks," the message said.

"The forward part of the ship was listing heavily but nose much deeper than stern. She sank nose first.

"All the letter mail was saved but the newspapers were lost. Part

CORONATION RITES FOR CAROL DELAYED

BUCHAREST, Roumania, Aug. 19.—(UP)—The coronation of King Carol has been postponed until the spring of 1931 due to the inability to reconcile Carol and his divorced wife, Princess Helene, it was officially confirmed today.

Confirmation followed recent rumors in court circles that Helene still was opposed to the annulment of her divorce from Carol. The divorce must be annulled if she is to be crowned queen simultaneously with Carol's coronation.

The newspaper Cuvantul, usually well informed in court matters, stated recently that the coronation had been postponed.

WARDEN OPENS INVESTIGATION INTO DRINKING

SAN QUENTIN STATE PRION, Aug. 19.—(UP)—A grim "hangover" today followed the liquor party here yesterday in which a group of "convict intellectuals" attempted to chase away the gloom from prison life.

One man was dead, two others believed dying and a fourth in a serious condition from wood alcohol poisoning.

The four represented the best element in the institution, according to officials and observers of prison life alike. Charles J. Brown, 30, the dead man, was associate editor of the Bulletin, the prison magazine; Joe Mackin, 29, blind, was foreman of the printshop; George Cassel, 28, editor of the Wall City News, the convicts newspaper, and John Lawlor, 31, seriously ill, was a collector of first editions with a collection many men outside of prison bars would be jealous of.

The men, all, with the exception of Lawler who was sentenced to life for murder, were convicted on charges of robbery. Doomed to many years of drab routine, prison authorities declare, they set themselves to make the best of it, using their leisure hours in study and writing.

Warden J. B. Holohan today conducted a strict investigation into the party that followed a baseball game during the annual field exercises. It was known that Brown had received a bottle of wood alcohol from the prison pharmacy to use on his printing machine. Warden Holohan was unable to account for the dead man's belief that the alcohol was grain and therefore non-poisonous.

South Pasadena Corps Wins in Contest With Long Beach Second

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 19.—(UP)—Business and sports were liberally mixed today by the American Legion as that organization went through the second day of its annual convention here. Business sessions began at 8 a. m., and continued until 10 a. m., when the Legion "sportfest" started. Bowling, pistol and rifle competition, tennis, trapshooting, golf and swimming, were all on the program for competitive effort by the delegates.

Meantime a large crowd of Legionnaires and friends embarked on a boat ride on the Sacramento river. Business sessions reconvened at 1 p. m. and those delegates who were neither sightseeing nor engaged in the sports contests assembled at the Memorial auditorium, where election of delegates to the national convention at Boston was in order.

Invite Citizens

Citizens of Sacramento have been invited to the meeting tonight, with a concert by the Sacramento post band opening the program. Distinguished guests will be present for introduction. Musical features will follow, after which citations and trophies are to be presented.

A "midget show" at the auditorium is to complete the day's work and play.

Sacramento saw the largest parade in its history yesterday. More than 15,000 Legionnaires marched through the downtown streets, to the accompaniment of

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 19.—(UP) The name of Rev. R. P. Shuler, radio broadcasting minister of Los Angeles, was brought into the murder trial of Frank D. Keaton today as the task of jury selection resumed in superior court.

By withdrawing his plea of "not guilty," Keaton admitted that he murdered Motley H. Flint, millionaire retired financier, and went to trial on his second plea of "not guilty by reason of insanity."

The little realty salesman's defense brought a battle of alienists even closer at hand, as the jury's decision on Keaton's sanity will decide his fate. A similar case was that of William Edward Hickman, who was found sane by a jury and sentenced to hang for the murder of a 12-year-old Los Angeles girl.

Convict Can't Run for State Office

SAN QUENTIN PRISON, Aug. 19. (UP)—Any allusion to Oscar Erickson "running for office" had today taken on the aspect of a poor run.

In fact, if Warden Holohan has his way—and he has a way of having his way hereabouts—Erickson will not even be notified of his nomination as lieutenant governor of California.

Four leaders of the California Communist party called here yesterday to notify Erickson of his nomination. Considering California law, under which Erickson's citizenship is revoked for the duration of his sentence, Warden Holohan called the notification ceremony "ridiculous" and told the party they might talk to the "candidate" only if they promised not to talk politics.

ASSISTANT TO CRANSTON IS BERKELEY MAN

ELECTION OF Percy Roland Davis, of Berkeley, as assistant superintendent of public schools in Santa Ana, with a four year contract, by the board of education last night, settled the question of who will be the successor of J. A. Cranston, superintendent of schools, when that official retires from public school work next July.

Davis, who had been favorably considered by the board and who was extremely well recommended by prominent educators in the state, was elected by a unanimous vote of the board. The contract provides that he is to receive $5000 for the first year, $6600 for the second year, and $7200 for the last two years of the contract period. It was pointed out by board members that the remuneration for the first year was necessarily less than the position was worth during the first year.

The new official is in business in Berkeley where he has just completed a three year course leading to a degree of doctor of education, and board members are expecting him to begin his work in Santa Ana about the first of September. Davis is a graduate of Northwestern University, Chicago, where he received a Ph. B. degree in 1904. Prior to that time he graduated from high school in Chicago. He is 47 years old and has a family of three sons.

His past experience in school work was gained at Hemet, Glendale, Lakeside, National City, and San Bernardino. He was superintendent of schools at National City and San Bernardino.

The election of Davis followed a motion made by Dr. Roy Horton after an executive session of the board.

Dr. Davis is regarded as exceptionally well qualified for administrative work and the board is gratified at the opportunity to secure his services.

Angelus Temple Officials Wire Two Children to Return Home at Once

BULLETIN

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 19.—(UP)—Mrs. Minnie "Mother" Kennedy of Angelus temple fame, admitted late today that her confinement in the Brentwood sanitarium here is the result of a fight with her daughter, Aimee Semple McPherson, the evangelist.

"We had a quarrel and Aimee struck me on the nose," Mrs. Kennedy said.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 19.—(UP)—Aimee Semple McPherson has lost her eyesight, it was announced at Angelus temple here today.

The noted evangelist's affliction followed a nervous breakdown two weeks ago, it was said.

Whether the condition is merely temporary is not known at this time, according to Miss Emma Schaeffer, secretary to Mrs. McPherson.

The evangelist's condition was so serious that directors of the temple admitted there was concern felt for her recovery.

Her hundreds of followers, apprised of their leader's illness, have begun offering daily prayers for her.

The night watchman at the temple reported early today that Mrs. McPherson "has no doctors."

"The Lord will take care of her," he said.

Mrs. McPherson, who several years ago figured in a sensational kidnaping case, returned a few weeks ago from a trip to the Holy Land. It was understood she had been in failing health ever since.

The watchman said she had not been at the temple for two weeks.

Temple officials wired Mrs. McPherson's two children to return home at once. Roberta, the daughter, is in Paris, and Robert, the son, is on an evangelistic tour of the middlewest.

Her associates withheld details of the illness, saying only that she was being cared for by friends.

Later it was reported that she had been located in a beach cabin at Malibu, noted as a recreation center for prominent members of the Hollywood motion picture colony.

A secretary denied rumors that

Mrs. L. A. Harper defeated Carolin Babcock, a fellow Californian, 6-4, 6-3. Other Californians to register early victories were Misses Dorothy Workman, Ethel Burkhardt, Edith Cross and Dorothy Weisel.

Betty Nuthall, England's hope in the tournament, beat Mrs. A. J. Lamme, Rye, N. Y. 6-1, 6-1.

BANK FOUNDER SINKING

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 19.—(UP)—Fear for the recovery of Lorenzo Scatena, aged stepfather of A. P. Giannini and founder with him of the Bank of Italy, was today held by physicians attending him. After three weeks of illness at his Sausalito home, Scatena suffered a sudden relapse Sunday night.

TO THE VOTERS

Bear in mind that there is no run-off for the Republican nomination for Governor. Either Young, Rolph or Fitts will be nominated on next Tuesday, and will meet the candidate on the Democratic ticket on election day in November.

The two high men on the Republican ticket do not have a run-off. The one highest man on the Republican ticket, as with the candidates for every other state office, will be the candidate representing the Republican party in the November election. So you are selecting the nominee, and because of the preponderance of the Republcian vote, almost selecting the official himself.

Among the county candidates there is a run-off, where no one receives a majority of all votes cast. Where there are only two candidates, one of them is bound to be selected on next Tuesday as the official for the position for which he is running. For the office of supervisor in the 5th district, for county treasurer, for sheriff and for district attorney, because of the number running, there probably will be a run-off, but this is not true of the candidates for any other position in the county. And remember, there is no opportunity to make a selection as between Young, Rolph and Fitts after next Tuesday, other than to choose between the one who is nominated and the Democrat.

Former Priest, Convicted Of Murder, Seeks Freedom

PHIL GOODWIN MAKES ATTACK ON JUDGMENT

Philip A. Goodwin, convicted murderer, who, by virtue of a retrial ordered by the state supreme court in 1928 escaped hanging and was sentenced instead to life imprisonment, is making an attempt to gain his freedom from San Quentin, where he is now serving time for the murder of Joseph J. Patterson, Los Angeles bond broker, it was learned today.

Goodwin and Albert Dewey Gaines were tried in Orange county superior court and sent to prison for the crime after the charred body of Patterson was discovered in Santa Ana canyon. Goodwin, a former priest in the American Catholic church, today filed through his attorneys, notice of a motion to vacate and set aside the judgment of conviction entered on March 9, 1928, and to make the record recite the oral judgment actually pronounced at the time of the second trial. Gaines was sentenced to life imprisonment in Folsom and Goodwin in San Quentin.

Transcripts from the record of the case are attached showing a discrepancy between the judgment as pronounced by the court and that recorded by the clerk of the court. It is pointed out that the recital of crime is not included in the oral judgment and the motion seeks to set aside the judgment entered by the clerk, which is in regular form, and substitute therefore the actual oral judgment.

This technicality in the oral judgment is the point on which the prisoner pins his hopes for freedom, it is believed.

The first trial of Goodwin and his companion occurred shortly after the information charging him with the crime was filed in superior court on August 21, 1926.

The wording of the court in pronouncing oral judgment included the statement "guilty of cold blooded murder for financial gain—recommend serve the maximum term."

REVIVES HOPE

of mail damaged by sea water. Sank at 4:30 p. m., Sunday.

Davidson's message is the only bit of descriptive detail the modest Meyer has permitted to clear the ship. From other sources, however, bits of drama of the South Seas was learned.

It was last Friday that the Tahiti, enroute from Australia to San Francisco, lost its tail shaft and called for aid. It then was approximately 1000 miles northwest of Auckland, N. Z., about 4000 miles from San Francisco. Later the propeller dropped and water started pouring in the shaft.

Made Fast Trip

The Ventura, enroute from Sydney to San Francisco, was 700 miles away on another steamer lane. Captain Meyer cut across the uncharted "ocean wilderness" arriving in record time shortly after the Norwegian freighter Penybryn, lacking facilities to care for the passengers, stood by and waited for the Ventura to arrive.

After making the rescue, the Ventura started back toward the course she had abandoned.

Upon arrival here the Ventura will discharge passengers bound for island ports but those bound for the United States and Europe will continue on the Ventura to San Francisco, her home port, where she is due September 1.

Candidates Sell Scrip In Effort To Boost Totals

Candidates in the Fox West Coast Theaters-Santa Ana Register Popularity contest went in for the selling of scrip books for the theaters today in their final roundup of votes in the contest which closes next Sunday.

More votes are offered for the sale of scrip books than for anything else and $10 books bring the candidates 25,000 votes, so this is the easiest way to procure ballots during the last week, according to Norman Sprowl, Fox theaters manager.

Several of the contestants were bunched for the first three and four places with all given excellent chances to win. A number of the leading candidates were known to be holding back thousands of ballots to be counted on the last day and for this reason the real position of any one candidate is not known.

BEEMAN TALKS ON PEACE AT ROTARY LUNCH

International peace was the topic chosen by L. L. Beeman in his talk at the Rotary club luncheon in St. Ann's inn today noon. The history of the growing sentiment for peace was briefly outlined in the talk, given by Beeman, head of the department of history at Santa Ana Junior college.

Preceding the talk, Bob Brown rendered as solos, two old Scotch songs, "The Border Ballad" and "My Love Is Like a Red, Red Rose." The fact that the Rev. A. J. Soldan, pastor of the United Brethren church at Santa Monica, and for some time chaplain of the Leavenworth penitentiary, would speak at the next meeting on "Reclaiming Prisons," also was disclosed.

In his talk, Beeman traced the different international disputes in history and the way they were dealt wit hby the nations. The speaker stated that some effort had been made to humanize war, which only resulted in making it more savage.

Among the other steps in advancing toward international peace were the Hague peace conference, the court of international justice, the League of Nations and the London naval conference.

All credit for the establishing of the league was attributed to the untiring effort of Woodrow Wilson, although several men were mentioned as having suggested such a league earlier. Among these were, William Penn and Theodore Roosevelt. The remainder of the talk was devoted by the speaker to discussing the League of Nations. The only improvement that the speaker mentioned which might be made by the league is its outlawery of war.

Ten visiting Rotarians were present. They were Earl R. Bradley, Orange; W. L. Waters, Fullerton; Ray McCarth, Orange; A. H. Smith, Orange; M. M. Fishback, Orange; L. H. Turner, Pasadena, and H. B. Bailey and Harry L. Kueogg.

REPORT AIMEE SERIOUSLY ILL AT HER HOME

Mrs. McPherson was undergoing treatment as the result of a face lifting operation she had performed in Budapest.

The evangelist last preached at the temple two weeks ago Sunday. At that time it was reported she planned to be away from the church for a time "to write a book."

Whereabouts Secret

Since then her whereabouts have been kept secret and it was not until the directors of the temple met last night that the majority of her followers suspected their leader to be ill.

Close associates would give little information about Mrs. McPherson today. The name of her physician could not be learned at the temple, nor would those in charge there tell where the evangelist is staying.

"It is true that Mrs. McPherson is suffering from a nervous breakdown.

"It is also true that physicians are greatly concerned for her recovery.

"After 22 years of unselfish, unremitting evangelistic work, it is no wonder human strength cannot indefinitely endure the pressure of work entailed by the great organization she has built.

"We have long wanted her to rest, but she has always refused to take a vacation. We are praying continually that God may restore her to the pulpit of Angelus temple."

DEATHS

A WORD OF COMFORT

Speaking generally, you have always known well enough what you ought to do; what you have lacked was the power to care and the moral ability to undertake, to persist and to finish what you had begun.

Your dear one's going on to Paradise has not greatly increased your knowledge; it has released, or stirred up or created with you a new and mighty desire and determination to do and to become that which will bring happiness to your beloved and which will prepare you to join her when your day's work is done.

CONRAD—In Santa Ana, Aug. 18, 1930, James B. Conrad, age 68 years. He is survived by one brother, Daniel A. Conrad of Costa Mesa, one sister, Mrs. Anna Proctor, Popular Bluff, Mo.; one niece, Mrs. Amsel McBroom, Santa Ana, and two nephews, James C. Conrad, Balboa, and Wilber D. Conrad, of Los Angeles. Funeral services will be held at 2:00 p. m. tomorrow at the Harrell & Brown Funeral home, 116 West Seventeenth street.

WILLIAMS—At her home, 1602 W. 8th St., Aug. 17, 1930, Anna Williams, aged 64 years. Wife of Peter D. Williams. Funeral services will be held Wednesday at 10 a. m. from Smith and Tuthill's chapel.

IRVINE PLANT SENDS 79,526 BOXES TO EAST

The 79,526 packed boxes of lemons shipped by the Irvine Citrus association since the season opened last spring brought returns of $417,031.62, f. o. b., an average of $5.24 per packed box, it was announced today.

The Irvine plant, which is handling lemons exclusively, expects to ship 16,200 boxes during the remainder of the season. The association is packing pool No. 9 at the present time, the pools being on a monthly basis.

Picking operations are under way for pool No. 10, which will close the first of September.

The lemons are for the most part going to the eastern states, with some shipments to Honolulu, Seattle and Portland.

CITIZENS WILL BEAUTIFY NEW S. A. BOULEVARD

A plan to inaugurate some civic enterprise in which the entire city might take part, which was suggested at the meeting of the Santa Ana Knights of the Round Table recently, developed into actuality today with the approval of the city planning commission and the city council, which was secured last night.

The plan, as presented by the committee from the Round Table, Reeves Aylmore, Frederic H. Eley and A. A. Brock, to the two bodies yesterday, calls for the planting of the 50-foot strip on the westerly side of Santa Ana boulevard for the entire length of approximately two miles, with flowers, trees and shrubbery at no cost to the city.

The plan involves the co-operation of all residents of the city and all organizations who may have plants, shrubbery or trees to be removed from their premises and disposed of, by getting them to notify the committee office, which is to be opened in the near future. The authority of the council was obtained to have the city gardener pick up these donations and care for them properly until such time as they may be planted in the parkway along the boulevard.

The planning commission is already planning to set out Cocos palms along the boulevard next to the curbing and the addition to the planting will provide one of the most decorative borders in this part of California.

OFFER PRIZE FOR GOLF COURSE NAME

Fifty dollars in gold has been offered by the management of the new 36-hole miniature golf course at the corner of South Main and McFadden streets for the best name submitted for the course since the addition of the second 18 holes just south of the first nine holes under the palms.

A crowd of 5000 persons inspected the south course Saturday night at the official opening, it was stated today by Clark. Lyle Anderson, former KREG announcer, was master of ceremonies. Music for the occasion was furnished by the Valencia orchestra and Doc and Ray, KREG entertainers.

FILE PROTESTS ON FORMATION OF DISTRICTS

Protests at hearings today on the proposed formation of fire and maintenance districts in the county caused the matters to be continued by the board of supervisors. The matter of the Costa Mesa fire district was continued until August 27, and the Dana Point maintenance districts matter until September 2.

Three protests were received from residents of Costa Mesa and vicinity, concerning the fire district formation. One, signed by 34 residents, was a general protest. The other two concerned certain territory which it was asked be left out of the district. One petition related to an area bounded by Twenty-first and Twenty-third streets, Newport boulevard and Santa Ana avenue, and carried the signatures of 60 residents. The other petition referred to land bounded by Thurin, Fairview and Bay avenues and Victoria street, and was signed by 22 residents.

Protests from 14 free holders at Dana Point were filed by Alfred E. Guy, objecting to the creation of a proposed maintenance district unless assurance was received concerning the amount of costs that would be assessed for maintaining lights under provisions of the resolution forming the district. Guy stated that they were not opposed to the formation of the district and maintenance of the lights provided the costs were not excessive, but that they desired further information. The matter was continued until September 2.

Judge F. C. Drum presented an informal petition carrying the signatures of 40 lot owners in the district, approving the formation of the maintenance district.

TUSTIN PHONE USERS TO GET NEW NUMBERS

Representatives of the Southern California Telephone company will visit Tustin telephone subscribers commencing tomorrow, to inform them of the new numbers which they will use when the present Tustin central office is eliminated and telephones there receive service directly from the Santa Ana exchange on October 4.

According to E. S. Morrow, district manager, the number plates will be replaced with new numbers and a card placed on the transmitter warning subscribers not to use the Santa Ana number until October 5.

The new numbers will appear in the October issue of the Orange county directory. The directory will be delivered with a sticker attached to the cover, a reminder not to use it until after midnight of October 4, when the Tustin telephones will be cut off from the Tustin central office and connected with the Santa Ana switchboard.

In connection with the change in central offices approximately four miles of telephone cable is to be installed between Tustin and Santa Ana at an estimated expenditure of $27,800, work on which is scheduled to begin about the first of September. To provide additional facilities to care for growth in the Tustin area the telephone company is at present installing cable at an approximate cost of $9,670.

Switchboard involving an expenditure of approximately $43,300 is being added to the Santa Ana central office to care for the transfer of Tustin telephones to the Santa Ana exchange.

Since August 1, local service has been furnished between Tustin and Santa Ana at Santa Ana exchange service rates, the five-cent charge formerly applicable for each call between Tustin and Santa Ana having been discontinued by a decision of the railroad commission.

Two undersized youths, one 18, the other 19, are being held by sheriff's officers following their arrest yesterday by A. L. Steward, deputy sheriff.

Two guns were said to have been found on the boys, termed by Steward as "desperadoes." Steward said today he was investigating a report that the youths were responsible for the theft of three cars in three different Southern California cities.

SAYS BUSINESS PLAN BEST IN FILLING OFFICE

No intelligent business man would go outside of his organization and hire a stranger to manage one of his departments where he expected to make a change, if he already had a trained executive in nhis employ, who was thoroughly familiar with his affairs and ready to step into the post.

With that suggestion to the voters of Orange county, Earl R. Abbey, candidate for the office of county treasurer, today compared the problem of the business man to the problem of the county in electing a treasurer.

Abbey has had 12 years experience in public service, as deputy county clerk, and has made a study of the office he is seeking. He stands in the position of the trained executive who is in line for promotion to the head of the department where a change is contemplated.

His employers, the voters of the county, should not go outside of their service to employ a man who is unfamiliar with affairs of the department, it is pointed out. Rather, they should promote the man who has made good in their service and has proved his qualifications.

Faces Charge Of Making Liquor In Minor's Presence

Horrocks was arrested yesterday afternoon by Deputy Sheriffs Carter and Steward at Fullerton. The crime was alleged to have been committed on May 15 of this year. The girl in question is a 12-year-old Long Beach girl, according to the records.

Packing Plant To Start Work Here Wednesday

Packing operations will start tomorrow at the California Packing corporation plant, according to information received from company officials today. The first product which will be taken care of in the packing house will be the chili crop.

Work will continue on the chilis until Sept. 10, when pimientoes will be taken care of. A larger and more profitable season than last year is anticipated. The crop, it was reported, also is much larger than in previous years. The packing of the pimientoes will reach its peak about the first of October.

Between 50 and 60 men and 350 women will be employed at the packing house during the season, it was learned. The products are shipped to all parts of the United States and many of the foreign countries.

BAND TO PLAY WIDE VARIETY OF SELECTIONS

By RUTH ANDREWS

Composers from at least seven different countries, including Italy, England, France, Poland, Austria, Germany and America will be represented on the regular weekly concert program being planned for presentation in Birch park next Thursday night, August 21, by Santa Ana Municipal band, according to D. C. Cianfoni, director of the popular organization.

Musical selections have been chosen with special regard for variety and novelty, and the work of both classic and modern composers will be interestingly represented. Works from such contrasting composers as Rossini, Chopin, Sullivan, and Oscar Strauss will be presented, with light opera numbers from Rossini, Arthur Sullivan and Strauss to be especially featured.

The charming overture from Rossini's "La Gazza Ladra" (The Thieving Magpie), will be heard, also a selection from Sullivan's internationally popular light opera, "The Mikado," will vie with an arrangement of favorite themes from Strauss' popular and melodious Viennese masterpiece, "The Chocolate Soldier," well known to all music lovers of the present day.

It is interesting to note that Strauss is now living in Hollywood, where he has recently been engaged in composing for the talkies. During the present series of concerts being presented at Hollywood bowl, Strauss has conducted some of his own works in the role of guest conductor, and was well received.

Strauss, who has won enviable prominence as a conductor and composer in his native Austria, has won special distinction in the field of light opera, and occupies a place at the head of the modern Viennese school of music. His life has been filled with musical activity.

Although during the earlier part of his life, Strauss conducted many orchestras throughout the former German empire, since 1900 he has applied himself exclusively to composing. Romance forms the chief theme of his many charming operettas, some of which include "The Valley of Love," "The Beautiful Unknown" "A Waltz Dream," "The Last Waltz," "The Spell of Love," "The Foolish Maiden," and 'Naughty Riquette." However, the best known of his light operas is "The Chocolate Soldier," which was composed by him in 1908.

Maurice Phillips, one of the community's favorite singers, will be heard as soloist Thursday evening, and will present among other numbers Moya's "Song of Songs."

MANY ATTEND MEETING FOR PEARSON HERE

An overflow crowd jammed Getty hall here last night and participated in a meeting in the interests of the candidacy of James M. Pearson, police chief at Fullerton, who is seeking nomination as sheriff. Persons from all parts of the county crowded the hall.

Verne A. Baker, of Fullerton, county campaign manager, presided. In addition to a talk by Pearson, short talks were made by five other speakers. The Rev. C. N. Jones, of Alamitos, said:

"I have known James Pearson for 15 years, and I know his mettle He gives a square deal to all, rich and poor alike. He is a man of the highest character and I cannot recommend him too highly."

J. C. Farrar, commander of Calumpit post of the Spanish American War veterans, and O. J. Stanbro, commander of Warwick post, of Fullerton, also spoke. They pointed to his experience in the service of the nation, to his record of efficiency as police chief at Fullerton, to the fact that he was a man of his word, and declared that he would impartially serve the entire county as sheriff.

Al Dresser, former deputy county clerk, told of the activities of the political machine in the county, and asserted that Pearson was free from obligations to any man or organization except the people as a whole.

Charles Kincaid, in introducing Pearson, declared that his strength in Santa Ana was seen in the fact that bets had been made here recently that Pearson and Sheriff Jernigan would be in the run-off next fall.

"One of my opponents, the incumbent, has been advertising the number of arrests he has made and the amount of fines turned over to the county," Pearson said. "Perhaps you will be surprised to know that my department at Fullerton in the same length of time has made a total of 1369 criminal arrests, and that there has been reported by the city controller revenues of $53,900 from resulting fines."

"These arrests do not include any traffic cases or lodgers—they are all for misdemeanors and felonies. We mean business up there when it comes to law enforcement, and I'll carry the same determination with me to the office of sheriff of Orange county if the people elect me."

Governor Young And Stimson To Give Talks Here

Governor C. C. Young and Marshall Stimson, campaign manager for the governor in Southern California, will speak in Birch Park Thursday night following the concert to be given by the Municipal band under the direction of D. C. Cianfoni.

J. P. Baumgartner, of Santa Ana, member of the state highway commission, will preside, according to an announcement made today by Freeman Bloodgood, of Santa Ana, Orange county manager for the Young campaign. KREG, Santa Ana radio station, will broadcast the addresses by remote control.

CHAMBER HEADS TO CONSIDER NEW ROAD

ORANGE, Aug. 19.—Meeting to consider the proposal to install a cutoff between Orange and Olive on the highway from the Santa Ana canyon, the board of directors of the Orange community Chamber of Commerce will discuss the new proposition Thursday at 1:30 p. m., following the meeting of the Rotary club.

H. D. Nichols, president of the Chamber of Commerce and the proponent of the new road, stated today that hte road would eliminate two sharp turns, increase the value of the property owners, lessen the running time between Orange and Olive and provide a double highway in place of one. If the board directors ratify the highway, it is probable that the property owners will be sounded out to determine the reaction to the new cutoff.

The proposed route of the road is t ofollow the Santa Fe railroad from a point near Fletcher road to the junction with Glassell street at Taft avenue, it was pointed out. The cutoff would be paved with concrete and would be the same width as the present road. The distance is approximately one mile.

PLAYGROUND NEWS

Friday afternoon a special assembly was called at the Edison playground to award the gold and silver certificates earned during the summer season. A brief program preceded the awarding of the certificates. Donna Baker played a selection upon the piano; short readings were rendered by Irene Wyckoff, Selma Allred and Margaret Brugger. A playlet entitled "The Lost Teeth," presented by Blanche and Gus McCuiston, Donna and Gertrude Baker, kept the audience chuckling.

L. W. Archer, playground supervisor, gave a talk on the object and value of the playground activities which he illustrated with several stories about real boys. Archer then presented the youngsters with their certificates. The following received silver certificates; Gus McCuiston, Billy Musick, Hugh Nelson, Malcolm Nelson, Oliver Quick, John Gallegos, Philip Manriquez, Maurice Birt, Louis Holmes, Kenneth Johnson, Joe Koral, Beveredge Nelson, Robert Reid, Virginia Cyr, Katy Dahm, Helen Coral, Doris Hossfield, Kathrine Goon, Blanche McCuiston, Florence Nelson, and Violet Wyckoff, while Eugene Boggs, Tony Manriquez, John Birt, Chas. Maxwell, Silma Allred, Etta Launsbury and Irene Wyckoff received the gold certificates.

There were about 75 children present requesting the elementary group. Mrs. Gus McCuiston, Mrs. Baker, Mrs. Bronmen and Miss Mabel Miller were guests during the program.

The indoor teams both met with defeat at Roosevelt's hands. The elementary boys were defeated eight to nine after a hard fought game, while the senior boys lost more heavily 14 to seven due partly, perhaps, to the absence of three regular Edison players.

Doris Hossfield, Selma Allred, Edna Steele, Manuel Reyes, Eldon Steele, Tony Manriquez, Virginia Cyr and Oliver Pickens represented Edison at the paddle tennis tournament. They brought home two second places.

Franklin Playground

It has been a grand week at our playground, for every one has been so busy getting ready projects for the exhibit or for tournaments at the different playgrounds.

We won first place in the junior high school singles in paddle tennis, through our champion, Willard Noe, and also we won the girls' doubles with Thelma Sharp and Florence Seeber playing for us.

—Richard Clem.

Mr. Berry, our coach, took the junior high school team to Long Beach on Thursday evening and we had a fine time at the beach. It's fine to play for Franklin.

—Willard Noe.

Mrs. Sharp, Mrs. Harmon, Mrs. Hedley, Mrs. Williams and Mrs. Seeber are visiting us nearly evedy day and helping us in our wish to make Franklin the best playground in the city. They are on the P.-T. A. committee and sponsors all the good things we do. Many of the dads and older brothers come late and play or look on at the games and we like that too.

—Patricia McClure.

Many of our boys and girls are off on their vacations but we are having more new members and an attendance of over a hundred every day. Thursday we had one hundred and forty-three.

—Opal Seeber.

We have 124 boys and 95 girls enrolled making a total of 217.

Lincoln's elementary boys played Franklin's. It was one of the best games that has been played. The score at the end of the eleventh inning was 7 to 8 favoring the Lincoln boys.

—Jimmy Klepper.

Lowell Playground

The junior high boys had a very interesting game. Friday afternoon when they played the boys from Lathrop playground. The score was 6 to 5 in favor of Lathrop. The stars from Lowell were as follows: Gerald Page, Tom Hammell, Pressel Baker, and Leonard Lochart.

Several of the girls have made Hawaiian leis of Orange and red crepe paper. Barbara Paull made a hula skirt out of newspaper to go with her leis.

On Thursday, August 14 the elementary boys from Lowell scouted a game with Edison. We are very proud to have boys who will go to other grounds and conduct their own game. Lewis Woods took charge.

Boyer Predicts Big Market For Fruit In Europe

Boyer, president of the Santiago Orange Growers' association, who was back in Orange today, after a five-month tour of Europe in company with his wife and Mr. and Mrs. Sam Nau of Tustin.

According to Boyer, Sunkist fruit was found nearly everywhere in Europe and the name Sunkist is widely known, especially in England, Germany, Sweden and Norway. Boyer was of the opinion that Germany and the Scandivanian nations offered an unexcelled market for California oranges.

While abroad, the party attended the Passion play at Oberammergau and saw the midnight sun on four successive nights at the North Cape. Other countries visited were France, Germany, Austria, Norway, Sweden and Czechoslovakia.

California is the "White Spot" of America!

Keep It White by Re-Electing

Governor C. C. YOUNG

California, in this period of economic stress, has less of unemployment, less of business depression, less of general distress, than any other state in the Union—UNDER GOVERNOR C. C. YOUNG'S MANAGEMENT.

California, at this critical period, vitally needs a steady hand at the helm. It needs more of the constructive economy that has given California's state government two major tax reductions, lowered operating costs and a $30,000,000 surplus. When unemployment threatened, California's highway building program was speeded up until today more than $3,500,000 is being spent monthly in building California roads with California labor and California materials.

GOVERNOR YOUNG

Southern California's Friend

Governor Young has done more governmentally for this section of the state than any Governor in our history. During his administration there has been spent or appropriated out of State Revenues for specific purposes, in addition to funds for regular current departmental expenditures, like Industrial Relations, Natural Resources, Agriculture, Public Health, and University of California, the tremendous sum of—

$150,000,000 for the SOUTHLAND

All districts of the state have been fairly treated, as the need for state aid or service has appeared, and at the same time through efficient and economical management the

State surplus increased to $30,000,000

THE RECORD OF GOVERNOR C. C. YOUNG

$30,000,000 treasury surplus. Highway financing placed on "pay-as-you-go" basis.

$18,000,000 SAVED in highway bond and interest charges.

Tax crisis met effectively and fairly, averting threatened loss of $22,000,000 in bank and corporation taxes.

130 bureaus consolidated into 13 strong government departments.

Park system launched; "Save-the-Beaches" movement inaugurated. Forestry patrol more than doubled.

Hoover-Young water commission secured to solve water relief problem.

Colorado River development forwarded.

Pensions provided for needy aged and blind.

100 per cent Labor program—ranked as finest in the United States.

HOW ORANGE COUNTY HAS BENEFITED BY THE YOUNG ADMINISTRATION.

Rural School Supervision	$ 8,400.00
State Highways—New Construction, Reconstruction and Maintenance	1,582,297.54
County Highway Allotments—Motor Vehicle Tax, Gas Tax, Etc.	1,539,542.93
Education—Elementary, High and Junior College	2,662,611.32
Social Welfare, Aid to Orphans, Needy Aged and Blind	75,321.99

Veterans' Home and Farm Loans	323,280.00
Park Projects	308,000.00

Governor Young has had 10 years' experience as assemblyman, 8 years experience as Lieutenant Governor, and nearly 4 years as Governor. Compare this broad, successful experience with the limited experience of his opponents. If you would apply the same business principles to the selection of a business manager of our state that you would to the selection of a manager of any enterprise in which you might be personally or financially interested, you will naturally and logically vote to LET GOVERNOR YOUNG CONTINUE TO KEEP CALIFORNIA THE MOST PROSPEROUS STATE IN THE UNION.

BUSINESS MEN ENDORSE LAMBERT FOR AUDITOR

The best endorsement, the best recommendation, any man can have is that his associates and co-workers speak well of him.

The man who can win support from those who know him best is certainly worthy of the support of others. They can depend upon a united public recommendation of a man's friends, remembering that a friend is one who knows your faults, as well as your virtues, AND STILL LIKES YOU.

W. T. Lambert, candidate for county Auditor, is such a man, and he comes to you with the united support of his business associates and friends in Garden Grove, where he was cashier of the Citizen's Bank, and in Laguna Beach, where he is editor and publisher of the South Coast News.

He is qualified for the job, he will devote his entire time to the duties of the office, and we unhesitatingly recommend your vote for him, and those of your friends, at the election next Tuesday, August 26.

District Rebekahs To Celebrate Founding Of Order

PICNIC SLATED AT IRVINE PARK SEPTEMBER 12

ORANGE, Aug. 19.—Plans for what will be the first formal celebration of the founding of the Rebekah lodge were made at a meeting of committee members of district No. 50 in the Orange I. O. O. F. hall last night. Clayton Allen of Anaheim, district deputy grand master of Odd Fellows, presided at the meeting and Emil Roedick acted as secretary.

A picnic dinner to be held at Irvine park on September 12, was chosen as a fitting observance of the founding of the organization 79 years ago. The lodge was founded September 20, 1851.

Arrangements for the dinner include dancink and a program and it is hoped that Cyrus Palmer of Orange, past grand master of the state, may be secured as the speaker. Reservations are to be made for 400 guests. Clayton Allen and Mrs. Fannie Barker, district deputy president, are in charge of the program.

All members of the district committee were present at last night's meeting, eight Rebekah and seven subordinate lodges being represented. It was brought out at the meeting that while the founding of the Od dFellows lodge has been celebrated for a number of years on what is called "Wiley day," no day has ever been set aside for the celebration of the auxiliary of the I. O. O. F.

Miss Helen Kromer, noble grand of Ruby Rebekah lodge of Orange, was in charge of the regular meeting of the organization which was held following the meeting of the district committee. One new member, C. Muerham, was accepted as a member of the local lodge, by transfer. Muerham was formerly a member of the Woodlawn, Calif., Rebekah lodge.

An interesting program included musical numbers by the harmonica band of the American Legion Boy Scout troop. The band is under the direction of Mrs. Harvey Riggle. Mrs. Abbie Gould, past state treasurer of Missouri, was introduced and gave a talk. Refreshments served by Mr. and Mrs. Star Bachlor and Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Ackley.

Mrs. Alice Shell and Mrs. Mary Evans of Orange, represent the local Rebekahs on the district committee.

MODERN GIRLS GIVEN PRAISE IN VILLA PARK

VILLA PARK, Aug. 19.—Dr. W. M. Tipple, pastor of the Villa Park Congregational church, spoke on "Responsibility" Sunday morning. His text was from Matthew, 22:14, "Many are called but few are chosen." His sermon fellows:

"The discussion for today does not deal with the question whether there is a life after this or whether there is a heaven or hell. It deals with the reason why many are called but few chosen here and now. Man is rejected because he refuses to accept the overtures of the living God. Not because of any predestination or fatalism. There is no lack of love on God's part. If God ever rejects, it is because in the hearts and lives of men they have rejected His power.

Tragedy and Ruin

"How true or untrue is this version of human responsibility over against God? By studying this parable in the light of our own lives perhaps we can find out. First, we note in this parable the dark colors of tragedy, sorrow and ruin. A number of foolish people despised the invitation of their king. They show themselves insulting and rebellions. They are destroyed for their pains. One man accepts the invitation, but he comes not arrayed in a fitting garment. The king sees him and has him cast out. In brief that is the story.

"All is tragedy. There is no redeeming feature to brighten 'For many are called but few chosen.' Is this in any sense a picture of what life is or may be? We are seekers after truth. We want to know the why. We want to succeed in this life. We want the best and the best is for us. Why do we not always receive it? 'Many are called but few chosen.'

Life Mystery

"This universe and this life in the universe are mysteries. Mysterious also is the death that comes ultimately. We want to solve the mysteries; to learn the truth. Unless the mysteries are solved—unless the truth is acquired, man can not be completely happy. Browning says 'Life has meaning; to find its meaning is my meat and drink.'

"What about the meaning of this life? Where did the world come from? Where did humanity come from? Is there back of everything a God? Is our life guided by a supreme power? Many philosophical systems have been built up by reason to explain the mysteries.

"Thinkers like Socrates, Plato, Aristotle, Bacon, Spinoza, Voltaire, Locke, Rousseau, Hegel, Kant, Descartes, Schopenhauer, Spencer, Nietsche, Bergson. These have come and gone.

"The effort has been made and still is being made through reason. to secure the truth. With all the philosophy of the ages we still find many called but few chosen.

Man Seeks Truth

"Man yearns to discover the truth. How shall we build to truth? How may we be chosen? We try to reason it out but it leads us to chaos. Then we say God is to blame. I am wondering if the responsibility does not rest with man. We do not reason first—first we have our experience—build from that.

"Knowledge cannot come from intellect alone. It comes only when deep has called successfully unto deep. When soul has held communion with the soul eternal. Experience is the route to truth.

"Who is responsible for success or failure? Is life always satisfactory and the end sublime? Do not some lives have bad endings? Are there not some who destroy themselves with their folly? Are there not real tragedies in life? If a man despises the law of health must we not admit that he is digging his own grave and that he alone is to blame? If the laws of the universe and of God are broken who does the suffering? Life is wonderfully glorious when we are in health and the sun is shining in the sky and the world is full of beauty.

"If there is a divine rejection, if many are called but only a few chosen, why is this the case? Is God a demon-god who destroys the chances of men?

"The people of the parable were people of privilege and opportunity and so are we. There is wisdom a plenty, wealth which we can gain. At our feet is poured all the heritage of the centuries. We can profit by it if we will.

Girls Are Frank

"Why are some lives such a failure? Some are rejected because they have tried to shift the responsibility. The responsibility rests with the individual. With the older generaton as with this. Some are belittling the womanhood of today. This is one of the most discussed questions. Every day we hear that their moral standard is lower as the years go by. That they are not the equal of their mothers in morals or ability. That they are frivolous, unstable; not fit to become mothers. There is not one word of truth in it. The womanhood of the United States was never better. The girls are just as moral and their ability just as great as at any time in the past. They are more frank and open in their ideas of life it is true. They openly discuss questions that bring a blush to their mother's cheeks. But in so doing they are meeting life face to face, and with a knowledge of its pitfalls and errors.

"We must wake up to the fact that those of this generation are straight honest thinkers. They are not fooling themselves, and do not want to be fooled. Just because we of the older generation do not agree with them is no reason to believe them wholly wrong. The welfare of this nation rests in their hands and their responsibility will not be misused. They are not placing the whole burden on the shoulders of God.

"If we fail to receive the best in this life and the life to come—it is because we ourselves reject it. If we are not chosen, it is no one's fault but our own.

"Many are called but few are chosen'."

GAS EMPLOYES START LAYING ORANGE PIPES

ORANGE, Aug. 19.—Another step in the policy of the Southern California Gas company of replacing a certain amount of gas mains each year was being completed this week on the block between the plaza and Maple street on North Glassell avenue.

Work on the long 700-foot ditch began Monday morning, when 25 men followed three pneumatic drills with picks and shovels and dug down to the old gas main, which has been in continuous operation for nearly 30 years. According to Charles Berge, foreman, the work of replacing the large main will be comparatively rapid to the slower task of connecting the stores with smaller service lines.

Berge estimated that the project would be completed by the end of this week with little loss of gas supply to the consumers at any time. The main pipe being laid on Glassell avenue is three inches in diameter while the service pipes vary from one inch to two inches in width.

The main follows the west side of Glassell avenue about five feet from the curb and makes it impossible to park automobiles on that side of the street. It also tends to hinder the traffic around the plaza because only a narrow driveway is left between the end of the ditch and the circular park. It was necessary to extend it into the plaza circle in order to connect with the 12-inch gas main which follows Chapman avenue from east to west.

SABBATH RULES DISCUSSED BY EL MODENA MAN

EL MODENA, Aug. 19.—The Rev. Joseph G. Reece, pastor of the El Modena Friends church, discussed "Heart Felt Religion" in his Sunday morning address. His sermon in part was as follows:

"Two texts are needed to show two types of religion. Both are found in the same chapter, Matt. 5, verses 8 to 20. Verse 8 shows what kind of religion will take you through to God, and verse 20 reveals the kind that will in no case help you into heaven. In the early part of His ministry, Christ comes to the very crux of pure and undefiled religion. Is it just an act of outward form and ceremony or does it so effect our lives that it flows out from our very intermost nature, the heart?

"Our righteousness must exceed that of the scribes and pharisees if we expect to enter heaven. We are led to ask who are these people. Speaking in terms of today, we would refer to them as the bishops, clergy, professional and church leaders. I believe that our Lord is trying to teach us here that we are not to pattern our Christian lives after some preacher or other church leader but look away beyond and see Christ. We will get in trouble every time we follow and look to human leadership and fail to see the leadership of Christ.

"What does our religion mean to us, of what does it consist?

"Let us notice that of the scribes and pharisees, of which Jesus told us we must possess more. We are not to despise what they have, but we must have more. What did their religion consist of? It was a ceremony, a profession, dead adherence to dead formalism, synagogue going, word splitting, hand washing and an elaborate system of trifling and refining. It was rules and regulation. A law here and a law there. Just notice some of their rules for Sabbath observance. It was unlawful to untie a knot with two hands on the Sabbath if you could untie it with one. You might carry a burden on one shoulder but it was a sin to carry it between the shoulders or have some one to help you. It was a serious break if you carried a loaf of bread on the street, but it was all right if you had some one to help you carry it. It was considered wrong to visit on the Sabbath so these scribes would take a chain and place it at one end of the street and another chain at the other end and call the space between an enclosure and thus they were able to visit, feast and live high. It was bad policy to travel on the Sabbath over 2000 cubits, but where ever you placed a loaf of bread that was your home. So these scribes would take a loaf of bread on Friday and go 2000 cubits and leave their bread. Sabbath morning they would walk 2000 cubits to the loaf and then they would begin their days journey from the loaf. Sitting down to a meal without washing of hands was placed in the same catagory as killing a man. These are just samples of what was done on one day. Religion to them was a system of rules and rigid ceremony. The condition of their hearts was just the same as though they had never kept a single law.

"There is a possibility of being deceived. These scribes and pharisees thought they were right. How important that we look beyond human ingenuity and find God's leading.

"The eighth verse gives us a positive, direct and absolute statement on how to see God. There is one condition—a pure heart. We cleanse water and call it pure. We take all the rocks, stumps and weeds out of a field and call it clean. We refine gold from all the impurities and call it pure. Surely God in all His glory and majesty, and as the creator of the heart, can give each of us a pure heart. Surely God would not lay down this condition of seeing Him unless He meant for us to have it. God does not ask impossible things of us. God can not only cleanse and transform the heart but He can keep the heart pure."

CARTON BEING USED TO SELL FRUIT IN EAST

ORANGE, Aug. 19.—Declared to be the newest means of selling California oranges on the eastern markets, a new type of carton holding one dozen oranges has been perfected by the California Orange association of 119 West Chapman avenue and will be put in operation in the east at once.

Kansas City will be the first city to be equipped with the new system, association officials declared. The Owl Drug company has signed a contract to handle the cartons in all its stores, said to the first time this national organization has attempted to sell any perishable fruit.

The cartons contain one dozen oranges and are very attractive, being gold colored and covered with gold cellophane paper. Each box is hermetically sealed and has the date of packing stamped on it. Every 48 hours, the boxes are collected by the packers and refilled with fresh fruit, insuring the purchaser only the freshest oranges at all times. The association maintains its own staff of truck drivers and packers, who are also stockholders in the company.

Besides the cartons, unique vending machines are also being placed throughout the east. By placing a nickel in the slot, the buyer receives an orange which is in full sight at all times. These machines were first perfected for the sale of apples but the oranges were recently introduced.

The oranges to supply the market will be purchased from the packing houses of Orange county. They will be shipped in carload lots to the east where the distributing will be done in the individual cities by association employes. The main offices are in Los Angeles while a branch office is operated in Orange with Guy Richards and A. N. Townsend in charge.

A PLAIN STATEMENT OF FACTS

By

COUNTY AUDITOR JEROME

On Tuesday, August 26th, the citizens of Orange County will be deciding a very serious business question. They will be electing officials of the biggest business in the County. They will be selecting the men and women who will handle, for four long years, the intimate details of a corporation whose income last year was over ten millions of dollars, the proper administration of which will very vitally concern every man, woman and child in the county.

It is not a matter to be settled lightly or where passion, sympathy, prejudice or likes and dislikes should have a part.

It should call for cool thinking, sound judgment and careful consideration, for on the outcome depends much of the prosperity, happiness and well-being of the County. This, I am saying to you as a citizen and taxpayer.

The citizens of Orange County have nearly always chosen wisely in the past, and to this fact is largely due the splendid reputation this County has always had in this State. It has been looked up to as a model of clean, well managed government, where any citizen who desires can have an exact accounting of every penny spent and received and where no evidence of graft has ever been found.

The County Auditor's office, of which you elected me the head sixteen years ago, is the clearing house for all the financial transactions of the County. Not one penny enters the Treasury without our order and no money for any purpose is spent except on our approval as to legality, and the Treasurer and Auditor and their bondsmen are responsible for any illegal expenditures. We are not responsible for the wisdom of the expenditure, but we are for the legality. This puts us in the position occasionally of withholding approval of expenditures that some people think are proper, and subjects us to unjust criticism.

THROUGH ALL THESE YEARS NO GRAND JURY, COURT, OR EXPERT HAS EVER CAUSED US TO CHANGE A FIGURE IN YOUR ACCOUNTS.

It is a record of which we are proud and we submit it to you for your consideration.

The duties of the auditor's office are probably as little understood by the average citizen as any office in the Courthouse. By many it is looked upon only as a bookkeeping office, when the facts are that this is only one of many functions. The tax department alone requiring more deputies than the bookkeeping.

Our heaviest and most exacting duties come in the months of July, August and September, and due to this fact the Auditor has little time to spend campaigning for re-election.

We have tried to serve you well, I believe we have, I have no new promises to make. What we have done in the past, we will try to do better in the future. We deeply appreciate the fine friendly support we have had in the past, and hope to be considered favorably next Tuesday.

KREG ADDRESS IS DELIVERED BY McFADDEN

Ralph McFadden, candidate for nomination as sheriff of Orange county, last night delivered a talk over KREG in which he declared that, in presenting himself as a candidate, he did so with confidence in his ability and capacity to measure up to the requirements and responsibilities of the office.

He declared that, if elected, he will strive to keep Orange county a pleasant and wholesome place in which to live, to enforce the law and maintain order.

"If elected, I will take an oath to do that very thing and independent of any oath, that thing I will do," he asserted. "In making that statement, I do so without any mental reservations, and I wish to make plain that I think too much of my personal integrity to be the goat for bootleggers or other violators of the law and the decency of the community."

McFadden, who was born in this section before it became Orange county, who has served as one of the first highway commissioners, as harbor commissioner, on the fair board and on important committees of the Associated Chambers of Commerce, declared that it is the duty of voters to "analyze the applicants as carefully as would the board of directors of a large corporation analyze a similar group of applicants for the important position of manager."

The candidate pointed out that, as city councilman of Anaheim, he assisted in "abolishing the saloons before the day of the eighteenth amendment, when saloons were operated pursuant to law. "Can anyone doubt what my attitude will be toward those who seek to operate in violation of the law?", he asked.

Pointing out that many unincorporated communities in the county have grown to the point where services of the sheriff should be more available, McFadden stated that, if elected, he would cooperate with the board of supervisors in an endeavor to work out some satisfactory plan that will make available to all the county, in the most effective manner, the services rendered by the office of sheriff.

"Should I be your sheriff, it will be my care to select to assist me only such men and women that are in harmony with my program and who have no obligation other than a clean, wholesome performance of duty.

"I will be ever ready to listen to and heed the advice and suggestions of those who have the welfare of our county foremost in their hearts, for it is only by such cooperation that your sheriff can approximate perfection in his service."

PHILCO RADIO DISPLAYED AT TURNER STORE

After carefully inspecting these latest radio models, the public will agree, radio values are higher than at any other time in the history of the industry—more new desirable features at new greatly lowered prices.

Tone control, acclaimed miracle by radio engineers, enables the operator to use his own personal touch to secure the finest reception from each radio program. Through Philco's tone control, four positions of tone quality—brilliant, bright, mellow, deep—enable the user to instantly change the tonal pitch of the program to suit his individual taste and mood. Also stations which come in harshly in poor locations, or are marred by "interference," now by turning tone control to mellow or deep, may be thoroughly enjoyed. Thus, many additional fine programs are made available.

Philco's new illuminated station recording dial is designed so that favorite stations may be permanently logged and turned in quick! yand easily.

The new automatic volume control will prove a great boon to distance fans, especially, for it counteracts fading, so that listeners cannot only get, but hold and enjoy th efine programs of far away stations.

The new models include console, lowboy, highboy and combination radio-phonograph, and have been richly but simply designed.

The compact 7-tube console has been ideally designed for the requirements of the modern, small living room. It is made of genuine butt walnut and birdseye maple.

The 9-tube highboy is an exceptionally artistic cabinet of American walnut, with 100 per cent figured matched walnut pilasters and instrument panel. Has automatic volume control and built-in aerial.

The 9-tube radio-phonograph is an exquisite cabinet of American black walnut, matched butt walnut and oriental wood. Has automatic volume control, built-in aerial and new tone-arm pickup and electrical reproduction of recorder through the radio set.

CORY TALKS ABOUT WINTER COVER CROP

Editor's Note:—The talk by Acting Farm Advisor W. M. Cory, given over KREG last night, and of which an outline is published below, will be printed in full on the Farm page of The Register next Saturday.

Acting Farm Advisor W. M. Cory delivered a talk over KREG last night in which he pointed out that consideration should be given at this time to the adoption of a soil building program for many field and horticultural crops. He stressed need for cover crops, telling what beneficial results follow their use and listing some of the best crops to plant.

In concluding his remarks Cory said:

"It can be said that if a good growth is obtained it has the value of from three to five tons of ordinary manure. Since this can be obtained at little added cost other than the cost of seed and irrigation water there are but few groves where the growing of a winter crop would not be an economical procedure. It will serve to build up organic matter and nitrogen content of the soil, both of which are essential plant foods."

La Junta, Colo.—"After my little daughter was born, one of my neighbors persuaded me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to build me up. The first bottle made quite a change in me. I got an appetite and can sleep much better, I am not so nervous as I was. I have six children and do all my own work. S. A.-WHITTIER SERIES OPENS TONIGHT

MRS. BABE IS BABE'S BOSS

BY PAUL HARRISON
(NEA Service Writer)

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—Babe Ruth may not club the Yankees into a pennant victory this year, but he is almost certain to break his own world's record for home runs. That, at least, is the expert opinion of his diminutive manager, who, settled back in a spacious chair intended for the Bambino's mighty frame, talked eagerly of baseball and, particularly of the Babe.

"We're making the best of a not-too-good season," said Mrs. Ruth. "I don't give the Yankees much chance for the pennant. . . We had a bad start. But Babe's injured hand is about well now, and he ought to be lifting them over the fence for the rest of the season. He's confident he'll break his record of 60 home runs . . . I am too.

No Fat Ones for Ruth

"But you know they pitch differently to him than to anybody else. Many a bad ball a mile from the plate is driven into the bleachers just because he'd rather strike out than walk. You've no idea how much he hates to walk. Still, you can't blame the pitchers . . . they want to win their games."

"I was a pretty ardent fan for ten years before I married Mr. Ruth, and now, of course, the game dictates practially ever minute of our lives."

Friends of the Sultan of Wham will tell you, however, that his pretty brunette bride of a year and a half is the one who does the dictating. Gone are the days when all fandom was deeply concerned with his consumption of hot dogs and pop and sodium bicarbonate, when his averdupois went up in inverse ratio to his batting average, or when he'd break training to sit up with the boys until 3 in the morning.

Easy to Keep Babe Fit

"Really, though, it's an awfully easy job to keep him fit," said Mrs. Ruth. "He takes orders beautifully, though it means leading a pretty secluded and unsocial life."

Friends who come to the big eleven-room apartment on Riverside drive know that their hats will be handed them at the stroke of 10:30. For the Babe must be in bed by 11. They know, too, that the latchstring isn't out every night in the week. The Babe must have a few evenings alone with his family of four—his wife and her mother, Mrs. Merritt, Mrs. Ruth's little daughter by a previous marriage, and his own adopted daughter.

The same schedule is followed when the team plays in other

SHAMROCK V COMES IN QUEST OF FAMOUS YACHTING CUP

SANTA ANAN IN PLAY FOR U. S. TENNIS TITLE

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Aug. 19.—Despite the absence of its two greatest stars, Mrs. Helen Wills Moody and Helen Jacobs, California today stood better than an even chance to keep the National women's tennis singles championship.

No less than seven Californians, four of them seeded players, were still in the running as the tournament moved into the second round. Headed by Mrs. Lawrence A. Harper of Oakland, this group came through the first round Monday without effort.

Mrs. Harper, seeded No. 1 of the American group, displayed a wide variety of shots in her match with Dorrance Chase of Boston and proved that her high place in the seeding was justified.

The California group is likely to meet its sternest opposition in Betty Nuthall, English ace and No. 1 in the foreign seedings. Miss Nuthall advanced to the second round without trouble, disposing of Louise McFarland, one of the lesser California lights, 6-0, 6-1.

The younger American stars went into the second round with ease. Eleanor Goss, seeded No. 3, displayed her old time game in defeating Eleanor Cottman, Baltimore, 6-2, 6-2. Sarah Palfrey, Wightman cup player and Boston's chief hope, breezed to a victory over Laura Pittenger, Camden, N. J.

Majorie Morrill, Dedham, Mass., seeded No. 2 and Josephine Cruickshank, Santa Ana, Calif., seeded No. 8, in the American group, and Baroness Levi of Italy, seeded No. 2 inthe invading forces, drew byes in the first round but moved into action today.

Today's outstanding matches found Marjorie Morrill opposed to Clara Zinke, Cincinnati star; Eleanor Goss opposed to Helen Marlowe, Los Angeles; Betty Nuthall opposed to Mrs. A. J. Lamme, Rye, N. Y., and Sarah Palfrey opposed to Mrs. B. F. Stenz, Garden City, N. Y.

Miss Nuthall paired with Sarah Palfrey to form the first seeded team in the doubles, which started today. Mrs. Harper-Edith Cross, Marjorie Gladman-Josephine Cruickshank, and Dorothy Andrus-Marjorie Morrill form the other seeded combinations.

BILL TILDEN WINS FROM NEW YORK STAR

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 19.—Showing an improvement over his play of yesterday, William T. Tilden won from John Millen, New York, in the third round of the 14th annual Newport invitation tournament before a large crowd today, 8-6, 7-5.

Millen kept the national champion moving fast at all times but Tilden seemed to be surer afoot and was hitting better than in his match with Ellsworth Vines jr., yesterday.

Gregory Mangin, Newark, N. J., gained the fourth round by default. Ted Burwell, Charlotte, N. C., scored a neat victory over the English star, H. G. B. Lee, 3-6, 9-7, 8-6, in the first round and E. W. Feibleman, New York, went into the third with a victory over Harris Coggeshall, Des Moines, 1-6, 7-5, 9-7.

Frank Shields, 19-year-old New Yorker, who took the Maine title Sunday, arrived here today to face three successive opponents. He defeated the first, Brainer Whitbeck, Bronxville, N. Y., 6-1, 11-9.

John Van Ryn, East Orange, N. J., gained a second round default and then was extended to three sets before beating David Jones, New York, 3-6, 6-1, 6-3. The victory placed him in the fourth round with Allison, Mangin and Tilden.

EASTERNS SET PACE FOR CITY LEAGUE TEAMS

The first four tied teams to win this week, the Eastern Oil company today was mathematically ahead of all the rest in the Santa Ana City Night Baseball league as a result of its 6 to 2 triumph over the Auto Club of Orange County in the Bowl last night.

"Bomo" Koral was on the firing line for the Easterns and while hit harder than usual was never in serious trouble after his mates got to Everett Berry for a brace of runs both in the fourth and fifth innings.

The Orange County Builders' exchange scored another victory over the Dennis Printers in the eye-opener. These teams were tied for first place at the end of the first half of their split season and indulged in a playoff which the Builders won by taking two straight games. Last night's affair was a regularly scheduled contest of the second half and the Builders won as they pleased, 11 to 2.

City league play will be resumed tomorrow night. The 6:45 affray pairs the American Legion and the Richfield Oilers, two of the tied leaders. The Courthouse and the Excelsior creamery outfits mingle at 8:15.

MEDICINE MEN THINK CARNERA HEALTH TO FAIL

BY DAVIS J. WALSH
(I. N. S. Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—Primo Carnera, I am informed today by medical specialists who have examined this walking box car of a man, is liable to have only another year, possibly two, of normal health and strength before the seemingly inevitable over takes him. After that, it seems, it is quite possible that he will first waste away to a mere hogshead and then decline physically to a point where he no longer will be able to fight, if, indeed, he doesn't become a daily subject for medical attention.

The doctors diagnose him as "pituitary" case, meaning that they believe the gland which regulates the nutrition of bone and other tissues doesn't function properly and won't. In brief, they think that Carnera, having grown abnormally, will now begin to deteriorate with proportionate haste.

"There is absolutely no truth in the report," said Carnera's No. 1 manager, Mr. Billy Duffy, today when confronted with the alleged facts.

But, after all, it is only a question of judgment between Mr. Duffy and the doctors, which naturally places the latter at a disadvantage. Mr. Duffy is his own authority, whereas all they have to depend on is the science of medicine.

However, it is my understanding that the doctors plan to mask their real feelings and go on receiving patients in the regular way, meanwhile leaving Mr. Duffy to take care of the fighter's health. They realize, of course, that he will do what he can toward taking care of his fighter's money. If the man loses the former, for instance, the latter is no good to him and, if he hasn't the latter, the former isn't very important to anybody. It is all so complicated.

Anyhow, the doctors find what they term "indicatory evidence" of the alleged condition in Carnera's cheek bone formation, in the aspect of his nose and teeth and in the formation of his knuckles and they say that a specimen like this will just fritter himself away into what the press boys call a hollow shell.

In addition the doctors view with alarm the Morse system of veins in Carnera's legs, which leaves very little of him that they approve. As a matter of fact if they find anything else wrong, it might be necessary to call in the authorities and have him condemned.

Here and There in Local Sport

A "NATURAL" WASTED

One of the few real "naturals" to cross the pugilistic trail here in months is not likely to be consummated.

Although powerful influences are at work endeavoring to arrange a match at the Orange County Athletic club between "Wild Man" Macias and Romeo Lemon, there seems little chance for it to bear fruit.

A peculiar clause in Macias' contract is the reason.

Many obstacles appear in the way of a Macias-Lemon collision but all these can be cleared except that little clause.

So far he never has violated this rule which was written into his contract. Macias is barely 20 and had to have his parents' consent to box.

NOTHING FOR NOTHING

Don't be misled by reports that it won't cost you anything to get past the doorman at Whittier tonight. The Poet park is situated on school property but the "oday" there is the same as elsewhere—two bits.

Should the Stars get by Whittier and into the Southern California playoffs with Colton, the tariff may be as high as 50 cents for choice vantage points. I understand the American leaguers expect to levy that rate of admission, although Santa Ana officials may hold out for a 35-cent "top," which is plenty.

One of the reasons why night baseball has been so tremendously successful is that it affords entertainment for the whole family at a modest sum.

COLTON EXCITED

Colton is all "hot and bothered" about its forthcoming series with the champion of the National Night league—Santa Ana or Whittier.

President Elmer Coble of the inland circuit has ruled that seats must be provided for all spectators at games played in Colton. The Colton Chamber of Commerce and city council are assembling temporary bleachers from everywhere. They plan to accommodate 3000 persons.

Meanwhile the Colton club is playing a series of exhibition games to remain in condition for the "little world series."

The Reds wil meet Arlington Friday, Riverside Monday and Wednesday and Olive Friday-week.

Colton knocked over all the "hot shots" of the league but dropped a 2-1 decision in 10 innings to Corona, sixth place team, the last night of its season. All of the runs of the gamo were made in the extra frame.

TENNIS ON AIR

Josephine Cruickshank, Santa Ana's brilliant young tennis player who is an outside possibility to win the National women's singles championship Helen Willis Moody is relinquishing this summer, may make her debut as a radio speaker during this tournament.

The Columbia Broadcasting network is going to describe details of the classic and Ted Hussing, its crack sports announcer, will introduce some of the leading players. Miss Cruickshank probably among them. Louis Dailey, president of the United States Lawn Tennis association, and other officials will discuss the progress of the matches in daily radio talks.

The schedule for these broadcasts follows:

Tuesday, 6:15 to 6:30 p. m. (resume.)

Wednesday, 7:15 to 7:30 p. m. (resume.)

Thursday 6:15 to 6:30 p. m. (resume.)

Friday 7:15 to 7:30 p. m. (resume.)

Saturday 2:30 to 5:30 p. m. (play by play report).

The times given are for Eastern daylight saving.

TED THOMPSON RATES AS GOOD MACIAS RIVAL

"Wild Man" Macias, Los Alamitos two-fisted socker who knocked out Matt Codan and Paul De Hate in the same week recently, draws dangerous opposition at the Orange County Athletic club this week.

Promoter H. T. Foust is asking Bill Darnley's rugged protege to fight Willard Tedford Thompson, better known as just plain Ted Thompson, in a 10-round windup to a 34-round "bargain bill" Thursday night.

Thompson shapes up like the best boxer Macias has encountered since the first of the year. The colored man has been beating them all at Culver City, Ocean Park and other comparatively small arenas where he has been working lately.

Among Thompson's souvenirs are Russell Brock, "Sandy" Garrison, Joe Peregrina, Cecil Balding, Jack Grande, Al Hererra, Bob Pryor and Charlie Timms. Students of boxing know this kind of competition averages better than most of Macias' late lamented victims.

Macias completed his training yesterday with a vigorous workout at the Santa Ana gymnasium. He claimed he was in splendid condition. Darnley says he will come in about 154 pounds, which will give him a pound or two on Willard Tedford.

Another newcomer who packs a pretty pretentious record is Frankie Manns, semi-windup rival of Tony Moreno. Like Thompson, Mr. Manns has been main-eventing at harbor clubs with considerable success. Some of his recent foes are Augie de Mille, Ramon Lugo, Kid Avelino, "Dutch" Easter, Johnny Previs, Leo Domingo and Martin Zuniga. Manns is reputed to be a step-forward fighter of the Moreno type so a truly aggressive bout is anticipated.

Other contests this week are "Spike" Harvey vs. Eddie Lozano, six rounds; John Todd vs. Nick Mestas, four rounds; "Bucky" O'Brien vs. "Bull" Carraway, four rounds; Ralph Garcia vs. Henry Pitts, four rounds.

CORNELIUS AND JOHNSON TO BE MOUND RIVALS

Night baseball's "little world series"—at least an important preliminary to it—gets going up Whittier way tonight.

Santa Ana's Stars and Whittier's Quakers, divisional champions, begin a five-game playoff to determine which will represent the National Night Baseball league against Colton for the 1930 Southern California championship.

The second game will be played here Friday, the third at Whittier next Monday, the fourth and fifth on the following Wednesday and Friday, if necessary.

Off past performances, the clubs figure to engage in a long series. It will be a real surprise if one team shows enough ginger ti take the flag in three straight jumps.

Whittier won the first half of the split season all by itself. Santa Ana took the second half but did not cinch first place until the last night of the schedule.

Whittier's Decline Unexplained

Slow away from the barrier, the Stars were lucky to finish third in the half that Whittier won. Weakening or coasting or just plain "dogging" it, Whittier ended fifth for the second half that Santa Ana won. No satisfactory reasons have yet been given for Whittier's decline, and it may take the Santa Ana series to render an explanation.

Santa Ana has a better record for the whole campaign and has been playing so much better ball of late that the team will enter the series a slight favorite.

Whittier is popularly supposed to have the better pitching, while Santa Ana's infield and outfield are rated better, both on offense and defense.

If Hugh Fullerton were doping the series he would pick Santa Ana to win in four games.

The Stars hope to get off in front tonight so they can breathe easier if they have to "dig in" for a prolonged argument with their limited mound corps.

Cornelius to Pitch

There was some talk that Herb Salveson would pull a "Connie Mack" and start Ray Price, the slow-ball expert, in the opener, but this is not likely. Salveson intimated he would use Joe Cornelius, the iron man ,himself who won 20 games while losing three for the Stars since May 1. Cornelius has worked seven games in succession.

Some of the folk thought Price might draw the first assignment because he has never opposed Whittier, whereas Cornelius has three times and lost twice.

There is no doubt but that if Price, as a surprise starter, could turn in a victory, Santa Ana would be in the "drivers' seat" with Cornelius getting the call for the second game in the Bowl.

PITCHING AND HITTING

If you would have a lesson on the importance of pitching, even though the ball be lively, the best town in which to study it is Philadelphia. In quaint old Quakertown, the Phils are leading the National league in batting, and they are last in the pennant race. In the other league the Yankees, Indians and Senators are hitting above the Athletics, yet the A's have the pennant practically cinched.

The Phils have suffered some putrid pitching. The A's mound staff is about the best in either league. There is the answer. Take away Grove and Earnshaw, or shave their effectiveness by say 20 per cent and you would see a race in the American league like that of the National. Thirty games mean a lot on this side of the ledger or that.

The Phunny Phils have basked baseballs all over the place, yet they get nowhere. The combined batting average of three men on the team—Klein, O'Doul and Sherlock — is something like .380.

TOO MANY BLOWS

Here is what the increased number of long hits has done: It has reduced the quantity known as batting power. Three hundred hitters used to be sluggers. But that's no hitting any more. The good hitters bat around .400 now, and almost anybody who knows how to stand up to the plate can get at least one out of four. Hitting doesn't mean so much these days. The importance of a hard-hitting ball club has been minimized.

The Phils right now have scored about 700 runs. They have averaged nearly seven runs per game. In the days of Doyle, Cobb and Wagner, when pitchers were tougher than they seem to be at present, seven runs would have won almost any ball game. Yet the Phils have lost almost twice as many games as they have won.

There's another reason. Everybody is hitting long drives. In the National league, out of 100 players who have been hitting .215 or better, only 16 have failed to hit home runs. In the American league, out of about the same number with a similar average

SHOOTING with SHUTE

by DENNY SHUTE

I discussed in a recent article the value of watching star golf players in action. As an example, I'd like to tell you of what happened in Columbus, O., my home town.

The Scioto Country club of Columbus was the scene of the National Open tournament in 1926. Up to that time, a Columbus golfer had never won a title of importance, aside from the women's state championship by Mrs. Curtis Sohl back in 1921.

Then came the open championship and the whole golfing population seemed to wake up. So much pep was generated that last year Columbus golfers won nearly everything in which they competed.

I won the state championship in 1927 while I still was an amateur. Bill Deuschle, another Columbus boy, won it the next year—and 20-year-old Johnny Florio of Columbus won it last year. Florio had caddied for Gene Sarazen while the former open champion was practicing at Scioto and he freely admits that he got the golf to win the state title from observing Sarazen.

Aside from the National Amateur, in which Florio played, and the National Open and National P. G. A., in which I took part, a Columbus player won every event in which there were Columbus players entered last year. Possibly it's merely coincidence. I think it's mainly inspiration.

cities. The home run star takes his meals in their room, and spends his evenings listening to the hotel radio or the portable phonograph which is a part of their luggage. Even at the southern training camp last spring Mrs. Ruth refused to take an apartment, or even a suite, knowing that friends would abuse his big-boyish hospitality at a critical time in his conditioning schedule. As a result, the wealthy Ruths lived in a single room.

Likes to Hear Wife Play

Sweeter to him than the cheers of the fans is popular and semi-classical music, especially from the grand piano which his wife often plays. She once taught music in her home town of Athens, Ga. Before that she had attended Bereau college at Gainsville and the State Normal at Athens, incidentally taking some domestic science courses which later were to govern the diet of a sports hero.

"I don't care a lot about doing the cooking," Mrs. Ruth confessed, "but I like to see that it's done right. We're blessed with an excellent cook now, but of course there are lots of times when I get meals myself."

Ham and cabbage is the Bambino's particular passion at the domestic plate. He counts on having it at least once a week. In the winter it's real Italian spaghetti, prepared by Mrs. Ruth. Sometimes when he has been a particularly good boy, extra conscientious in his diet and exercise, or in celebration of a brace of home runs, she turns out a freezer of home-made ice cream. That, to the idol of fandom, is just about the ultimate reward.

Drive Own Automobile

Because Ruth and his wife both enjoy driving their 16-cylinder car—she recently piloted it alone from Detroit to New York—they refuse to have a chauffeur. She now takes him to and from the ball park every day. And because they enjoy the fan mail which pours in from all over the country, they never have a hired secretary.

"Most of the letters, of course, are rather ridiculous," she said. "We get requests for everything from uniforms and baseballs to tickets for the world series. Scores of autograph books are sent in, and bushels of balls for his signature. I answer by hand all the letters that deserve a reply.

"We have complete charge of our business affairs too. Babe and I just talk over investments and salaries and things like that. It seems to me that money is easy enough to take care of once one gets it."

Winter Plans Already Made

Their winter plans are about the same as last year. He'll go hunting in Maryland, and will play golf until snow drives him from the links. Mrs. Ruth gave up the game after one lesson, but she walks around with him for the exercise and companionship.

She declared rather decisively that there will be no barn-storming tour this fall, nor even a vaudeville engagement. They'll go to the theater and football games and prize fights, and will have more of their friends in for quiet evenings at home. Quiet, that is, until Ruth lures his cronies into the billiard room.

The children are now in a camp in Vermont, where she occasionally drives to visit them. The Babe misses them, hopes they'll be home soon. He hopes, too, that there will be some children of their own some day.

The phones rang. "Yes?—Yes—A home run in the third inning? That's fine. Tell him I'm coming up after all. I'll be there in time for the seventh!"

the nomination for Whittier unless old "Rube" Ellis, a foxy coot with a good many years of major league outfielding as a background, trys some strategy, too. Ellis might figure on using "String" McDonnell, usually effective against the Stars, instead of Johnson, who has worked wonders against every other team in the race but Santa Ana.

Wilcox Behind Bat

The rest of either lineup is not quite as puzzling.

"Eeny" Wilcox will catch for Santa Ana, with Bill Cole at first base, Leavitt Daley at second, Bill Hunter at third and "Memphy" Hill short. Randolph Bell, Wayne Nelson and "Rosy" Merrill will be in the outfield.

Ted Rasmussen will be behind the pan for the Quakers. Unless Ellis decides to employ McDonnell at first base for his hitting, the initial sack will be guarded by Ray Johns. Sucksdorf will be at second, either Jertberg or Arley Hill at third and "Red" Moon at short.

Tom Denney, the club's best all-around ball player, will be stationed in left field, "Brass" Davis in center and Sepulveda, Rodriguez or Tom Hill in right field. McDonnell might possibly be in this spot, too. Right field has given Whittier lots of trouble all season.

No seats will be reserved for any of the games at Whittier and, as the seating capacity of the Quaker park is limited, Santa Ana fans are advised to get there early. Game time is 8 o'clock.

All seats will be reserved for the games in Santa Ana. Tickets will go on sale for the Friday contest tomorrow morning at 8 o'clock. They may be procured at Baker's bakery, 214 West Fourth street, or the El Corral service station, Third and Birch streets.

MANDELL IN BREAK WITH HIS MANAGER

CHICAGO, Aug. 19.—Sammy Mandell plans to return to the prize ring in an attempt to regain the world lightweight championship which he lost to Al Singer of New York last month.

In announcing plans for his comeback, Mandell said he was severing relations with his manager, Eddie Kane, and would handle his own affairs.

Kane, who has a contract calling for 50 per cent of Mandell's earnings until July 6, 1931, said he would not interfere with the Rockford boxer, but would insist on securing his share of Sammy's earnings.

Both Mandell and Kane denied that their break was occasioned by a suspicion Mandell was "doped" before his fight with Singer. Sammy denied that he had ever made the "doping" charges attributed to him.

BLAMES IT ON STYLE

One old-timer I talked to recently says he doesn't think the ball is livelier than it was when Wagner was playing.

"Every ball player that goes up to the plate now," he says, "draws back and takes a golf swing at the ball. It's either drive it out of the park or no count.

"The younger players have been influenced I think, by Babe Ruth. The fame that the long clouts earned for the big fellow is what draws them. They pattern their style after his. There are no more choke hitters like Willie Keeler used to be. Balls are supposed to be hit hard."

All of which, it seems to me, increases the value of a pitcher. A young man who can become good enough to hold these sluggers in leash is an even greater asset to a ball team than a couple of Babe Ruths. If you don't believe it, look at he weaoinshdriucmfwypvbb look at the two Philadelphia ball teams.

The Other Bullet

By Nancy Barr Mavity

CHAPTER 16

Long after the name of Aline Everett was all but forgotten by the general public, it was quoted with familiar admiration in the shop talk of the legal profession. The defendant, to be sure, was remembered only as a necessary prerequisite. What happened to Aline Everett was unimportant. It was as an example of brilliant defense against heavy odds that the Everett case achieved fame in California legal history.

The part played by Peter Piper of the Herald in shaping the course of that surprising drama was never mentioned. He held an even less important place in the recital than Aline Everett, for the reminiscent lawyers had never heard of him. Yet if it had not been for Peter, that classic defense would never have become famous, and in all likelihood twelve men and women, modern descendants of the ancient fates, would have spun a different thread of life for Aline Everett.

Jake Carter no longer had time to sit with his feet on the verandah railing. His hotel was filled with city reporters, who demanded ice water at all hours, played poker noisily long after a reasonable bed time, and consumed unlimited quantities of ginger ale. Jake viewed with abysmal contempt anyone who diluted good whisky with any milder beverage. He disliked having his rest disturbed by the clacking of typewriters and the shouting through opened transoms of requests for cigaretts and correct initials. He objected to the honking of automobile horns as press cars tore into the yard in the middle of the night, filled with reporters who had "filed their yarns" at the telegraph office ten miles away and who seemed to think that the occasion called for loud celebration.

Peter alone remained in his good graces.

"All this fuss over a mere shootin'," he said with deep disgust. "Time was when we strung a feller up or let him go, and the whole business didn't take more'n half an hour. You'd think nobody'd ever got a bullet in him before from the racket they make about it. It's plumb spoilin' the summer, that's what it is." He shuffled surlily down the hall in response to a shouted, "Hey!" Jake's hotel was innocent of bells.

"I ain't even got time to read the paper any more," he added pathetically over his shoulder. "And when I do get a look at it, it's all full of what's happenen' right around here, that I know already. What they find to write so much about, I dunno. Here the trial's been goin' on a week, and they're still pickin' a jury. I believe that city lawyer gets paid by the day, and is wastin' time on purpose. Why should he care who's on the jury? One feller's as good as another, say I."

The selection of the jury was indeed a long drawn out affair, eliciting groans from the press as well as the hotel keeper. It was increasingly difficult to make a daily spot news story from the monotonous succession of "excuseds." Moreover, Peter was worried. He wondered if he had made a mistake in selecting Jerome Travis as defense counsel. Tall, handsome, sharp-featured, with a grim mouth and humorous eyes, playing the game with the cautious deliberation of a chess player and with a chess-player's detachment from human values, Travis was easily the leading criminal lawyer in the city. His suave courtesy of manner flashed at times into rapier-keen sarcasm. When he "took an exception," judges had a way of retiring to their chambers at the earliest opportunity, and emerging to announce that they reconsidered their ruling.

His impeccably tailored gray suit seemed in some miraculous manner to shed the yellow August dust which settled on everything in the hot courtroom. The soft collar of his white silk shirt remained immaculate when other collars were wilted. But Peter, the perpendicular line of a worried frown between his eyes, sensed that the figure of Travis had served to intensify the subtle antagonism of a rural community towards an urban interloper.

The first tactical advantage lay with Travis. He had succeeded in disqualifying the local judge, who with undue frankness had express the opinion that "this business of women shooting up whoever they liked and getting away with it had gone too far," Judge Wood, appointed by the Judicial Council to try the case, was at least impartial. With a Vermont accent which decades of residence in California had left unimpaired, he hectored the men and women in the jury box like a patient but sorely tried school master.

Travis wisely hoarded his peremptory challenges, leaving the general questioning to the judge as slip after slip was drawn from the revolving tin box.

"You understand, Mr. Hankins, that it is the province of the court to rule in matters of law. Will you abide by the court's ruling?" the judge repeated for the twenteith time.

"If I think they're right, I will!"

"Now, Mr. Hankins," Judge Wood spoke with elaborate reasonableness, "it is not the province of the juror to determine matters of law but only matters of fact. The court is the sole judge of the law in the case."

Mr. Hankins' round face reddened stubbornly.

"Well, if I thought you was wrong, I'd sure vote again you."

"The court will excuse Mr. Hankins."

Travis drew a neat line through the name of Albert Hankins on the list before him, and leaned back, fingering his gold pencil.

The questions rumbled on.

"You have heard the questions put to the other jurors, Miss Hinman, would you be prejudiced in favor of the defendant because she is a woman?"

"Not when she's that kind of a woman!" The words came with venomous energy from thin and spinsterish lips.

"The defense will excuse Miss Hinman for cause." The gold pencil rapped sharply on the scarred table top.

"Would you be prejudiced against the defendant because she is a woman?" Linforth, the district attorney, interposed.

"I'm certainly prejudiced against any woman who—"

"One moment, please," Travis spoke so quickly that Miss Hinman's pale lips remained half open. "In the interests of time, the defense is quite willing to leave it to his honor to question the juror."

The judge leaned forward.

"Well, now, Miss—er—Hinman, laying such prejudice aside, would you be willing to be tried in a case of this kind by a jury of like mind with yourself?"

Miss Hinman's lips pursed with conscious virtue.

"If I'd acted like Mrs. Everett, I'd certainly think any jury was a parcel of fools that let me off!"

"The court will excuse Miss Hinman."

Again and again the same questions were repeated.

"Conscientious scruples against the death penalty in a proper case ...." At each mention of the death penalty. Aline Everett flinched. She sat at the table next to Travis, but she disregarded him. Her eyes were fixed on the procession of men and women who filed forward to the jury box.

"Mr. Hicks, you have heard what I said to the other jurors. Do you understand the nature of circumstantial evidence?"

"Well, I'll tell you how it is," Mr. Hicks, who had held forth as local philosopher in front of the general store on numerous occasions, leaned back at his ease, pressing the tips of his bony fingers together.

"I wouldn't convict nobody on circumstantial evidence unless I was right there and saw the crime committed."

"But if you saw the crime committed, you would not be allowed to serve as a juror. You would be a witness," the judge explained patiently.

"I've said m ysay, and I'll stick to it. I'd want to see what happened with my own eyes."

Aline's tense face lightened with gratitude and hope.

"The people will excuse Mr. Hicks," Linforth interposed hastily.

"Mr. Linforth, the court is questioning this juror." The judge's lean, worn face with its crown of carefully brushed gray hair turned to the district attorney as if he were a child who had spoken out of turn. Peter somehow expected him to produre a ruler and rap Linforth voer the knuckles with it. "The court will excuse Mr. Hicks."

"I wish he'd go in," she whispered. But Travis shook his head warningly.

"The challenge is with the people..The challenge is with the defense.." The words sang in her ears like some endlessly repeated refrain.

"The people are content."

"And the defense, your honor."

Content! What an odd word to use! Aline's eyes roved over the two rows of chairs in the jury box, resting on each face in turn—faces red and glistening with the heat, faces dry and pinched, faces dull and blank, or self-important or eager with curiosity—the faces of the men and women who could send her to the gallows. Somewhere she had read the phrase, "a jury of your peers." But they were not her peers! "Conscientious scruples against the death penalty in a proper case." They could sentence her to death. She was in the power of those stupid, pompous faces. But they were not her peers. They could kill her, but that did not make her one of them. Going down to death, between those rows of leering faces, hers was still the victory. They could not bring her to their level, nor make her less than herself.

As the jury rose to file out, she opened her small brocaded bag, and with swift, sure fingers drew out her long green holder and deftly inserted a cigarette.

"The challenge is with the defense—"

She challenged them. "Dauntless the slug horn—" She met their inimical eyes with a mocking smile of her carefully rouged lips. A series of perfect smoke rings floated towards the empty jury box. Above the smile her eyes stared straight before her with the glittering brightness of an unsheathed sword.

She scarcely noticed when Travis's long, dry fingers seized her wrist. Unresisting, she allowed him to wrench the cigarette holder from her hand, and grind it under his heel on the court room floor.

COOLIDGE TELLS HOW TO PICK GOOD MEN FOR PUBLIC OFFICE

Pearson Measures Up

Declaring that our government needs good public officers more now than ever before, that the beginning of good government is in good nominations and that the people should nominate the best qualified candidates, Calvin Coolidge, former President of the United States, according to press dispatches Saturday made a statement that fits conditions in Orange county and which may very appropriately be applied to the selection of the right candidate for nomination for sheriff.

He said in part: "At this season we are engaged in selecting candidates. Those now nominated will dominate the government in a few months. The beginning of good government is in good nominations. It is time we gave serious and conscientious attention to our right to vote by nominating the best qualified candidates.

"The people do know men. They can judge of character, ability and experience. Our government never needed good public officers more than now. The people can have them if they will take them. Unless we make our nominations on merit, public questions will not be decided on merit."

This statement is particularly pertinent to the race for sheriff in Orange county. The voters have an opportunity to nominate—and later elect—a man of character, ability and experience, who is unquestionably qualified for the position. They can do it by voting for James M. Pearson, chief of police at Fullerton.

Pearson is a trained peace officer of unquestioned integrity and loyalty. He is a capable executive who has proved his ability — a man whose life will bear the most rigorous inspection—who is interested deeply in good government—who recognizes no "boss" but the voice of the people as expressed through the laws they have adopted.

IMPROVEMENTS ALSO PLANNED BY OFFICIALS

Over the negative vote of Councilman John L. McBride, the city council last night, at its regular session, adopted a resolution providing for the creation of an assessment district for improving Flower street from Walnut to Seventeenth. The proposed assessment district takes in the entire length of Flower street.

Proposed improvements include the opening of the thoroughfare between Fifth and Sixth streets, for which right-of-way must be acquired through condemnation proceedings; the widening of the street from 40 to 70 feet between Washington and Seventeenth; and the straightening of the thoroughfare at First street, removing a jog at that intersection. The cost of securing rights-of-way for the proposed changes will cost about $23,000, City Engineer Clyde Jenken declared.

Mayor Frank L. Purinton, and Trustees W. G. Kelly and B. O. Sutton voted in favor of the project; Trustee John L. McBride voted against it. Councilman Stanley Goode was not present at the meeting. Though McBride did not give any reasons for his opposition, inquiries revealed that he thought that the matter had not been sufficiently discussed among the property owners who will be called upon to foot the bills.

ANNOUNCE PROGRAM OF BREAKFAST CLUB

A very interesting program has been lined up by Dr. Kilbouren, chairman, C. F. (Skinny) Skirvin and Norman Harvey for the Breakfast club meeting to be held Thursday morning at the St. Ann's inn, it was declared today by the committee.

James Rolph, jr., candidate for governor of California, will be the honored guest and will say a few words, not on politics, however. Rolph is making a tour of several Orange county towns and will leave Santa Ana immediately after the Breakfast club meeting.

Robert Brown, owner of the Santa Ana Book store, an done of Santa Ana Book store, and one of Sanwill favor the club members with songs. Alan Revill wil laccompany Brown. President B. Z. McKinney urged a big attendance and also stated the meeting will be open to the public.

Why Fat Men Stay Fat

"The trouble with me, and I guess this applies to 99 per cent of the men who are putting on weight, I didn't have the energy or 'pep' to keep it off. Lost all interest in any healthy activity and just lazied around accumulating the old pounds until I got that 'Kruschen feeling'."

Start taking Kruschen Salts—that's the common sense way to reduce—but don't take them with the idea that they possess reducing qualities in themselves.

This is what they do—they clean out the impurities in your blood by keeping the bowels, kidneys and liver in splendid working shape and fill you with a vigor and tireless energy you'd most forgotten had existed.

As a result instead of planting yourself in an easy chair every free moment and letting flabby fat accumulate, you feel an urge for activity that keeps you moving around doing the things you've always wanted to do and needed to do to keep you in good condition.

Then watch the pounds slide off! Kruschen Salts are the up-to-date Fountain of Youth. Take one-half teaspoonful in a glass of hot or cold water tomorrow morning and every morning—and if they don't change your whole idea about reducing, go back and get the small price you paid for them. Get an 85 cent bottle of Kruschen Salts—lasts 4 weeks—at Mateer's Drug Co., and Givens & Cannon, or any progressive druggist anywhere in the world.—Adv.

Dead Chicken Thief Is-- Just a Skunk

Yesterday at 11:30 p. m., he heard a disturbance in his chicken house and, covering the door of the chicken house with his shotgun, decided to capture the thief as he appeared from the chicken pen.

Silently he waited until cautiously a head appeared in the doorway. He pulled the trigger and the thief fell dead. it was a skunk.

CITY DECIDES NOT TO BID ON WILLARD SITE

Because of lack of funds and not desiring to burden the taxpayers with another bond issue, the city of Santa Ana will not be a bidder for the school property on North Main street, now used as a site for the old Frances E. Willard junior high school, suggested for a civic center, it was learned last night at the city council meeting.

The matter of negotiating for the site was taken up at a conference meeting held yesterday afternoon. Following a lengthy discussion of the various phases of the situation, it was decided to drop the project for financial reasons. In this connection it was learned that an offer to trade the city hall property for the old Willard school site is not favorably entertained by the school trustees, who want cash for the school site. Likewise, inquiries revealed, there are no immediate prospects for selling the city hall property. Negotiations undertaken some time ago to that end were of no avail, it was added.

Mayor F. L. Purinton said that personally he favored the civic center idea, but that the project was out of question at this time because of lack of money.

"The construction of a group of buildings, composing the proposed civic center, would cost several hundred thousand dollars, and I doubt the willingness of the taxpayers to vote a bond issue for that purpose," he declared.

ROCKHILL RESIGNS POSITION IN BANK

Edwin Rockhill, cashier of the Commercial National bank since its organization some time ago, presented his resignation at a recent board of directors meeting, stating that on the advice of his physician, he was leaving because of ill health.

Rockhill will devote his time to outside interests but has not definitely decided what he will do. A. I. Mellenthin, vice president, was appointed to fill Rockhill's place as cashier, and Leland Finley and G. C. Brooks were advanced to the positions of assistant cashiers. Finley was a note teller and Brooks a receiving teller.

SCHOOL TO BE BUILT BY LONG BEACH CONCERN

After receiving a pledge from Charles W. Pettifer of Long Beach, that his company would place the contractor's bond in Santa Ana, employ Santa Ana labor and purchase materials so far as possible in this city, the Santa Ana board of education, with one dissenting vote, last night awarded the general contract for the erection of the Frances Williard Junior High school to the Charles W. Pettifer company of Long Beach.

This company was low bidder for the work at a price of $221,000. The awarding of this contract and the others covering electrical, plumbing and heating work was made in accordance with recommendations of the supervising architects, Allison and Allison.

Total cost of the new northside junior high school plant, as determined by the awards last night, which included some alternates that had been provided for in the specifications, amounted to $277,339. The alternates added $1200 for genuine slate blackboards, $6950 for using battleship linoleum as floor coverings throughout, $420 for a different type of electric clock, and deducted $580 for a change in roofing specification, from the original bids.

Plumbing contract was awarded to Ora King of South Pasadena, at $14,985. The electrical contract went to Cave Electric company of Santa Ana, at $12,680, plus the additional for the electric clock, and the heating contract was awarded to H. O. Ehlen of Orange, at $20,684. The general contract, which went to the Long Beach company, totaled $228,570.

The awards were made on a motion by Dr. Roy Horton, after an executive session of the board lasting for an hour, during which Pettifer was called before the board and an ineffectual effort was made to get in touch with William Rohrbacher, Santa Ana contractor, who was second low bidder on the general contract. The dissenting vote was cast by Herbert Miller, who, it was learned, favored awarding the contract to Rohrbacher, whose bid was $1945 higher than Pettifer's.

Work on the new junior high school will begin as soon as equipment can be moved over from Long Beach, Pettifer stated. It is anticipated that operations will be started next Monday morning at the site, corner of Ross street and West Washington avenue.

S. M. Duff, associated with Pettifer in the contracting company, was also present at the meeting last night. Four operating points will be maintained on the job, in order to handle the concrete efficiently, it was declared, and the general contractors pointed out that there would be 225 men on the job at times after it was well under way. A big crew will not be employed until after excavating and preliminary work is completed.

The new plant probably will be completed late next May, according to an estimate by Pettifer last night. It will be one of the finest schools in Southern California, providing the most modern facilities for junior high school students There will be an auditorium with a seating capacity of 600, main class room, laboratory and office building built on a court style, cafeteria and shop buildings.

JEFFERSON SCHOOL LOCATION PUZZLE AGAIN BEFORE BOARD

A solution of the problem of where to locate the new Jefferson school that has been promised by the Santa Ana board of education to the citizens of the northwest part of the city and for which plans have been prepared, was suggested at the board meeting last night by C. C. Downie, who called attention of the board to a 10 acre tract at the northwest corner of Flower street and Santa Clara avenue, owned by Harry Smith.

It was suggested to the board that this site would be acceptable to the planning commission and city council provided a strip 200 feet deep along Flower street were reserved for home sites facing Flower street. This would leave about 6.6 acres for the board's use, but there was some objection concerning this being too much ground for a school.

Objection also was raised by board members concerning the probable opening of streets through parts of this tract. It was announced by Dr. John Ball that the price for the tract was in the neighborhood of $5000 per acre.

No decision was reached by the board on this matter, it being left open at the present.

An audit of books of the city school system and some additions to the bookkeeping plan now in operation may be undertaken, it developed last night. Some changes have been recommended by a Los Angeles accountant, A. B. Henry, to members of the board to provide a more complete set up, and he is to be invited to confer with the board on this subject at the September meeting. Henry, it is said, found the books here more complete than in most places and in good condition.

SCORES ATTEND 'FAMILY CAMP' IN MOUNTAINS

The "Family Camp" being conducted at Osceola, by the Orange county Y. M. C. A. is proving a drawing card for scores of friends of the Y. M. C. A. who welcome the opportunity to visit this famous recreation ground, so much beloved by the boys who go there from year to year, it was revealed today.

R. C. Smedley, general secretary of the local Y, returning from camp yesterday, reported that 78 people were at Osceola for the week end, and that about 50 are remaining for the entire camp period, while others are driving up for shorter stays.

A very simple program is being carried on, including long nights of sleep and three good meals every day. Swimming, hiking, nature study, golf and other games are enjoyed, while most of the campers are appreciating especially the opportunity for rest and quiet.

The church service at 11 a. m. Sunday attracted campers from outside Osceola. The service was conducted by R. C. Smedley, and the music was in charge of Miss Jacobs, of Orange, who used a choir made up of the younger girls of the camp. The evening campfire was addressed by Mrs. E. H. Brunemeier, of Placentia, who gave an interesting account of her experiences as a missionary in China, and her encounters with bandits there.

The "Osceola Daily Grumbler" is being edited this week by a large staff of reporters and editors. Marian Parsons is editor in chief, while Helen Heil has the position of city editor, with many assistants.

The camp will be crowded again over next week end, and will come to its close next Monday, when the campers will return home, leaving the camp for the annual meeting of the Southern California Hi-Y boys.

Visitors who wish to go to camp for a day or two this week will find accommodations awaiting them there.

LOCAL REVIVAL SERVICES WILL BE CONTINUED

Despite the vacation season, the interest in the revival among the young people of the Church of The Nazarene is increasing, according to the pastor, the Rev. U. E. Harding. The house was packed Sunday evening and many were turned away for lack of seating space. And while Monday night is considered an off night in such campaigns, the house was filled again last night and the Sunday school rooms had to be thrown open to care for the people.

The meetings were scheduled to close last Sunday but the interest seemed to warrant continuation throughout this week.

Last night the young people of the Nazarene churches of Midway City and Placentia attended in a body. The message was delivered by Mendle Taylor, son of the Rev. Taylor, pastor of the Nazarene Church at Brea. The young preacher is but 17 years old, and has had one year in college, but during the vacation season is filling the pulpit for his father, who is spending the vacation in Oklahoma. It was announced that the young preacher will speak again Thursday night in Santa Ana Nazarene church.

Tonight, the young people of Nazarene churches of Ananeim and Fullerton will attend in a body and will put on the musical program, while the Rev. Cora Isham, pastor of the church at Anaheim will preach. The Santa Ana society will be in charge of the services tomorrow night with Ruth Sweeney as speaker.

STUDENTS STOP HERE ON TOUR THROUGH WEST

Traveling in a large auto bus, 25 students of the University of Missouri, on their first annual geography field tour through the western states and Mexico, arrived here last night and registered at Hotel Santa Ana. They have been on the road since August 2, having visited points in Nebraska, Wyoming, including the Yellowstone National park, Idaho, Nevada and Northern California.

The party is composed of both men and women, and the primary purpose of the tour is to supplement courses given at the university by first hand impressions of local conditions, particularly as they relate to development of industry and agriculture.

Traveling with the students are three members of the university faculty: Professor Leslie Fahrner, conductor, in charge of the party; Dr. John Quincy Adams, assistant conductor, and Elmer Keithley, business manager. Mrs. B. M. King is chaperon, and Miss Mary A. Hutchinson is the trained nurse.

This is the first trip west of the Rocky Mountains by most of the members, declared Professor Fahrner, and most of them have been agreeably surprised by the magnificence of the scenery which even surpasses the impression gained from seeing photographs or motion pictures. The students were much impressed with the high state of agricultural development in California, he said.

Plan Caravan For Trip To Convention

Fifteen Orange county cars loaded with Farm bureau members are expected to go to the state convention in Monterey county September 10, 11 and 12, it was announced today.

Southern California delegates will join at Ventura to form a caravan north. Alexander Legge, chairman of the Federal Farm board, is expected to be the principal speaker at the convention. More than 1000 farmers of California are expected to attend.

ORDINANCE ON TAXI QUESTION GIVEN READING

An ordinance, regulating the operation of local taxi companies, passed its first reading at the city council meeting held last night. The ordinance, drafted in a tentative form, will be presented at a conference meeting next Monday afternoon, to be attended by representatives of the bus company and the local taxi concerns.

City Attorney Charles D. Swanner informed the council that ordinances adopted by larger cities, covering the activities of taxi companies, were not applicable to a community like Santa Ana. For this reason suggestions that the taxicabs be equipped with meters and measuring up to certain specifications in design, style and color, were discarded. It also was thought inadvisable to fix rates by establishing zones.

Councilman John L. McBride took the stand that the taxi companies should have the right to fix their own rates, and that the principal purpose of the ordinance should be to regulate competition with the bus lines. Councilman B. O. Sutton thought that the objective could be reached by requiring the taxi companies to furnish individual service, eliminating the assembling of passengers for group loads.

DO AWAY WITH ASSESSMENT FAVORITISM

Vote For
George D. Montgomery
—for—
County Tax Assessor

He is pledged to equalized assessments, which will result in the large landowners paying taxes proportionate to those levied upon the small land owners and home buyers. This will bring about a decrease in taxes for all of us.

FOR INSTANCE:

The Irvine Company owns 98,321 acres, or 23% of the total assessed acreage in Orange county.

The assessed valuation is $7,109,075 or 4% of the taxable valuation of the county.

The Irvine taxes amount to $202,489, or only 3% of the county's total tax, according to records of the county auditor.

THINK OF IT! 23% OF THE ACREAGE PAYS ONLY 3% OF THE TAXES!

Do YOUR taxes, Mr. Voter, conform to any such proportion?

The Irvine assessed valuation is $7,109,075, supposed to represent one-fourth of the market value. But TRY to buy the entire Irvine holdings for $60,000,000! For even $75,000,000.

Does YOUR assessment, Mr. Voter, represent such a ridiculous percentage of the market value of YOUR property?

On the basis of value, and in justice to all other taxpayers, the Irvine ranch assessment should be raised at least $8,000,000. This would mean an increased tax of $212,000, which would bring about lower rates for every taxpayer in the county.

This is only one instance, and there are others, where the average taxpayers are being burdened for the benefit of the few. These glaring inequalities of taxation have already gone on too long.

There MUST BE a change in the office of County Assessor. The only way in which the taxpayers can hope to have assessments equalized is to elect George D. Montgomery to this important office on Tuesday, August 26.

This committee has throughly examined his qualifications and they are without a flaw. If you do not know him personally, we assure you that Mr. Montgomery is the type of man you would be proud of to represent your interests at the courthouse. He is a man of upright character and unquestioned integrity. He is safe, sound, level-headed and broad-minded. He is fearless in the performance of duty; he plays no favorites; he shows no partiality; he caters to no one, and is an independent candidate, seeking your votes as a representative of the public rather than any political group or machine. He is a man big enough to ask and receive advice, but strong enough to withstand any undue influence. He is the man for the job and we urge your vote for him on August 26.

Santa Ana Musician Appearing in Many Eastern Cities

Friends of Edward Delgado, local Spanish baritone, will be interested to know that he has been filling an extensive engagement with one of Fanchon and Marco's musical acts appearing in many of the largest cities, including New York and Chicago.

Before this engagement, Mr. Delgado sang in Paul Whiteman's mighty male ensemble, of the talking picture "King of Jazz," and was one of the twelve singers selected by Paul Whiteman to make the Columbia record "Song of the Dawn." He also appeared with the same orchestra in several radio network programs.

Later Mr. Delgado sang a part in the opera, "Oh, Susanna," presented in Los Angeles and San Francisco. He has received all of his training from Madame Manuela Budrow, of the Hollywood Conservatory of Music, and Santa Ana, where she still maintains her studio.

Vacation Talks Are Given at Meeting Of B. and P. W. Club

Members of the Business and Professional Women's club entertained each other at their luncheon yesterday, for those who have been traveling about during their vacations told of the places they visited and events connected with the period. The vacation talks were preceded by Mrs. Minnie Mayhill's reading a letter from Miss Lulu B. Finley who, with her brother, is touring Europe. The letter was written from Vienna. Abundant rain throughout sections in which she has traveled has brought forth much green grass. At the time she wrote the letter Oberammergau and the battle fields were already among the places visited.

The talks by those who were present were led by Mrs. Wilbur Schopfle, who with her husband, Wilbur Schopfle spent the first week of her vacation in the high Sierras, mostly at Virginia Lakes. The trip was made through Lone Pine and Bishop with a stop for a night or two at the latter place. Virginia Lakes is located at an altitude in excess of 10,000 feet and although it was very beautiful the altitude proved too high for Mrs. Schoepfle and the travelers were forced to a lower altitude. They spent the second week of thier vacation quietly at home. It proved to be one of the most successful and delightful vacations, said Mrs. Schoepfle.

Miss Harriet Whidden, who with Miss Lula Ott visited in the Feather River county during her vacation, gave the second talk. They, too, motored to their resting place via Lone Pine and Bishop and on to Reno and Lake Tahoe, by way of Kinsbury Pass. They deviated from the through route for a visit to Twin Lakes and Lake Mary and Lake George. At Feather River they stayed in a lumbering camp. It was arranged, during the period of their stay, for them to camp out of doors at night, without even a tent. Miss Whidden told of visiting the Oriental branch of the Bank of America, located in China. There she said the employees are practically all women, including a woman manager.

Miss Alma Karlson gave the third talk. Miss Damaris Beem and Miss Karlson went to Hawaii for their vacation. In addition to visiting at the usual points of interest for tourists to the islands they were escorted to points of interest not usually visited by the tourists by welfare workers in Honolulu with whom they made contacts. Miss Karlson particularly deplored the intermarriages on the islands from which have issued children who are social outcasts on the islands and frequently neglected by one or both parents.

Mrs. Hazel Northcross, the president of the organization who presided, announced that a miniature golf tournament had been proposed, with the members playing once a week for a series of weeks, turning in four scores and then holding a final run-off of these with the lowest scores, or those with the lowest and those with the highest as well as the lowest, with an award to the winner. Friday night was selected as the night for play, though members can play at any time on the Tom Thumb golf course at South Main and McFadden streets and turn in their scores with their name and Business and Professional Women's club on them, in the course of the next six weeks. The effort was made to accommodate those who will be on their vacations part of the period.

European Visitors Relate Interesting Tales of Travels

Dr. Peryl Magill and Miss Julia Magill, who have just completed three wonderful years spent in Europe, and who have returned here to make their home on a ranch on West Chapman street, have received a warm welcome from their many friends, who have feted them with numerous teas and parties. The travelers are noting with interest the many changes that have taken place here during their absence.

The recent craze for endurance contests of all descriptions seems especially strange to them, as yet these contests have not been introduced abroad. They remarked, however, that the bull fights, which are fostered by the same instinct as marathons, are yet in full sway in Spain. The bull fighters have the appearance usually supposed to be shared by Spanish men in general, the travelers said, and these popular idols are a handsome, dashing lot, with the picturesque attributes of their profession.

While discussing this land of romance, the travelers remarked that they were especially interested in noting Southern Spain's geographical resemblance to Southern California, finding that both places have an abundance of rolling hills and a temperate climate. The trees grown on Spanish land, however, are allowed to grow without pruning. The result is very evident in the olive trees, which bear tiny olives, some no larger than peas.

Part of the extensive journey included a tour of the Riff country, with Xuean as the principal point of interest. Up until three years oga, no Christian had trespassed on this territory, it was said.

Santa Ana women were much interested in the customes of Spanish Morroco, where the women are illiterates and are forced to perform all of the tiresome labor while the men idle their time away on the streets, or perhaps manage some wee shop. Carrying charcoal and cleaning the streets are two of the chief employments for the wage-earners, who are generally sturdy women.

During their European stay, Dr. Magill and Miss Julia Magill were not always traveling, for their winters were usually spent in one place where Dr. Magill practiced her profession. One of these periods was spent o nthe Riviera, while another was spent in Paris. The French were found by them to be exceptionally polite and considerate, as were the Italians. Spain, too, is awaking to the importance of pleasing its tourists, and is instigating various bureaus for this purpose, the travelers said.

While in Paris, the Santa Anans noted that although many of the foremost world styles are created in Paris, the French women lack the iniative to introdi ce them, and it remains for the American women to popularize the style-center fashions. Long hair, too, is the vogue, but only moderately long locks are the most fashionable decree, these are a length which would be considered as "in between."

Bridge Tea Honors Returned Travelers

Dr. Peryl Magill and Miss Julia Magill have been the honor guests at numerous social affairs since their return to Santa Ana following a period of three years which they spent in Europe. One of the loviest of recent events of the sort was a bridge tea of the past week, when Miss Louise Tubbs entertained in her attractive Tustin home.

Bridge occupied the afternoon hours, and was played amidst a colorful setting of zinnias in pastel tints. Mrs. Ernest Winbigler held high score, while Mrs. Fannie Reeves was consoled. Each received a most desirable prize.

Tea in the interesting garden of the home where blossoms and plants of all description are in abundance, was a delightful feature of the afternoon. Snowy white linens covered the table, adorned with bouquets of scabiosas and maidenhair fern. Mrs. Fannie Reeves presided at the tea urn.

Sixty-five hundred miles in five weeks is the travel record made by Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Trapley, 606 West Eighth street, who have just returned from an automobile tour of ten states of the United States, with the Southern regions more extensively explored by the travelers.

Variety of climate, scenery and highways was experienced by Mr. and Mrs. Tarpley, who encountered rain storms, rough roads and hot weather as well as smooth boulevards and moderate climate. Arkansas was the hottest place of all, with 116 as its peak of heat, they state. From California the couple traveled through northern Texas, and continued to Arizona, Tennessee, Florida, Mexico, Georgia, Mississippi, Louisiana and back through the southern part of Texas.

Mr. Tarpley was almost favorably impressed with conditions in the southern states, and stated that hard times have not as yet gained prominence, but have been magnified by ambitious imaginations.

The MIXING BOWL by ANN MEREDITH

Hot Foods For Picnic Lunches

Picnic dinners, along with the horse and buggy days of the Gay Nineties, have undergone a complete renovation. No more will the family tolerate soggy, tepid sandwiches, cake and pie, mashed and unappetizing coffee cooked over a campfire which contributes more than its just share of sticks and smoke to the coffee flavor.

When the modern family a-picnicing goes, hot food and attractive service is demanded. This is easy if capacious thermos jugs and coffee bottles can be afforded, when they can't something else must serve, and here the principle back of the fireless cooker comes to the fore.

Supposing the hot dish is fricassseed chicken and noodles; it can be carried miles 'n' miles and still come out of the kettle, steaming hot, if you will just cover the kettle securely, wrap it tightly in many thicknesses of newspaper, and over all an old bath towel wrapped and securely tied.

That's just an idea for you to remember in carrying hot food along when admiring the beauties of nature. Tomorrow I am going to tell you about an appetizing picnic dinner to be cooked at home and carried wherever the day may lead you.

TODAY'S RECIPE

Apple-Cheese Fritters

6 very large tart apples
Grated cheese
1 egg, beaten
Prepared mustard for cheese
Salt and pepper
Cracked dust
Hot fat for frying

Use an apple which cooks through quickly. Right now Bellfleurs are coming in and they are unsurpassed for this purpose or for making pie. Their season is so short I like to use them whenever possible.

Peel the apples but do not core. Cut into slices one-fourth inch thick. Dip the slices of apple into the beaten egg and make a sandwich of two pieces with grated cheese seasoned with mustard as the filling.

Press the apple sandwiches together firmly, dip again into egg, coat with cracker crumbs and fry in medium hot fat until a fork will easily pierce the apple. Serve at once garnished with minced parsley and crisp curls of bacon.

Each apple-cheese fritter has a calory value of approximately 75, half of which belongs to the proteins. This is an unusually happy combination—the apple is good to taste and an aid in digesting the heavier cheese and fat used in frying.

A CHEF'S PASTRY SCERET is offered you just for the trouble of sending in a stamped, self-addressed envelope for the free copy we offer this week only. You'll enjoy the story of how I managed to get this recipe, even if you never use the recipe, so I hope you will send for it right away. If apple pie is a favorite in your family send for it without fail.

Tomorrow's dessert will be Fruit Sponge, easy to make and a dessert everyone likes. Particularly good for children.

Wee Kirk o' Heather Setting For Lovely Morning Wedding

Choosing to solemnize her nuptial vows in the Wee Kirk o' the Heather, in Glendale, Miss Freda Young, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Snyder, of Los Angeles, and Clarence B. Pool, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Pool, of this city, were united in marriage at an impressive early morning service, Saturday. Officiating was the Rev. Norman B. Henderson, pastor of the First Congregational church of Fresno, who was minister of a Redlands church attended by the bridegroom. The natural charm of the surroundings was enhanced by early fall flowers in harmonizing tones of orange and russet.

When the strains of "O Promise Me" and "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life" had softly echoed away, the bridal party entered to Lohengrin's wedding march. The bride's petite and brunette, was very attractive in a princess fitted gown of egg shell with bouffant skirt. She wore an embroidered net veil held by a wreath of orange blossoms. Her bouquet was an exquisite shower of creamy rose buds and lilies of the valley. She was attended by the Misses Gadriat Harrah and Frances Stewart, as bridesmaids, wearing peach georgette and carrying bouquets of pastel sweet peas. Miss Marie Stutz, of Vancouver, Wash., as maid of honor, was very lovely in a pale green crepe frock. The bridegroom was attended by his brother, Elwin Pool, as best man, while Richard Snyder and Gurstane Mack served as ushers. The bride was given away by her father.

Following the quiet ceremony, attended by relatives and a few friends of the young couple, the party motored to the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Pool on West First street, where a delectable wedding breakfast was served. A silver model airplane built by the bridegroom when he was just a lad, hung from a central chandelier, while place cards at the table were copies of the ship, painted by Miss Viola Pool, his sister. These were symbols of Mr. Pool's future life work, as aeronautical engineer. Table appointments featured a huge wedding cake prettily decorated with love birds and baked by the bridegroom's mother, who followed the recipe she used in her own bridal cake.

Those attending the breakfast were Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Snyder, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Pool, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Olsen, Mrs. J. W. Hillyer, the Misses Marie Stutz, Gadriat Harrah, Viola Pool, Messrs. Richard Snyder, Hugh and Henry Rossire, Basil Daniels, Elwin Pool, and the newly married couple, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence B. Pool.

The young people will make their home in Hollywood, where Mr. Pool is employed by the Beverly Hills Motors, Inc., as head of the paint department.

PLANE THRILL

TULSA, Okla., Aug. 19.—Bill Barnwell, assistant at the municipal airport here, got his biggest thrill in a runaway plane recently. Getting into a plane in which the motor was idling, Barnwell accidentally opened the throttle and the plane was well on its way to a ditch at the end of the field before he discovered that there was no pilot at the stick. Quick work saved the plane.

Whittier Church Is Chosen By Santa Ana Girl For Wedding

The First Baptist church of Whittier was the scene of a charming wedding Saturday evening, when Miss Lucille Morgan, of this city, became the bride of H. E. McCullough of Garden Grove.

The bride, a lovely blonde, was attired in a becoming ensemble of blue chiffon and lace and she wore a white taffeta hat, and white accessories. She was attended by her sister, Miss Marie Morgan, who wore a tan ensemble with black accessories.

Frank Hoover, of this city, acted as best man. The service was read by the Rev. Otto S. Russell of Los Angeles, former pastor of the First Baptist church of which the former Miss Morgan was a member.

Upon their return, the couple will live in Los Angeles, where they have a newly finished home.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Morgan of 2033 Greenleaf street. She is a graduate of Santa Ana high school, and for the past year has been employed as assistant secretary in the junior college office.

H. E. McCullough, is the son of John McCullough of Garden Grove, and is a graduate of Garden Grove high school.

R. E. Bernhardts Return From Trip

The summer season is an especially pleasurable one for R. E. Bernhardt, 2203 Lincoln avenue, who as motor boat specialist for the Standard Oil company travels to many of the interesting spots of the United States. He has just returned from an extended journey which included visits to Spokane and Seattle, Wash., and Reno, Nev. He was accompanied from Reno by Mrs. Bernhardt, who motored to that city to meet her husband. The two continued to San Francisco, where they spent a short time.

Motor boat races at Lake Elsinore were enjoyed by Mr. and Mrs. Bernhardt Saturday and Sunday, after which Mr. Bernhardt left for Corvallis, Ore. He will return to Southern California the latter part of the week to attend the motor boat races at Malibu Lake, near Los Angeles.

"LAST OF DUANES" WELL TAKEN HERE

George O'Brien, athletic and handsome young screen actor has a new leading lady in "The Last of the Duanes" the Fox Movietone soul stirring and pulse beating romance of the southwest, which is now playing at the Fox West Coast theater. She is Lucile Browne, petite and beautiful blonde, recently recruited from the New York speaking stage.

The combination is a happy one, both O'Brien and Miss Browne being particularly well suited to their roles. In fact the entire cast is a carefully selected one with Myrna Loy and Walter McGrail portraying the other featured characters and James Bradbury, Jr., Lloyd Ingraham, Nat Pendleton, Frank Campeau, Blanche Friderici, James Mason and Willard Robertson in the supporting roles.

The story was adapted from Zane Grey's widely read novel of the same name by Ernest Pascal and is the first of the Fox Movietone "Greater Outdoor Romances." It deals with the romantic and exciting adventures of Buck Duane, handsome young rancher, who becomes an outlaw after he has killed his father's cowardly assassin. He later wins his pardon as well as the heart and hand of a beautiful girl, by aiding in the extermination of a daring and ruthless band of cattle rustlers and killers.

WILL ROGERS HERE IN NEWEST FILM

One of the many hilarious scenes in the Movietone comedy, "So This Is London," starring Will Rogers, which is now playing at the Fox Broadway theater, is the scene in the passport office where Will, with his screen wife, Irene Rich, and his screen son, Frank Albertson, go through the formality of answering all questions answered by the office.

"Say," yells Will, "down where I come from when we meet a fella we kinda take it for granted he's been born."

With that out of the way the official demands witnesses to his birth and Will flares back:

"Well, you see my folks were plain sort of people and mother wasn't the kind to make a public ceremony over a birth. There warn't nobody around at the time but mother and me and the doctor."

"So This Is London" is based on the stage success written by Arthur Goodrich and produced by George M. Cohen.

A treasure hunt with all of its interesting features was the theme of a party given by the Senior Christian Endeavor society of the Buena Park Congregational church Friday evening.

Instructions were issued to the young people to meet at the church where notices were posted to go to the R. D. Bacon home on South Grand avenue. From there the members were instructed to go to the corner of Ball road and Stanton avenue and notices posted on a telephone pole informed them that a treasure box was buried at the G. S. Davis ranch on Ball road, near Magnolia avenue. After a search in the sand in the orchard at the Davis ranch, Billy Dow uncovered the treasure, which was a box of candy.

Games and stunts provided entertainment for a merry evening, and home made cakes and ice cream were served at a late hour, by the hostess committee, comprising the Misses Estelle Upshaw, Margaret Cole and Lelia and Lloyd Foster. Fred Davis was general which was attended by a group of 27 of the young people of the chairman of this unique party church.

Mrs. H. S. Horn and children, Leona and Harold, are enjoying the family camp at Camp Osceola in the San Bernardino mountains. Mr. Horn went up for over the week end.

A LAUGH FOR EVERYBODY

THE TINYMITES

STORY by HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES by KING

New scenes the bunch set out to find and left the Parthenon behind. When far away they all looked back. "My, what a wondrous sight," said Scouty. "I am sure that we have been as lucky as could be to visit such a place as that. You'll all agree I'm right."

"You bet we will," the bunch replied. And then the Travel Man sighed and said, "Well, there is more to come. Just wait until you see the other buildings 'round about. They will amaze you all, no doubt. I've seen them all before, but they are still a thrill to me."

They shortly reached a real small street and Coppy said, "You cannot beat these folks for saving space. They sure make use of every bit. Instead of highways being wide, the shops and houses, side by side, leave little space for traffic and the folks seem proud of it."

"You're right," said Carpy, "look up there. A porch sticks right out in the air and overhangs this little street. It's rather neat, at that." They passed beneath the porch and heard, from up above, a friendly word. Some women said, "Hello," and every Tiny tipped his hat.

The Travel Man then said, "Let's go out to the stadium. I know that you'll enjoy the races that they're putting on today. A track meet is a lot of fun and you will see fast runners run." "Oh, goody!" cried the Tinymites. And they were on their way.

Outside the stadium they found that folks had gathered all around. The gates were shortly opened and the big crowd surged inside. Right near the gate the Tinies stayed and watched a picturesque parade. A band of college students marched in splendor, side by side.

Missing Letter Links

RULES

1. In playing golf on the Missing Letter Links the object is to change one word to another in a given number of strokes which is par. For example, to go from TEE to PIN in three strokes sounds hard but isn't: TEE-TIE-PIE-PIN. It's probably more difficult on a real course.

2. Change but one letter at a time and be sure the word you have used is one in good usage.

3. The order of the letters cannot be changed.

FORE TO ARMS—A powerful pair of FORE ARMS aren't necessary to shoot this long par seven hole. Anyone that can wield a pencil can take a crack at it.

NEW PARKING LAW ADOPTED IN BEACH CITY

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Aug. 19.—Huntington Beach is to have its first parking ordinance. The city council in session Monday afternoon at the city hall instructed the city attorney, Lewis W. Blodget, to frame an ordinance providing for two-hour parking limits on Main street, between Ocean avenue and Olive avenue and between Third and Fifth on the north side of Ocean avenue. The action was taken i ncompliance with a request from the Business Men's association. Action of the council was not unanimous, Councilman Chris H. King voting no on the motion, which was offered by Councilman Elson G. Conrad and seconded by Councilman Bayard Butcher. Councilman Butcher, Conrad and Stevens and Mayor Bowen voted yes.

A letter was read by the city engineer, Merwin Rosson, from Engineer Cortelyou of the state highway commission, in which Cortelyou announced that he would be here at an early date to confer with the city officials relative to the state paving a strip five feet on each side of Ocean avenue, between Twenty-third street and the west city limits and between First street and the east city limits. This will widen the coast highway at two bottlenecks inside the city limits.

On motion of Councilman Conrad, seconded by Councilman Butcher, the city attorney and city clerk were authorized to communicate with the state railroad commission relative to installation of a wigwag signal system over the Southern Pacific tracks on Ocean avenue, east of First street.

City Engineer Rosson was instructed to prepare plans and cost estimate for rock and oil surfaced streets on Quincy and on Crest and for the extension of Frankfort to Main street. It developed there may be two plans for eliminating the short turn in Frankfort street on Alabama at Acacia. One plan contemplates the extension as a new street crossing two blocks. The other plan contemplates a widening of Frankfort street at Alabama.

The matter of permitting camping o nthe beach inside the city limits was discussed at length. Councilman Conrad called attention to a resolution adopted at the council meeting April 8 of this year, which instructed the city attorney to draft an ordinance prohibiting closed tents on the beach. The matter had been held up pending the negotiations for the sale of the beach to the city. At a meeting the city attorney was requested to bring the ordinance before the council at the next meeting, which will be Tuesday night, September 2. John Barlow, owner of the Huntington Beach plunge, at the request of Mayor Bowen, made a short talk on the matter, saying that the beach camping this season had cost the plunge heavily in decrease of business.

A communication was read by City Clerk Charles R. Furr from the Realty board of this city stating that persons were engaged in the real estate business here who did not pay a city license and asking that the ordinance be enforced against offenders. The communication was referred by the council to the chief of police and city clerk with instructions to enforce the ordinance.

Mexican Seriously Injured In Buena Park Auto Crash

BUENA PARK, Aug. 19.—T. Diaz, a Mexican employed on the McComber ranch, narrowly escaped bleeding to death, as the result of an automobile crash at the corner of Grand avenue and West Ninth street, Buena Park, Sunday noon. His arm crashed through the glass in the door, and two arteries and the muscles were cut. He was rushed to the office of Dr. C. E. Counter for treatment. Joquim Arroyo, who was with Diaz in the machine, received two deep cuts on the lower lip, which required several stitches.

The car which the two Mexicans were driving approached the intersection from the south and were making the turn onto Ninth street, when a car coming from the north on Grand avenue crashed into them. The driver of the other machine apparently became confused, according to witnesses, who state that there was plenty of room on the wide street for the accident to have been avoided. Neither car was insured and the Ford belonging to the Mexicans was almost totally wrecked.

CITY COUNCIL NAMES 2 FOR HARBOR SURVEY

NEWPORT-BALBOA, Aug. 19.—A. J. Garfield and Lloyd Claire were last night named as representatives of the city council to act on a joint committee proposed by the Newport Harbor Chamber of Commerce to make a survey of anchorage space and other harbor facilities. The chamber's representatives on the committee are Frank L. Smith and J. B. McNally. City Engineer R. L. Patterson and Harbor Master M. S. Robinson will also be on the committee.

The recent $200,000 improvement at the harbor entrance has brought many new boats and boat owners here and the number is expected to grow as time goes on. During the recent coast championship regattas here the harbor facilities were taxed almost to the limit, and this caused the chamber to suggest the committee.

The new committee is expected to recommend certain improvements inside the bay and also certain arrangements for anchorage during regattas and at other times. Certain private dredging projects already started or about to start will further improve the bay for boating purposes.

Instead of the criticisms which so often comes to public bodies, the city council at its meeting last night received two petitions and a letter, all in commendation of recent actions taken by it.

One petition, signed by 50 persons, praised the city fathers for their recent action in instructing the harbor master and police to enforce the city ordinance against excessive speed of boats in the bay. Another, signed by 14, upheld the council for adopting an ordinance prohibiting the sale and shooting of fireworks.

The letter was from Burma, India, signed by H. M. Davis, now traveling there, and a property owner in Corona del Mar. He lauded the city for taking steps to acquire the shore built up by the east jetty, which is also claimed by the private owners of adjacent property. Davis also supported the proposed ferry service between Balboa peninsula and Corona del Mar, as recently suggested by the Newport Harbor Chamber of Commerce, and he commended H. L. Sherman for his activities on the planning commission and in other ways.

Plans drafted by City Engineer Patterson for a new street along the ocean front for more than half a mile in West Newport were approved by the council, the estimated cost of the acquisition being $18,825 and the entire improvement about $75,000.

An application by E. B. Cubbon and C. E. McFarland, who operate two fishing barges off the Newport pier, for an exclusive franchise for fishing barges here for three years, was taken under advisement until October. Meanwhile, City Clerk Alfred Smith was instructed to find out from other coast cities how they handle their fishing barge problems.

Charging that old buildings have at times been moved into this city, thus allowing termites and other harmful bugs to spread, the Newport Harbor Builders' exchange asked the council to adopt an ordinance prohibiting such action. This was also taken under consideration.

MERGER OF TWO METHODIST CHURCHES SLATED TONIGHT

NEWPORT-BALBOA, Aug. 19.—Members of the Newport and Balboa Methodist churches are scheduled to meet tonight at Newport to finally arrange a merger of the two churches.

There are at present two church buildings, one at Newport and the other at Balboa, and it is planned to dispose of both and build a new church on property recently acquired on the north side of Central between Fourteenth and Fifteenth streets. This property has 287 feet of frontage.

The proposed new edifice will be pretentious enough to take care of the growing community and will serve the church members better than both of the present buildings.

Plans are also being talked over whereby two other church buildings may be erected here. According to these plans, the Presbyterians of this cityw ill build either at Balboa island or Corona del Mar and the Episcopalians in West Newport.

Christian Scientists have headquarters here on the north side of Central avenue in East Newport and Roman Catholics on the south side of Central in Newport.

25-ROOM HOME SCHEDULED FOR SAN CLEMENTE

The home will be constructed just above the ocean and opposite the golf clubhouse. The land was sold through Mayor Thomas F. Murphine. The building when completed will be the largest home here and the first house in the new unit between the ocean and the golf course.

The builders are from Lone Pine, Inyo county, being pioneers of the Owens valley. They were forced from their ranch lands and business by the city of Los Angeles which purchased their lands for water purposes.

'Oriental Menace' Is Discussed For Fullerton Group

FULLERTON, Aug. 19.—Dangers of an "Oriental menace" were described to members of the Fullerton Kiwanis club at their noon meeting yesterday in McFarland's cafe by the Rev. M. E. Bollen, former pastor of the First Baptist church of Fullerton and now at the University Baptist church at Seattle, who compared the problems of the Southern California and Washington.

The Oriental menace described by the speaker was characterized as an awakening of China and the effort to capture the world markets in competitive trade. The competition is being felt especially by Seattle at the present time, the speaker declared. The problems of the southern districts are much the same as those now facing the north, the Rev. Mr. Bollen pointed out in describing the Oriental problem.

This competition is felt especially in the matter of Russian pulp wood, which puts the business on a plane which the northwest cannot meet.

(Submitted to the people by the Legislature of the State of California, at its regular session commencing on the seventh day of January, 1929.)

An act authorizing the creation of a debt or debts, liability or liabilities, through the issuance and sale of state bonds, for the single object of creating a fund to provide farm and home aid for veterans in accordance with the provisions of the veterans' farm and home purchase act, approved May 30, 1921, and of any and all acts amendatory thereof or supplemental thereto; creating a veterans' welfare finance committee; defining the powers and duties of said committee and of the veterans' welfare board and other state offices in respect to the administration of the provisions hereof; providing ways and means, exclusive of loans, for the payment of the interest of such debt or debts, liability or liabilities, as such interest falls due, and also for the payment and discharge of the principal of such debt or debts, liability or liabilities, as such principal matures; appropriating money for the expense of preparing and of advertising the sale of bonds herein authorized to be issued; and providing for the submission of this act to a vote of the people at the general election to be held in the month of November, one thousand nine hundred thirty.

SECTION 1. For the purpose of creating a fund to provide farm and home aid for veterans in accordance with the provisions of the veterans' farm and home purchase act approved May 30, 1921, and of any and all acts amendatory of or supplemental to said act, the veterans' welfare finance committee created by this act shall be and it hereby is authorized and empowered to create a debt or debts, liability or liabilities, of the State of California, in the manner and to the extent hereinafter provided, but not otherwise, nor in excess thereof.

SEC. 2. After the issuance of the proclamation of the governor, provided for in section 18 of this act, and immediately after adoption of any resolution by the veterans' welfare finance committee hereby created, provided for in section 11 of this act, the state treasurer shall prepare the requisite number of suitable bonds of the denomination of one thousand dollars in accordance with the specifications contained in such resolution. The aggregate par value of all bonds issued under this act shall not exceed the sum of twenty million dollars, and the bonds issued under any such resolution shall bear interest from the date of issuance of said bonds to the date of maturity thereof, at a rate to be determined by the said veterans' welfare finance committee and specified in such resolution, but in no case exceeding six per cent per annum. Both principal and interest shall be payable in gold coin of the United States, of the present standard of value, at the office of the state treasurer, or at the office of any duly authorized agent of the state treasurer, and shall be so payable at the times specified in said resolution or resolutions.

All bonds issued under this act shall bear the facsimile signature of the governor and the facsimile countersignature of the controller and shall be endorsed by the state treasurer either by original signature or by a signature stamp adopted for each particular bond issue under this act and the said bonds shall be signed, countersigned and endorsed by the officers who shall be in office on the date of issuance thereof, and each of said bonds shall bear an impress of the great seal of the State of California. The said bonds so signed, countersigned, endorsed and sealed, when sold, shall be and constitute a valid and binding obligation upon the State of California, although the sale thereof be made at a date or dates upon which the officers having signed, countersigned and endorsed said bonds, or any or either of said officers, shall have ceased to be the incumbents of the offices held by them at the time of signing, countersigning, or endorsing said bonds. Each bond issued under this act shall contain a clause or clauses stating that interest shall cease to accrue thereon from and after the date of maturity thereof and referring to this act and to the resolution of the veterans' welfare finance committee hereunder by virtue of which said bond is issued.

SEC. 3. The requisite number of suitable interest coupons, appropriately numbered, shall be attached to each bond issued under this act. Said interest coupons shall bear the facsimile signature of the state treasurer who shall be in office on the date of issuance of the bond to which said coupons pertain.

SEC. 4. All bonds issued under this act and sold shall be deemed to have been called in at their respective dates of maturity and the state treasurer shall, on the respective dates of maturity of said bonds, or as soon thereafter as said matured bonds are surrendered to him, pay the same out of the proceeds of the controller's warrants drawn in his favor as provided in section 5 hereof and perforate the bonds so paid with a suitable device in a manner to indicate such payment and the date thereof. He shall also, on the said respective dates of maturity, cancel all bonds bearing said dates of maturity and remaining unsold, by perforation with a suitable device in a manner to indicate such cancellation and the date thereof. The provisions of this section shall be applicable also to the interest coupons pertaining to the bonds authorized by this act to be issued, and shall be applicable, as far as practicable, to any duly authorized agent of the state treasurer.

SEC. 5. There is hereby appropriated from the general fund in the state treasury such sum annually as will be necessary to pay the principal of and the interest on the bonds issued and sold pursuant to the provisions of this act, as said principal and interest becomes due and payable.

There shall be collected annually in the same manner and at the same time as other state revenue is collected such a sum, in addition to the ordinary revenues of the state, as shall be required to pay the principal and interest on said bonds as herein provided, and it is hereby made the duty of all officers charged by law with any duty in regard to the collections of said revenue, to do and perform each and every act which shall be necessary to collect such additional sum.

On the several dates of maturity of said principal and interest in each fiscal year, there shall be returned into the general fund in the state treasury, all of the moneys in the specific fund into which the proceeds from the sale of the said bonds have been covered as herein prescribed, not in excess of the principal of and interest on the said bonds then due and payable and, in the event of such moneys so returned on said dates of maturity being less than the said principal and interest then due and payable, then the balance remaining unpaid shall be returned into the general fund in the state treasury out of said specific fund as soon thereafter as it shall become available, together with interest thereon, from such dates of maturity until so returned, at the rate of five per cent per annum, compounded semiannually.

Both principal and interest of said bonds shall be paid when due upon warrants duly drawn against said appropriation from the general fund by the controller of the state in favor of the state treasurer or in favor of any duly authorized agent of the state treasurer, upon demands audited by the state board of control, and the moneys to be returned into the general fund in the state treasury pursuant to the provisions of this section shall likewise be paid as herein provided upon warrants duly drawn by the controller of the state upon demands duly audited by the state board of control.

SEC. 6. The sum of thirty-five thousand dollars is hereby appropriated out of any money in the state treasury not otherwise appropriated to pay the expenses that may be incurred by the state treasurer in having said bonds prepared and in advertising their sale. Said amount shall be refunded to the general fund in the state treasury out of the specific funds into which the proceeds from the sale of said bonds shall be respectively covered in accordance with the provisions of this act on controller's warrant duly drawn for that purpose.

SEC. 7. When the bonds authorized to be issued under this act shall be duly executed, they shall be by the state treasurer sold at public auction to the highest bidder for cash, in such parcels and numbers as the said treasurer shall be directed by the governor of the state, under seal thereof, after a resolution requesting such sale shall have been adopted by the veterans' welfare board and approved by the governor of the state, but said treasurer must reject any and all bids for said bonds, or for any of them, which shall be below the par value of said bonds so offered plus the interest which has accrued thereon between the date of sale and the last preceding interest maturity date; and with the approval of the governor, he may from time to time, by public announcement at the place and time fixed for the sale, continue such sale, as to the whole of the bonds offered, or any part thereof offered, to such time and place as he may select. Before offering any of said bonds for sale the said treasurer shall detach therefrom all coupons which have matured or will mature before the day fixed for such sale.

SEC. 8. Due notice of the time and place of sale of all bonds must be given by said treasurer by publication in one newspaper published in the city and county of San Francisco and also by publication in one newspaper published in the city of Oakland and by publication in one newspaper published in the city of Los Angeles once a week during four weeks prior to such sale. In addition to the notice last above provided for, the state treasurer may give such further notice as he may deem advisable, but the expense and cost of such additional notice shall not exceed the sum of five hundred dollars for each sale so advertised. The proceeds of the sale of such bonds and such amount as may have been paid as accrued interest thereon shall be forthwith paid over by said treasurer into the veterans' farm and home building fund and must be used exclusively in aiding veterans in the acquisition of, or payments for, farms and homes, in accordance with the provisions of the veterans' farm and home purchase act, and of any and all acts amendatory or supplemental to said act; provided, that the proceeds from the sale of said bonds may be used to pay the debt created by the issuance and sale thereof.

Interest accruing upon the deposit of moneys appropriated for the use of the veterans' welfare board or of any of the funds subject to the control of said board shall be paid into and credited to the respective appropriation or fund to which the money so deposited belongs.

SEC. 10. There is hereby created a Veterans' Welfare Finance Committee composed of the governor, state controller, state treasurer, chairman of the state board of control, and chairman of veterans' welfare board, all of whom shall serve thereon without compensation and a majority of whom shall be empowered to act for said committee. The attorney general of the state shall be the legal adviser of the veterans' welfare finance committee.

SEC. 11. Whenever the said veterans' welfare finance committee shall have determined that a bond issue under this act is necessary or desirable to carry such plans and projects into execution, it shall adopt a resolution to this effect. The said resolution shall authorize and direct the state treasurer to prepare the requisite number of suitable bonds and shall specify:

4. The number, numerical sequence, amount or amounts and the dates of maturity of the interest coupons to be attached to the said bonds.

5. The technical form and language of the bonds to be issued and of the interest coupons to be attached thereto.

In determining the date or dates of maturity of the said bonds and the amount of bonds maturing at each date of maturity, the veterans' welfare finance committee shall be guided by the amounts and dates of maturity of the revenues estimated to accrue to the veterans' welfare board from the project or projects to be financed by each issue, and shall fix and determine said dates and amounts in such manner that, together with the dates and amounts of interest payments on the said bond issue, they shall coincide, as nearly as practicable, with the dates and amounts of such estimated revenues; provided, that the bonds first to mature in each issue, shall mature not later than five years from the date of issuance thereof; provided, further, that specified numbers of bonds of specified numerical sequence shall thereafter mature at annual intervals; and provided, further, that the bonds last to mature in each issue shall mature not later than forty-five years from the date of issuance thereof.

The rate of interest to be borne by the said bonds shall be uniform for all the bonds of the same issue and shall be determined and fixed by the veterans' welfare finance committee according to the then prevailing market conditions, but shall in no case exceed six per cent per annum, and the determination of said committee as to the rate of interest shall be conclusive as to the then prevailing market conditions. The interest coupons to be attached to the said bonds shall be payable at semiannual intervals from the date of issuance of said bonds; provided, that the interest coupon first payable may, if the veterans' welfare finance committee shall so determine and specify, be payable one year after the date of issuance of said bonds.

SEC. 12. All actual and necessary expenses of the veterans' welfare finance committee and of the members thereof shall be paid out of the fund into which the proceeds from the sale of said bonds shall be covered, upon approval of the state board of control and on controller's warrant duly drawn for that purpose, and shall constitute expenses of the veterans' welfare board.

CHICAGO BD. OF TRADE

CHICAGO, Aug 19.—(UP)—An unsettled wheat market that changed so fast in the latter part of the session that the tickers could not keep pace with the actual sales, closed unevenly on the Board of Trade today. Selling by commission houses and locals shortly after noon found no support and prices broke from the early highs to within a small fraction of the season's lows before recovering. Corn was easy from the start with sentiment decidedly mixed but regained some of the lost ground on the late strength in wheat.

Oats went to a new low for the croy in the May ydelivery but like corn, rallied fractionally with wheat.

At the close wheat was ⅛ cent lower to ⅜ cent higher, corn was ⅝ to 1 cent lower and oats were ⅜ to ⅞ cent lower. Provisions were firm.

NEW YORK CURB

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—Brisk advances in specia lissuesc heered sentiment on the curb market today and prices showed wide improvement over recent levels with leading issues showing strong resistance to selling presure.

A. O. Smith and Deere & Co., were features in the specialties, each running up more than 9 points on active demnad. National Rubber recovered morme than 2 points of yesterday's break, while an early dip in Ford Limited, attracted renewed demand that sent the issue above the previous closing level. National Alation was strong, advancing more than a point.

Shorts grew nervous as the session progressed and stocks showed signs of suport on all recessions, with the result that active covering in issues with overextended short interests brot wide advances in some of the leading issues on the board.

Electric Bond and Share and American Light and Traction were prominent in this category, each advancing more than a point. Cities Service firmed up a fraction, but American Gas and Electric was in supply at a concession of a point.

The oils were featured by Gulf, which was bid up more than 3 points on short covering. Investment trusts were firm with the rest of the market and advances ranging from fractions to more than a point were scored by Goldman Sachs, Prudential Investors, Pennroad and Electric Power Associates.

A GOVERNOR FOR WHOLE STATE

Figures denoting actual accomplishment or facts proving actual ability and sincerity are the things all voters should particularly absorb and allow to influence them during political campaigns.

Governor Young has said that he has tried to be governor of all California, to be absolutely impartial, in influencing the expenditure of state funds in this section or that. People of the south as well as the north have no right to ask more of a governor.

Statistics of expenditures bear out Governor Young's assertion of impartiality. During his administration, state revenues expended within and distributed to Orange county will reach a total of $5,894,185.

To more fully appreciate this sum we must examine its distribution. The State highway system expenditures in Orange county during the four years of Governor C. C. Young's administration total $1,582,297. Orange county schools in the same period will have received a total of $2,662,611 from State funds. Disbursements to county highways of Orange county from motor vehicle fees, gasoline taxes and transportation and franchise taxes will total $1,539,542. Substantial sums have been distributed to the county for aid in welfare work, for orphans and the aged and the blind. The State has also contributed considerable substance to tubercular work in the county.

Not only have the above noted sums been spent in the county, but Governor Young has shown his sincere interest in the development of Orange county by recommending for inclusion in the State system certain new roads which investigators of traffic conditions have convinced him are needed. The highway from Pomona to the Coast Highway near Fullerton by way of Brea Canyon is one of the roads to which Governor Young's administration stands committed; this road is in both Orange and Los Angeles counties. Another highway which has been accepted for state aid is the one from the southern terminus of the San Bernardino county to Bear Lake highway to Newport Beach by way of Santa Ana canyon. Support of Governor C. C. Young is assuring ourselves that these roads will be included in the State highway system.

To expect more than a share of state aid which is in proportion to our population is only committing ourselves to regional pulling and hauling throughout the state. A governor who is the friend of every section of the state will promote the interests of the whole state. One who promises to promote the interests of any particular section, in the face of Governor Young's fair treatment of all, would not further the progress and welfare of the whole state. We could not avoid a burden of expense if we further dissatisfaction in other sections of the state, for our progress is co-operative.

Heywood Broun, columnist, who originated the "give a job" slogan, is now running for congress. If he's elected he'll have occasion to practice what he has preached.

STANDS BY CONSTITUTION EXCITES MUCH OPPOSITION

It is remarkable that a candidate for district attorney, making a declaration on behalf of law enforcement and the conduct of the district attorney's office which is entirely in harmony with everything that political scientists teach, that preachers preach, and that four-fifths of the people of Orange county have voted for, causes criticism and opposition.

Some time ago, a group of women representing the organization which led the fight for temperance and prohibition in this country for over fifty years, asked the candidates for district attorney and sheriff specifically their attitude upon what has become the outstanding issue nationally and in every state. Many of the candidates absolutely ignored this group, and the sentiment that was behind them.

There were those, however, whose personal life, belief, and teachings squared entirely with the very plan, evidently, of the movement. Among those who so replied was Attorney Harry Westover of this city, who has emphasized his position on a number of occasions. At first, we noted that his candidacy was ignored; treated practically with contempt. Mr. Westover is not a "politician" in the ordinarily accepted sense of the term.

There was no "organization" for him. There were only some "church people," some "temperance people," some "women" and "preachers" behind him, but he proceeded to state his position emphatically and to reiterate it in his addresses. And the attitude of ignoring has changed to one of opposition and hostility and misrepresentation. Evidently it is being learned that the thousands of men and women who have been talking and working for the enforcement of law are taking the matter seriously this year in Orange county. We believe those who agree with the principles which should apply to the district attorney's office, as typified in the declarations of Harry Westover and R. E. Haynes, outnumber those who disagree with those views at least four to one.

With the conditions existing as they are in this country, with the seeming determination upon the part of certain classes to do as they please with the law, it is fortunate indeed that Orange county has men who take their stand upon this question alongside of President Hoover, Governor Young, Buron Fitts and the great moral, religious and social organizations of the country which are looking upon the present conditions as utterly incompatible with the continuation of our democracy.

GLOOMY PREDICTION

The fulfillment of the gloomy prediction of Professor C. Delisle Burns of the University of Glasgow seems a long way away, even if possible. Nevertheless history supports his prediction. He said the other day at the Institute of Politics at Williamstown, Mass., that the nations of western civilization, by their policies relating to loans and armaments, are preparing now for a war in 1935 and 1940.

He drew an analogy we are told

". . . between the situation today in Europe and that in 1909, when the nations were divided into two hostile camps as to which ones were to furnish finances and armaments to those requiring such assistance. . . . Just as in the last war France financed Serbia in armaments and Germany financed Bulgaria, so Italy is today financing Rumania and is interested in an understanding with Hungary and with Germany.

"The side on which each country will fight is determined by the loans and armaments which are being sent to various countries."

People might scoff at his gloomy viewpoint were not the background history of the great war so clear in our minds through the publication of various books, which have been more popular the last one or two years, than immediately following the war. None really wants war, says Professor Burns, yet nations are preparing for war. A real peace policy he declared further, is based on a conception of the state as existing not merely to keep order but to foster the more modern functions of government such as industrial organizations, health and education. These functions are not national but cross national boundaries, and therefore, co-operation between states is essential.

In peace-loving America Professor Burns' predictions sound positively crazy but he is trying to impress us with the fact that we must constantly be on guard to preserve and promote friendly relations with other nations and give them no grounds for hating us. We can do little about their own alliances and boundary quarrels, but we can urge our representatives to refrain from doing the things that make other peoples resentful, so far as possible.

One of the enigmas of the present generation is that in spite of the prevalence of soap box orators, dirty politics still persists.

A PRACTICAL STYLE

A custom which is growing in England is not included among the new style notes where it should be. Shooting sticks are being carried to smart social functions by women who want to save their velvet dresses. The woman who pioneered carried her shooting stick to a smart afternoon musical. The cane-seated chairs provided by the hostess would have left an imprint on her dress she said.

Her idea is good, but why not carry a velvet cushion to sit on. But then carrying a velvet cushion to a party is not so good-looking as to carry a shooting stick. On the whole, the idea is good and we are glad to give it this publicity because were it not well known that it is a respectable new fad, we venture to say some Orange county hostess would be quite offended should one of her guests scorn her chairs.

Kings, Boys, and Philately

Christian Science Monitor

To kings and small boys alike who ride together, the world over, the hobby of stamp collecting, the second annual exhibition and convention of the National Philatelic Society in Boston, Mass., this week, will make an effective appeal.

While it may be a comparatively simple problem for King George of England, King Albert of Belguim, Queen Helena of Italy, Emperor Hirohito of Japan, and other celebrities to gather splendid collections, their interest scarcely can exceed the thrill of the youth who swaps tops, marbles, and his pet knife for stamps, or will mow your lawn for fifty cents that he may buy a specially desired colorful bit of airplane postage.

Although the stamp-collecting market is always bullish and the competition keen, the dividends are always largely pleasure. To be sure, fabulous profits are sometimes reported, but the value of his collection is incidental to the genuine collector, who would rather talk about his treasures than sell them.

Stamps record and teach both history and geography. To make such subjects of interest to a small child is of itself a valuable accomplishment. The present exhibit—estimated to be worth $2,000,000—representing every corner of the globe, indicates the universality and far-reaching variety of the lore of philately.

One of the curious points about the stamp business is the fact that mistakes made therein have often high money value. Some people merely profit by their errors in learning to do better, but the philatelist cashes in on them. For instance, a sheet of 100 twenty-four-cent stamps inadvertedly printed, which was purchased at face value, was later sold for $20,000.

The story of a one-cent stamp of British Guiana of 1856 quoted at $40,000 is but one of the many romances that this hobby, which serves as a splendid international ambassador of good will, boasts.

The possibilities of philately, the hobby of some, the livelihood of others and the delight of many, are hard to estimate.

Jail Instead of Fine For the Speed Demons

San Bernardino Sun

Miss Helen Wilbert, of Mynbrook, L. I., goes to jail for 15 days as a penalty for driving 52 miles an hour. She could have got off with a $15 fine, but chose imprisonment instead, saying that she would "take the consequences for her act."

Her choice is to be commended. A lot of serious thinking can be done in 15 days, in an environment removed from all the usual distractions of life. Others, though, may need such opportunity more than this particular offender.

There is too much substitution of easy fines for jail penalties. Communities that have tried imposing the harder alternative, in order to curb dangerous infringement of the traffic regulations and other laws, have found it has a surprising moral effect.

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

ON A TOM THUMB GOLF COURSE

"Father, dear Father come home with me now,
The clock is just striking eleven.
You told dear mamma if she's not make a row,
You'd be home to your dinner at seven."
"Be quiet my child, take this nickel and skip,
I am getting the hang of these sticks,
Somebody just taught me a fancy new grip
And I made the last fairway in six."

"But Father, the Joneses are coming tonight
To tell us about their new car,
And they surely will think you are hardly polite,
If they ever find out where you are."
"Now don't interrupt me, you chattering brat;
I am trying to lower my score,
Tell mother that I will show up at the flat
When I have played eighteen holes more."

"Hark father, the neighbors—we heard them last night—
Say you're leading a dissolute life
For a man to run out on his wife."
"I tell you I'm learning a new follow through,
That putt I just made was a bird,
And you'll certainly get what is coming to you
If you utter one single more word!"

"But father, poor Mother cried all afternoon,
She says it's a sin and a shame,
And she told me today she'll be leaving you soon
If you don't quite this terrible game."
"Say kid, go and tell her to pack up tonight,
And travel, I don't care how far,
If it wasn't for these interruptions I might

By WILLIAM TRUFANT FOSTER and WADDILL CATCHINGS

The lay reader accepts the findings of engineers and chemists. He accepts even the statement of bacteriologists that they have found five million germs on the blade of a knife, though he hasn't the slightest idea how anybody can count five million germs which he cannot see.

The lay reader accepts the findings of such men because he supposes that they are dealing with EXACT SCIENCES. He is more wary about anything that economists have to say because the so-called social sciences are not exact sciences.

As a matter of fact, there are NO exact sciences. The measurements that we rely on in physics are only approximately accurate. The engineer, for example, is so wary of his own measurements of the strength of materials that he designs bridges to stand several times the maximum load.

Many measurements in economics are sufficiently exact for every day use. By means of index numbers economists now record changes in the purchasing power of money, for example, with an instrumental error that rarely exceeds one part in 800. That amounts to an error of one cent in an eight dollar expense account, or one pound in the weight of a horse. For most practical purposes, such an error is negligible.

The accuracy of economic studies was strikingly shown, when the National Bureau of Economic Research carried on two wholly independent studies of the national income. The two studies, carried on for years by separate staffs, were based on different methods and different sources. They involved millions of computations. Yet the final results were very much the same.

Our chief trouble in the present business depression is not our inability to measure the forces which make for good business and full employment, but our failure to use the available means of measurement. For instance, we have not even tried to measure, on a national scale, changes in the numbers of unemployed workers. Yet the technical difficulties are no greater than the difficulties which are met daily and conquered by biologists.

It is as easy to count five million unemployed workers as to count five million germs.

MEDDLING PARENTS

Boys and girls of twenty-one are pretty sure to make mistakes, especially if they have been petted by their parents, and made to think that they are very unusual and talented youngsters.

Leave them alone and, provided they have any intelligence worth cultivating, their mistakes will teach them.

Fuss with them, scold them, pamper them, and try to run their lives for them, and you probably ruin them, unless they happen to have a great deal of talent or persistence.

Meddling parents do more harm to children than the children are ever likely to do to themselves.

It has been my observation that parents of this type are in the majority.

They cannot believe that young people, whom they have fed and clothed and brought up can possibly have as much sense as the elders that nurtured them.

So they insist upon telling them what callings or professions they shall follow, what social sets they shall move in, what kind of people they shall marry, where and how they shall live.

Naturally a healthy minded self reliant boy or girl resents that sort of thing.

Those who do not resent it are harmed by it even more than those who do.

If you will read the life histories of important men and women you will find that in most cases they began to run their own lives very early, and continued to run them without any hint, help or suggestion from their fathers and mothers.

Parental love is a beautiful sentiment, but when it is carried to the extent of shielding children from all temptations, and prescribing lines of conduct for them to follow it is likely to poison their lives.

Thoughts On Modern Life

By GLENN FRANK

THE PENDULUM OF PROSPERITY

This week I am trying to picture a puzzled America as she peers into her past for light on her present economic perplexities.

I want first to recall, by way of background, how the pendulum of prosperity has swung back and forth during the life of the American republic.

In our national existence, we have said hail and farewell to five distinct periods of dramatically accelerated prosperity. They are:

1. The "Pioneer" period of prosperity.

This period of prosperity lasted from 1825 to 1837. For these 12 years the economic life of America sang with vibrant energy. The business impetus of the time trailed the revival of world trade that accompanied the recovery from the disruption and destruction of the Napoleonic wars. This phase of American development saw erstwhile Easterners push their way into the Middle West, establish new frontiers, and give the enterprise of railroad building a running start. This period of prosperity came to an end with the panic of 1837.

2. The "Gold Rush" period of prosperity.

This period of prosperity lasted from 1849 to 1857. For these eight years the economic life of America drank the heady wine of gold discovery in California, was thrilled by the tramp of further westward migrations, saw the development of a new plow and harvester industry, and kept busy building still more railroads. This period of prosperity came to an end with the epidemic bank failures of 1857.

3. The "Post-Civil-War" period of prosperity.

This period of prosperity lasted from 1879 to 1893. For these 14 years the economic life of America was singularly alert and alive in the twin tasks of the further winning and working of the West and the shifting of American industry definitely to a machine basis, although the extensive mechanization and mass production of today were still in the distance. This period of prosperity came to an end with the panic of 1893.

4. The "Alaskan" period of prosperity.

This period of prosperity lasted from 1898 to 1907. For these nine years the economic life of America was stimulated by the inrush of Alaskan gold. This was the heyday of the great trusts that drew the ire of the muckrakers. Business was ruddy, regnant, and ruthless. American industry was fat and feverish, as it set ever more machines whirring. And men everywhere were told to fight for the status quo if they wanted a full dinner pail. This period of prosperity came to an end with the panic of 1907.

5. The "Post-World-War" period of prosperity.

This period of prosperity lasted from 1922 to 1929. For these eight years the economic life of America thought and acted in moods and measures for which history holds no precedent. This period of prosperity came to a dramatic end with the market crash of last November.

THINE OWN SELF

To the Boys and Girls:

The best possible life to live is your own. You see you are a person. There is nobody else like you. You have certain faults, certain powers, certain gifts in a degree that no one else has, or ever will have. You are a distinct person.

One of the queer things you do is to wish you were somebody else. If you could only be Lindbergh. If you were Mary Pickford. Now why couldn't you be Bobby Jones? Or Rockefeller. If you could only be a moving picture king—a beauty queen. And all the time you are your own unique self.

You see that each of these people are different from all other people in the world. Their gift was so much stronger than any other quality in them, their line of power so direct, that they could do one thing better than anybody else in the world.

What about yourself? It is all very well to wish you were famous, or noble. Why not? Look inside yourself and see what gift you have. You have one. Everybody gets one, some get more. But each has one. That one makes you different from other people in the world and if you set about making the most of that gift you will be very happy.

I am not promising that you will be a king of this or a queen of that. Maybe you will and if you do I hope you will be happy. What I would like you to consider is that you are a person distinct and apart from all others. That you can be a very fine person indeed without following the pattern anybody has laid down.

Of course some patterns are good and if you cannot follow your own idea you can follow the other man's. But you won't cultivate the precious self that was granted you in the beginning. Test this out. If somebody comes to school wearing a new style pin, or cap, or shoe will you be unhappy until you wear the same sort? If that is your way of doing then I fear you are not strengthening your own self.

If there is a group in your class who laugh at you for working hard, make fun of your high standing and call you sissie, do you smile and go your way, strong in you faith in yourself, or do you fall in with them and follow the lower level? If you fall in with the cheaper group are you not going to be king of anything, or queen of even a sandwich stand.

But if you can smile and tell the scoffer to run away and pick daisies, boy, how you are going to grow. And how everybody will cheer for you. That is everybody that it worth while. And what happiness will fill your spirit, that spirit which is at peace only when you are being true to what is best in yourself.

"To thine own self be true"—and the world is yours. A new world, for you are a new person. What fairy tale, what kingdom could out class that?

CAPTURE OF GUERRIERE

On August 19, 1812, perhaps the most important naval battle of the War of 1812 took place when the frigate Constitution, commanded by Capt. Isaac Hull, captured the British frigate Guerriere off the coast of Nova Scotia.

In less than 30 minutes after the engagement began, the Guerriere struck her colors. She was so badly cut to pieces that Hull could not tow her to port. Instead, he set her on fire and then blew her up. The American ship was undamaged.

From that time on the Constitution became popularly known as "Old Ironsides." Out of 18 naval engagements between single ships during the war the Americans won 15. These series of victories moved Daniel Webster to urge congress to increase the navy.

The success of the Americans on sea was due to the fact they handled their ships and guns far better than the British did theirs. The enemy, it is estimated, lost on the average of about five men to one for the Americans.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 19.—(UP)—The theory of a suitcase containing the bomb that killed 10 persons in a preparedness day parade explosion, July 22, 1916, was labeled as false today by Ralph Jones, Sacramento service station proprietor, who said he witnessed the dynamiting.

Jones story was considered important by the defense in a retrial of Warren K. Billings in 1916 was based on the assumption that he placed a suitcase containing a bomb at the corner of Steuart and Market streets a few minutes previous to the blast.

Edwin V. McKenzie, attorney for Billings, brought Jones to San Francisco to testify in the Billings pardon application now being considered by the supreme court.

It was the first time Jones ever appeared in connection with the Billings and Thomas J. Mooney cases.

In addition to declaring there was no suitcase at the bombing scene, Jones denied the trial testimony of John Crowley who identified Billings as the man he saw leaving the dynamite corner.

"Crowley worked for me at my service station on Steuart street near Market," Jones said. "He was in the garage shortly before the explosion. I was out on the street and returned to the garage and told Crowley what had happened.

Jones supported testimony previously presented in this hearing by W. L. Claiborne, Oakland attorney, who was associated with Jones in ownership of the service station and garage.

Claiborne told the court a week ago that Crowley was under a car greasing it and that he was not on the street while the Preparedness day parade was in progress.

"I saw the corner plainly," Jones continued. "There was no suitcase there and all witnesses who said later they saw one were mistaken."

Calvin Coolidge Says

BY CALVIN COOLIDGE
Former President of the United States

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., Aug. 19.—Our own interdependence and that of the rest of the world is emphatically exemplified by the present unrest in India. It has not only affected our direct trade in that region but by reducing Indian imports of manufactured goods from England has reduced our sale of raw materials that would go into such goods, and by injuring British business has lowered British general purchasing power for our other exports.

While we have every sympathy with the aspiration for self government, we realize from the historical development of our own institutions that self government cannot be conferred upon one people by another people but must be acquired by long and painful experience. It is only of gradual growth through many intermediate grades, none of which can be omitted. When India is unified, educated and equipped for self government it will come with benefit to all concerned.

At present the problem is how the people of India can best be helped to progress along that pathway. Undoubtedly the British Empire furnishes them with guarantees of order and stability which are their first requisites in working out their own destiny. Meantime hope lies in such an adjustment of governmental and trade relations as will insure domestic tranquility.

SURVIVORS OF S. S. TAHITI TO LAND TONIGHT

PAGO PAGO, SAMOA, Aug. 19.—(UP)—A hero's welcome awaited Captain W. R. Meyer of the Matson liner Ventura today as that ship neared this island port with 251 survivors of the British steamer Tahiti which floundered Sunday in the South Seas.

The Ventura is due here around 2 p. m. (5:30 p. m. Pacific standard time) today and on its arrival island residents will pay homage to Captain Meyer and his crew for their heroic work in speeding 750 miles across the Pacific, arriving just in time to remove those aboard the disabled Tahiti.

That there wasn't a moment to spare was indicated in a radiogram telling of the rescue, sent out by F. N. Davidson, radio operator of the Tahiti, now aboard the Ventura.

Off In Time

"Passengers just got on Ventura in time as all bulkheads started giving away and all holds were filled to the "'tween decks," the message said.

"The forward part of the ship was listing heavily but nose much deeper than stern. She sank nose first.

"All the letter mail was saved but the newspapers were lost. Part

CORONATION RITES FOR CAROL DELAYED

BUCHAREST, Roumania, Aug. 19.—(UP)—The coronation of King Carol has been postponed until the spring of 1931 due to the inability to reconcile Carol and his divorced wife, Princess Helene, it was officially confirmed today.

Confirmation followed recent rumors in court circles that Helene still was opposed to the annulment of her divorce from Carol. The divorce must be annulled if she is to be crowned queen simultaneously with Carol's coronation.

The newspaper Cuvantul, usually well informed in court matters, stated recently that the coronation had been postponed.

WARDEN OPENS INVESTIGATION INTO DRINKING

SAN QUENTIN STATE PRION, Aug. 19.—(UP)—A grim "hangover" today followed the liquor party here yesterday in which a group of "convict intellectuals" attempted to chase away the gloom from prison life.

One man was dead, two others believed dying and a fourth in a serious condition from wood alcohol poisoning.

The four represented the best element in the institution, according to officials and observers of prison life alike. Charles J. Brown, 30, the dead man, was associate editor of the Bulletin, the prison magazine; Joe Mackin, 29, blind, was foreman of the printshop; George Cassel, 28, editor of the Wall City News, the convicts newspaper, and John Lawlor, 31, seriously ill, was a collector of first editions with a collection many men outside of prison bars would be jealous of.

The men, all, with the exception of Lawler who was sentenced to life for murder, were convicted on charges of robbery. Doomed to many years of drab routine, prison authorities declare, they set themselves to make the best of it, using their leisure hours in study and writing.

Warden J. B. Holohan today conducted a strict investigation into the party that followed a baseball game during the annual field exercises. It was known that Brown had received a bottle of wood alcohol from the prison pharmacy to use on his printing machine. Warden Holohan was unable to account for the dead man's belief that the alcohol was grain and therefore non-poisonous.

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 19.—(UP)—Business and sports were liberally mixed today by the American Legion as that organization went through the second day of its annual convention here. Business sessions began at 8 a. m., and continued until 10 a. m., when the Legion "sportfest" started. Bowling, pistol and rifle competition, tennis, trapshooting, golf and swimming, were all on the program for competitive effort by the delegates.

Meantime a large crowd of Legionnaires and friends embarked on a boat ride on the Sacramento river. Business sessions reconvened at 1 p. m. and those delegates who were neither sightseeing nor engaged in the sports contests assembled at the Memorial auditorium, where election of delegates to the national convention at Boston was in order.

Invite Citizens

Citizens of Sacramento have been invited to the meeting tonight, with a concert by the Sacramento post band opening the program. Distinguished guests will be present for introduction. Musical features will follow, after which citations and trophies are to be presented.

A "midget show" at the auditorium is to complete the day's work and play.

Sacramento saw the largest parade in its history yesterday. More than 15,000 Legionnaires marched through the downtown streets, to the accompaniment of

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 19.—(UP) The name of Rev. R. P. Shuler, radio broadcasting minister of Los Angeles, was brought into the murder trial of Frank D. Keaton today as the task of jury selection resumed in superior court.

By withdrawing his plea of "not guilty," Keaton admitted that he murdered Motley H. Flint, millionaire retired financier, and went to trial on his second plea of "not guilty by reason of insanity."

The little realty salesman's defense brought a battle of alienists even closer at hand, as the jury's decision on Keaton's sanity will decide his fate. A similar case was that of William Edward Hickman, who was found sane by a jury and sentenced to hang for the murder of a 12-year-old Los Angeles girl.

Convict Can't Run for State Office

SAN QUENTIN PRISON, Aug. 19. (UP)—Any allusion to Oscar Erickson "running for office" had today taken on the aspect of a poor run.

In fact, if Warden Holohan has his way—and he has a way of having his way hereabouts—Erickson will not even be notified of his nomination as lieutenant governor of California.

Four leaders of the California Communist party called here yesterday to notify Erickson of his nomination. Considering California law, under which Erickson's citizenship is revoked for the duration of his sentence, Warden Holohan called the notification ceremony "ridiculous" and told the party they might talk to the "candidate" only if they promised not to talk politics.

ASSISTANT TO CRANSTON IS BERKELEY MAN

ELECTION OF Percy Roland Davis, of Berkeley, as assistant superintendent of public schools in Santa Ana, with a four year contract, by the board of education last night, settled the question of who will be the successor of J. A. Cranston, superintendent of schools, when that official retires from public school work next July.

Davis, who had been favorably considered by the board and who was extremely well recommended by prominent educators in the state, was elected by a unanimous vote of the board. The contract provides that he is to receive $5000 for the first year, $6600 for the second year, and $7200 for the last two years of the contract period. It was pointed out by board members that the remuneration for the first year was necessarily less than the position was worth during the first year.

The new official is in business in Berkeley where he has just completed a three year course leading to a degree of doctor of education, and board members are expecting him to begin his work in Santa Ana about the first of September. Davis is a graduate of Northwestern University, Chicago, where he received a Ph. B. degree in 1904. Prior to that time he graduated from high school in Chicago. He is 47 years old and has a family of three sons.

His past experience in school work was gained at Hemet, Glendale, Lakeside, National City, and San Bernardino. He was superintendent of schools at National City and San Bernardino.

The election of Davis followed a motion made by Dr. Roy Horton after an executive session of the board.

Dr. Davis is regarded as exceptionally well qualified for administrative work and the board is gratified at the opportunity to secure his services.

BULLETIN

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 19.—(UP)—Mrs. Minnie "Mother" Kennedy of Angelus temple fame, admitted late today that her confinement in the Brentwood sanitarium here is the result of a fight with her daughter, Aimee Semple McPherson, the evangelist.

"We had a quarrel and Aimee struck me on the nose," Mrs. Kennedy said.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 19.—(UP)—Aimee Semple McPherson has lost her eyesight, it was announced at Angelus temple here today.

The noted evangelist's affliction followed a nervous breakdown two weeks ago, it was said.

Whether the condition is merely temporary is not known at this time, according to Miss Emma Schaeffer, secretary to Mrs. McPherson.

The evangelist's condition was so serious that directors of the temple admitted there was concern felt for her recovery.

Her hundreds of followers, aprised of their leader's illness, have begun offering daily prayers for her.

The night watchman at the temple reported early today that Mrs. McPherson "has no doctors." "The Lord will take care of her," he said.

Mrs. McPherson, who several years ago figured in a sensational kidnaping case, returned a few weeks ago from a trip to the Holy Land. It was understood she had been in failing health ever since.

The watchman said she had not been at the temple for two weeks.

Temple officials wired Mrs. McPherson's two children to return home at once. Roberta, the daughter, is in Paris, and Robert, the son, is on an evangelistic tour of the middlewest.

Her associates withheld details of the illness, saying only that she was being cared for by friends.

Later it was reported that she had been located in a beach cabin at Malibu, noted as a recreation center for prominent members of the Hollywood motion picture colony.

A secretary denied rumors that

Mrs. L. A. Harper defeated Carolin Babcock, a fellow Californian, 6-4, 6-3. Other Californians to register early victories were Misses Dorothy Workman, Ethel Burkhardt, Edith Cross and Dorothy Weisel.

Betty Nuthall, England's hope in the tournament, beat Mrs. A. J. Lamme, Rye, N. Y., 6-1, 6-1.

TO THE VOTERS

Bear in mind that there is no run-off for the Republican nomination for Governor. Either Young, Rolph or Fitts will be nominated on next Tuesday, and will meet the candidate on the Democratic ticket on election day in November.

The two high men on the Republican ticket do not have a run-off. The one highest man on the Republican ticket, as with the candidates for every other state office, will be the candidate representing the Republican party in the November election. So you are selecting the nominee, and because of the preponderance of the Republcian vote, almost selecting the official himself.

Among the county candidates there is a run-off, where no one receives a majority of all votes cast. Where there are only two candidates, one of them is bound to be selected on next Tuesday as the official for the position for which he is running. For the office of supervisor in the 5th district, for county treasurer, for sheriff and for district attorney, because of the number running, there probably will be a run-off, but this is not true of the candidates for any other position in the county. And remember, there is no opportunity to make a selection as between Young, Rolph and Fitts after next Tuesday, other than to choose between the one who is nominated and the Democrat.

Philip A. Goodwin, convicted murderer, who, by virtue of a retrial ordered by the state supreme court in 1928 escaped hanging and was sentenced instead to life imprisonment, is making an attempt to gain his freedom from San Quentin, where he is now serving time for the murder of Joseph J. Patterson, Los Angeles bond broker, it was learned today.

Goodwin and Albert Dewey Gaines were tried in Orange county superior court and sent to prison for the crime after the charred body of Patterson was discovered in Santa Ana canyon. Goodwin, a former priest in the American Catholic church, today filed through his attorneys, notice of a motion to vacate and set aside the judgment of conviction entered on March 9, 1928, and to make the record recite the oral judgment actually pronounced at the time of the second trial. Gaines was sentenced to life imprisonment in Folsom and Goodwin in San Quentin.

Transcripts from the record of the case are attached showing a discrepancy between the judgment as pronounced by the court and that recorded by the clerk of the court. It is pointed out that the recital of crime is not included in the oral judgment and the motion seeks to set aside the judgment entered by the clerk, which is in regular form, and substitute therefore the actual oral judgment.

This technicality in the oral judgment is the point on which the prisoner pins his hopes for freedom, it is believed.

The first trial of Goodwin and his companion occurred shortly after the information charging him with the crime was filed in superior court on August 21, 1926.

The wording of the court in pronouncing oral judgment included the statement "guilty of cold blooded murder for financial gain—recommend serve the maximum term."

REVIVES HOPE

of mail damaged by sea water. Sank at 4:30 p. m., Sunday.

Davidson's message is the only bit of descriptive detail the modest Meyer has permitted to clear the ship. From other sources, however, bits of drama of the South Seas was learned.

It was last Friday that the Tahiti, enroute from Australia to San Francisco, lost its tail shaft and called for aid. It then was approximately 1600 miles northwest of Auckland, N. Z., about 4000 miles from San Francisco. Later the propeller dropped and water started pouring in the shaft.

Made Fast Trip

The Ventura, enroute from Sydney to San Francisco, was 700 miles away on another steamer lane. Captain Meyer cut across the uncharted "ocean wilderness" arriving in record time shortly after the Norwegian freighter Penybryn, lacking facilities to care for the passengers, stood by and waited for the Ventura to arrive.

After making the rescue, the Ventura started back toward the course she had abandoned.

Upon arrival here the Ventura will discharge passengers bound for island ports but those bound for the United States and Europe will continue on the Ventura to San Francisco, her home port, where she is due September 1.

Candidates Sell Scrip In Effort To Boost Totals

Candidates in the Fox West Coast Theaters-Santa Ana Register Popularity contest went in for the selling of scrip books for the theaters today in their final roundup of votes in the contest which closes next Sunday.

More votes are offered for the sale of scrip books than for anything else and $10 books bring the candidates 25,000 votes, so this is the easiest way to procure ballots during the last week, according to Norman Sprowl, Fox theaters manager.

Several of the contestants were bunched for the first three and four places with all given excellent chances to win. A number of the leading candidates were known to be holding back thousands of ballots to be counted on the last day and for this reason the real position of any one candidate is not known.

BEEMAN TALKS ON PEACE AT ROTARY LUNCH

International peace was the topic chosen by L. L. Beeman in his talk at the Rotary club luncheon in St. Ann's inn today noon. The history of the growing sentiment for peace was briefly outlined in the talk, given by Beeman, head of the department of history at Santa Ana Junior college.

Preceding the talk, Bob Brown rendered as solos, two old Scotch songs, "The Border Ballad" and "My Love Is Like a Red, Red Rose." The fact that the Rev. A. J. Soldan, pastor of the United Brethren church at Santa Monica, and for some time chaplain of the Leavenworth penitentiary, would speak at the next meeting on "Reclaiming Prisons," also was disclosed.

In his talk, Beeman traced the different international disputes in history and the way they were dealt wit hby the nations. The speaker stated that some effort had been made to humanize war, which only resulted in making it more savage.

Among the other steps in advancing toward international peace were the Hague peace conference, the court of international justice the League of Nations and the London naval conference.

All credit for the establishing of the league was attributed to the untiring effort of Woodrow Wilson, although several men were mentioned as having suggested such a league earlier. Among these were, William Penn and Theodore Roosevelt. The remainder of the talk was devoted by the speaker to discussing the League of Nations. The only improvement that the speaker mentioned which might be made by the league is its outlawery of war.

Ten visiting Rotarians were present. They were Earl R. Bradley, Orange; W. L. Waters, Fullerton; Ray McCarth, Orange; A. H. Smith, Orange; M. M. Fishback, Orange; L. H. Turner, Pasadena, and H. B. Bailey and Harry L. Kueogg.

Mrs. McPherson was undergoing treatment as the result of a face lifting operation she had performed in Budapest.

The evangelist last preached at the temple two weeks ago Sunday. At that time it was reported she planned to be away from the church for a time "to write a book."

Whereabouts Secret

Since then her whereabouts have been kept secret and it was not until the directors of the temple met last night that the majority of her followers suspected their leader to be ill.

Close associates would give little information about Mrs. McPherson today. The name of her physician could not be learned at the temple, nor would those in charge there tell where the evangelist is staying.

"It is also true that physicians are greatly concerned for her recovery.

"After 22 years of unselfish, unremitting evangelistic work, it is no wonder human strength cannot indefinitely endure the pressure of work entailed by the great organization she has built.

"We have long wanted her to rest, but she has always refused to take a vacation. We are praying continually that God may restore her to the pulpit of Angelus temple."

W. Ingle in Orange today. Costello was scheduled to appear before Judge Ingle today.

A WORD OF COMFORT

Speaking generally, you have always known well enough what you ought to do; what you have lacked was the power to care and the moral ability to undertake, to persist and to finish what you had begun.

Your dear one's going on to Paradise has not greatly increased your knowledge; it has released, or stirred up or created with you a new and mighty desire and determination to do and to become that which will bring happiness to your beloved and which will prepare you to join her when your day's work is done.

CONRAD—In Santa Ana, Aug. 18, 1930, James B. Conrad, age 68 years. He is survived by one brother, Daniel A. Conrad of Costa Mesa, one sister, Mrs. Anna Proctor, Popular Bluff, Mo.; one niece, Mrs. Amsel McBroom, Santa Ana, and two nephews, James C. Conrad, Balboa, and Wilber D. Conrad, of Los Angeles. Funeral services will be held at 2:00 p. m. tomorrow at the Harrell & Brown Funeral home, 116 West Seventeenth street.

WILLIAMS—At her home, 1602 W. 8th St., Aug. 17, 1930, Anna Williams, aged 64 years. Wife of Peter D. Williams. Funeral services will be held Wednesday at 10 a. m. from Smith and Tuthill's chapel.

IRVINE PLANT SENDS 79,526 BOXES TO EAST

The 79,526 packed boxes of lemons shipped by the Irvine Citrus association since the season opened last spring brought returns of $417,031.62, f. o. b., an average of $5.24 per packed box, it was announced today.

The Irvine plant, which is handling lemons exclusively, expects to ship 16,200 boxes during the remainder of the season. The association is packing pool No. 9 at the present time, the pools being on a monthly basis.

Picking operations are under way for pool No. 10, which will close the first of September.

The lemons are for the most part going to the eastern states, with some shipments to Honolulu, Seattle and Portland.

CITIZENS WILL BEAUTIFY NEW S. A. BOULEVARD

A plan to inaugurate some civic enterprise in which the entire city might take part, which was suggested at the meeting of the Santa Ana Knights of the Round Table recently, developed into actuality today with the approval of the city planning commission and the city council, which was secured last night.

The plan, as presented by the committee from the Round Table, Reeves Aylmore, Frederic H. Eley and A. A. Brock, to the two bodies yesterday, calls for the planting of the 50-foot strip on the westerly side of Santa Ana boulevard for the entire length of approximately two miles, with flowers, trees and shrubbery at no cost to the city.

The plan involves the co-operation of all residents of the city and all organizations who may have plants, shrubbery or trees to be removed from their premises and disposed of, by getting them to notify the committee office, which is to be opened in the near future. The authority of the council was obtained to have the city gardener pick up these donations and care for them properly until such time as they may be planted in the parkway along the boulevard.

The planning commission is already planning to set out Cocos palms along the boulevard next to the curbing and the addition to the planting will provide one of the most decorative borders in this part of California.

OFFER PRIZE FOR GOLF COURSE NAME

Fifty dollars in gold has been offered by the management of the new 36-hole miniature golf course at the corner of South Main and McFadden streets for the best name submitted for the course since the addition of the second 18 holes just south of the first nine holes under the palms.

The name contest, announced today by W. G. Clark, is open to the public and suggested names may be submitted on cards provided for that purpose at the course. The contest closes Aug. 31.

A crowd of 5000 persons inspected the south course Saturday night at the official opening, it was stated today by Clark. Lyle Anderson, former KREG announcer, was master of ceremonies. Music for the occasion was furnished by the Valencia orchestra and Doc and Ray, KREG entertainers.

Police News

Sixteen Mexican prisoners from the San Diego county jail were transfered to the Orange county jail yesterday because of crowded conditions in the southern bastile, it was reported. The booking of the prisoners here swelled the total of prisoners in the county jail to 223.

J. B. Jouvenat, of 622 Parton street, reported the theft of his automobile from near his home last night. The car was removed from an alley where it had been parked, it was reported.

FILE PROTESTS ON FORMATION OF DISTRICTS

Protests at hearings today on the proposed formation of fire and maintenance districts in the county caused the matters to be continued by the board of supervisors. The matter of the Costa Mesa fire district was continued until August 27, and the Dana Point maintenance districts matter until September 2.

Three protests were received from residents of Costa Mesa and vicinity, concerning the fire district formation. One, signed by 34 residents, was a general protest. The other two concerned certain territory which it was asked be left out of the district. One petition related to an area bounded by Twenty-first and Twenty-third streets, Newport boulevard and Santa Ana avenue, and carried the signatures of 60 residents. The other petition referred to land bounded by Thurin, Fairview and Bay avenues and Victoria street, and was signed by 22 residents.

Protests from 14 free holders at Dana Point were filed by Alfred E. Guy, objecting to the creation of a proposed maintenance district unless assurance was received concerning the amount of costs that would be assessed for maintaining lights under provisions of the resolution forming the district. Guy stated that they were not opposed to the formation of the district and maintenance of the lights provided the costs were not excessive, but that they desired further information. The matter was continued until September 2.

Judge F. C. Drum presented an informal petition carrying the signatures of 40 lot owners in the district, approving the formation of the maintenance district.

TUSTIN PHONE USERS TO GET NEW NUMBERS

Representatives of the Southern California Telephone company will visit Tustin telephone subscribers commencing tomorrow, to inform them of the new numbers which they will use when the present Tustin central office is eliminated and telephones there receive service directly from the Santa Ana exchange on October 4.

According to E. S. Morrow, district manager, the number plates will be replaced with new numbers and a card placed on the transmitter warning subscribers not to use the Santa Ana number until October 5.

The new numbers will appear in the October issue of the Orange county directory. The directory will be delivered with a sticker attached to the cover, a reminder not to use it until after midnight of October 4, when the Tustin telephones will be cut off from the Tustin central office and connected with the Santa Ana switchboard.

In connection with the change in central offices approximately four miles of telephone cable is to be installed between Tustin and Santa Ana at an estimated expenditure of $27,800, work on which is scheduled to begin about the first of September. To provide additional facilities to care for growth in the Tustin area the telephone company is at present installing cable at an approximate cost of $9,670.

Switchboard involving an expenditure of approximately $43,300 is being added to the Santa Ana central office to care for the transfer of Tustin telephones to the Santa Ana exchange.

Since August 1, local service has been furnished between Tustin and Santa Ana at Santa Ana exchange service rates, the five-cent charge formerly applicable for each call between Tustin and Santa Ana having been discontinued by a decision of the railroad commission.

Arrest Youths In Car Theft Survey

Two undersized youths, one 18, the other 19, are being held by sheriff's officers following their arrest yesterday by A. L. Steward, deputy sheriff.

Two guns were said to have been found on the boys, termed by Steward as "desperadoes." Steward said today he was investigating a report that the youths were responsible for the theft of three cars in three different Southern California cities.

Report Injured Youth Improved

The condition of Jimmy Wilson-five-year-old Santa Ana youth who suffered two fractures of the skull when he was run down by an automobile in front of his home on Greenleaf street, Sunday, by an automobile, was reported improved today.

The child is at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Wilson. Attending physicians today said that he would recover.

SAYS BUSINESS PLAN BEST IN FILLING OFFICE

No intelligent business man would go outside of his organization and hire a stranger to manage one of his departments where he expected to make a change, if he already had a trained executive i nhis employ, who was thoroughly familiar with his affairs and ready to step into the post.

With that suggestion to the voters of Orange county, Earl R. Abbey, candidate for the office of county treasurer, today compared the problem of the business man to the problem of the county in electing a treasurer.

Abbey has had 12 years experience in public service, as deputy county clerk, and has made a study of the office he is seeking. He stands in the position of the trained executive who is in line for promotion to the head of the department where a change is contemplated.

His employers, the voters of the county, should not go outside of their service to employ a man who is unfamiliar with affairs of the department, it is pointed out. Rather, they should promote the man who has made good in their service and has proved his qualifications.

By RUTH ANDREWS

Composers from at least seven different countries, including Italy, England, France, Poland, Austria, Germany and America will be represented on the regular weekly concert program being planned for presentation in Birch park next Thursday night, August 21, by Santa Ana Municipal band, according to D. C. Cianfoni, director of the popular organization.

Musical selections have been chosen with special regard for variety and novelty, and the work of both classic and modern composers will be interestingly represented. Works from such contrasting composers as Rossini, Chopin, Sullivan, and Oscar Strauss will be presented, with light opera numbers from Rossini, Arthur Sullivan and Strauss to be especially featured.

The charming overture from Rossini's "La Gazza Ladra" (The Thieving Magpie), will be heard, also a selection from Sullivan's internationally popular light opera, "The Mikado," will vie with an arrangement of favorite themes from Strauss' popular and melodious Viennese masterpiece, "The Chocolate Soldier," well known to all music lovers of the present day.

It is interesting to note that Strauss is now living in Hollywood, where he has recently been engaged in composing for the talkies. During the present series of concerts being presented at Hollywood bowl, Strauss has conducted some of his own works in the role of guest conductor, and was well received.

Strauss, who has won enviable prominence as a conductor and composer in his native Austria, has won special distinction in the field of light opera, and occupies a place at the head of the modern Viennese school of music. His life has been filled with musical activity.

Although during the earlier part of his life, Strauss conducted many orchestras throughout the former German empire, since 1900 he has applied himself exclusively to composing. Romance forms the chief theme of his many charming operettas, some of which include "The Valley of Love," "The Beautiful Unknown" "A Waltz Dream," "The Last Waltz," "The Spell of Love," "The Foolish Maiden," and 'Naughty Riquette." However, the best known of his light operas is "The Chocolate Soldier," which was composed by him in 1908.

Maurice Phillips, one of the community's favorite singers, will be heard as soloist Thursday evening, and will present among other numbers Moya's "Song of Songs."

MANY ATTEND MEETING FOR PEARSON HERE

An overflow crowd jammed Getty hall here last night and participated in a meeting in the interests of the candidacy of James M. Pearson, police chief at Fullerton, who is seeking nomination as sheriff. Persons from all parts of the county crowded the hall.

Verne A. Baker, of Fullerton, county campaign manager, presided. In addition to a talk by Pearson, short talks were made by five other speakers. The Rev. C. N. Jones, of Alamitos, said:

"I have known James Pearson for 15 years, and I know his mettle He gives a square deal to all, rich and poor alike. He is a man of the highest character and I cannot recommend him too highly."

J. C. Farrar, commander of Calumpit post of the Spanish American War veterans, and O. J. Stanbro, commander of Warwick post, of Fullerton, also spoke. They pointed to his experience in the service of the nation, to his record of efficiency as police chief at Fullerton, to the fact that he was a man of his word, and declared that he would impartially serve the entire county as sheriff.

Al Dresser, former deputy county clerk, told of the activities of the political machine in the county, and asserted that Pearson was free from obligations to any man or organization except the people as a whole.

Charles Kincaid, in introducing Pearson, declared that his strength in Santa Ana was seen in the fact that bets had been made here recently that Pearson and Sheriff Jernigan would be in the run-off next fall.

"One of my opponents, the incumbent, has been advertising the number of arrests he has made and the amount of fines turned over to the county," Pearson said. "Perhaps you will be surprised to know that my department at Fullerton in the same length of time has made a total of 1369 criminal arrests, and that there has been reported by the city controller revenues of $53,900 from resulting fines."

"These arrests do not include any traffic cases or lodgers—they are all for misdemeanors and felonies. We mean business up there when it comes to law enforcement, and I'll carry the same determination with me to the office of sheriff of Orange county if the people elect me."

Governor C. C. Young and Marshall Stimson, campaign manager for the governor in Southern California, will speak in Birch Park Thursday night following the concert to be given by the Municipal band under the direction of D. C. Cianfoni.

J. P. Baumgartner, of Santa Ana, member of the state highway commission, will preside, according to an announcement made today by Freeman Bloodgood, of Santa Ana, Orange county manager for the Young campaign. KREG, Santa Ana radio station, will broadcast the addresses by remote control.

CHAMBER HEADS TO CONSIDER NEW ROAD

ORANGE, Aug. 19.—Meeting to consider the proposal to install a cutoff between Orange and Olive on the highway from the Santa Ana canyon, the board of directors of the Orange community Chamber of Commerce will discuss the new proposition Thursday at 1:30 p. m., following the meeting of the Rotary club.

H. D. Nichols, president of the Chamber of Commerce and the proponent of the new road, stated today that hte road would eliminate two sharp turns, increase the value of the property owners, lessen the running time between Orange and Olive and provide a double highway in place of one. If the board directors ratify the highway, it is probable that the property owners will be sounded out to determine the reaction to the new cutoff.

The proposed route of the road is t ofollow the Santa Fe railroad from a point near Fletcher road to the junction with Glassell street at Taft avenue, it was pointed out. The cutoff would be paved with concrete and would be the same width as the present road. The distance is approximately one mile.

Friday afternoon a special assembly was called at the Edison playground to award the gold and silver certificates earned during the summer season. A brief program preceded the awarding of the certificates. Donna Baker played a selection upon the piano; short readings were rendered by Irene Wyckoff, Selma Allred and Margaret Brugger. A playlet entitled "The Lost Teeth," presented by Blanche and Gus McCuiston, Donna and Gertrude Baker, kept the audience chuckling.

L. W. Archer, playground supervisor, gave a talk on the object and value of the playground activities which he illustrated with several stories about real boys. Archer then presented the youngsters with their certificates. The following received silver certificates; Gus McCuiston, Billy Musick, Hugh Nelson, Malcolm Nelson, Oliver Quick, John Gallegos, Philip Manriquez, Maurice Birt, Louis Holmes, Kenneth Johnson, Joe Koral, Beveredge Nelson, Robert Reid, Virginia Cyr, Katy Dahm, Helen Coral, Doris Hossfield, Kathrine Goon, Blanche McCuiston, Florence Nelson, and Violet Wyckoff, while Eugene Boggs, Tony Manriquez, John Birt, Chas. Maxwell, Silma Allred, Etta Launsbury and Irene Wyckoff received the gold certificates.

There were about 75 children present requesting the elementary group. Mrs. Gus McCuiston, Mrs. Baker, Mrs. Bronmen and Miss Mabel Miller were guests during the program.

The indoor teams both met with defeat at Roosevelt's hands. The elementary boys were defeated eight to nine after a hard fought game, while the senior boys lost more heavily 14 to seven due partly, perhaps, to the absence of three regular Edison players.

Franklin Playground

It has been a grand week at our playground, for every one has been so busy getting ready projects for the exhibit or for tournaments at the different playgrounds.

We won first place in the junior high school singles in paddle tennis, through our champion, Willard Noe, and also we won the girls' doubles with Thelma Sharp and Florence Seeber playing for us.

—Richard Clem.

Mr. Berry, our coach, took the junior high school team to Long Beach on Thursday evening and we had a fine time at the beach. It's fine to play for Franklin.

—Willard Noe.

Mrs. Sharp, Mrs. Harmon, Mrs. Hedley, Mrs. Williams and Mrs. Seeber are visiting us nearly every day and helping us in our wish to make Franklin the best playground in the city. They are on the P.-T. A. committee and sponsors all the good things we do. Many of the dads and older brothers come late and play or look on at the games and we like that too.

—Patricia McClure.

Many of our boys and girls are off on their vacations but we are having more new members and an attendance of over a hundred every day. Thursday we had one hundred and forty-three.

—Opal Seeber.

We have 124 boys and 95 girls enrolled making a total of 217.

Lincoln's elementary boys played Franklin's. It was one of the best games that has been played. The score at the end of the eleventh inning was 7 to 8 favoring the Lincoln boys.

—Jimmy Klepper.

Lowell Playground

The junior high boys had a very interesting game. Friday afternoon when they played the boys from Lathrop playground. The score was 6 to 5 in favor of Lathrop. The stars from Lowell were as follows: Gerald Page, Tom Hammell, Pressel Baker, and Leonard Lochart.

Several of the girls have made Hawaiian leis of Orange and red crepe paper. Barbara Paull made a hula skirt out of newspaper to go with her leis.

On Thursday, August 14 the elementary boys from Lowell scouted a game with Edison. We are very proud to have boys who will go to other grounds and conduct their own game. Lewis Woods took charge.

California, at this critical period, vitally needs a steady hand at the helm. It needs more of the constructive economy that has given California's state government two major tax reductions, lowered operating costs and a $30,000,000 surplus. When unemployment threatened, California's highway building program was speeded up until today more than $3,500,000 is being spent monthly in building California roads with California labor and California materials.

GOVERNOR YOUNG

Southern California's Friend

Governor Young has done more governmentally for this section of the state than any Governor in our history. During his administration there has been spent or appropriated out of State Revenues for specific purposes, in addition to funds for regular current departmental expenditures, like Industrial Relations, Natural Resources, Agriculture, Public Health, and University of California, the tremendous sum of—

$150,000,000 for the SOUTHLAND

All districts of the state have been fairly treated, as the need for state aid or service has appeared, and at the same time through efficient and economical management the

State surplus increased to $30,000,000

THE RECORD OF GOVERNOR C. C. YOUNG

- 2200 miles of highways completed in four years.

Compare this broad, successful experience with the limited experience of his opponents. If you would apply the same business principles to the selection of a business manager of our state that you would to the selection of a manager of any enterprise in which you might be personally or financially interested, you will naturally and logically vote to LET GOVERNOR YOUNG CONTINUE TO KEEP CALIFORNIA THE MOST PROSPEROUS STATE IN THE UNION.

Modern Method Lift Them Out

CORNS

Callouses Go Too

The safest and real modern way to remove corns, root and all—out to stay is soak them every night for 3 or 4 nights in an invigorating, stimulating Radox Footbath.

Then put on modish shoes again, walk and dance with greatest comfort because here's nothing left to ache. No pain, no trouble.

Radox liberates oxygen which softens hard outer layer of corn, each night penetrating further and further thru the pores, carrying the salts to actual root of corn, so loosening it that it comes right out. District Rebekahs To Celebrate Founding Of Order

PICNIC SLATED AT IRVINE PARK SEPTEMBER 12

ORANGE, Aug. 19.—Plans for what will be the first formal celebration of the founding of the Rebekah lodge were made at a meeting of committee members of district No. 50 in the Orange I. O. O. F. hall last night. Clayton Allen of Anaheim, district deputy grand master of Odd Fellows, presided at the meeting and Emil Roedick acted as secretary.

A picnic dinner to be held at Irvine park on September 12, was chosen as a fitting observance of the founding of the organization 79 years ago. The lodge was founded September 20, 1851.

Arrangements for the dinner include dancink and a program and it is hoped that Cyrus Palmer of Orange, past grand master of the state, may be secured as the speaker. Reservations are to be made for 400 guests. Clayton Allen and Mrs. Fannie Barker, district deputy president, are in charge of the program.

All members of the district committee were present at last night's meeting, eight Rebekah and seven subordinate lodges being represented. It was brought out at the meeting that while the founding of the Od dFellows lodge has been celebrated for a number of years on what is called "Wiley day," no day has ever been set aside for the celebration of the auxiliary of the I. O. O. F.

Miss Helen Kromer, noble grand of Ruby Rebekah lodge of Orange, was in charge of the regular meeting of the organization which was held following the meeting of the district committee. One new member, C. Muerham, was accepted as a member of the local lodge, by transfer. Muerham was formerly a member of the Woodlawn, Calif., Rebekah lodge.

An interesting program included musical numbers by the harmonica band of the American Legion Boy Scout troop. The band is under the direction of Mrs. Harvey Riggle. Mrs. Abbie Gould, past state treasurer of Missouri, was introduced and gave a talk. Refreshments served by Mr. and Mrs. Star Bachlor and Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Ackley.

Mrs. Alice Shell and Mrs. Mary Evans of Orange, represent the local Rebekahs on the district committee.

MODERN GIRLS GIVEN PRAISE IN VILLA PARK

VILLA PARK, Aug. 19.—Dr. W. M. Tipple, pastor of the Villa Park Congregational church, spoke on "Responsibility" Sunday morning. His text was from Matthew, 22:14, "Many are called but few are chosen." His sermon fellows:

"The discussion for today does not deal with the question whether there is a life after this or whether there is a heaven or hell. It deals with the reason why many are called but few chosen here and now. Man is rejected because he refuses to accept the overtures of the living God. Not because of any predestination or fatalism. There is no lack of love on God's part. If God ever rejects, it is because in the hearts and lives of men they have rejected His power.

"How true or untrue is this version of human responsibility over against God? By studying this parable in the light of our own lives perhaps we can find out. First, we note in this parable the dark colors of tragedy, sorrow and ruin. A number of foolish people despised the invitation of their king. They show themselves insulting and rebellions. They are destroyed for their pains. One man accepts the invitation, but he comes not arrayed in a fitting garment. The king sees him and has him cast out. In brief that is the story.

"All is tragedy. There is no redeeming feature to brighten 'For many are called but few chosen.' Is this in any sense a picture of what life is or may be? We are seekers after truth. We want to know the why. We want to succeed in this life. We want the best and the best is for us. Why do we not always receive it? 'Many are called but few chosen.'

Life Mystery

"This universe and this life in the universe are mysteries. Mysterious also is the death that comes ultimately. We want to solve the mysteries; to learn the truth. Unless the mysteries are solved—unless the truth is acquired, man can not be completely happy. Browning says 'Life has meaning; to find its meaning is my meat and drink.'

"What about the meaning of this life? Where did the world come from? Where did humanity come from? Is there back of everything a God? Is our life guided by a supreme power? Many philosophical systems have been built up by reason to explain the mysteries.

"The effort has been made and still is being made through reason, to secure the truth. With all the philosophy of the ages we still find many called but few chosen.

Man Seeks Truth

"Man yearns to discover the truth. How shall we build to truth? How may we be chosen? We try to reason it out but it leads us to chaos. Then we say God is to blame. I am wondering if the responsibility does not rest with man. We do not reason first—first we have our experience—build from that.

"Knowledge cannot come from intellect alone. It comes only when deep has called successfully unto deep. When soul has held communion with the soul eternal. Experience is the route to truth.

"Who is responsible for succese or failure? Is life always satisfactory and the end sublime? Do not some lives have bad endings? Are there not some who destroy themselves with their folly? Are there not real tragedies in life? If a man despises the law of health must we not admit that he is digging his own grave and that he alone is to blame? If the laws of the universe and of God are broken who does the suffering? Life is wonderfully glorious when we are in health and the sun is shining in the sky and the world is full of beauty.

"If there is a divine rejection, if many are called but only a few chosen, why is this the case? Is God a demon-god who destroys the chances of men?

"The people of the parable were people of privilege and opportunity and so are we. There is wisdom a plenty, wealth which we can gain. At our feet is poured all the heritage of the centuries. We can profit by it if we will.

Girls Are Frank

"Why are some lives such a failure? Some are rejected because they have tried to shift the responsibility. The responsibility rests with the individual. With the older generaton as with this. Some are belittling the womanhood of today. This is one of the most discussed questions. Every day we hear that their moral standard is lower as the years go by. That they are not the equal of their mothers in morals or ability. That they are frivolous, unstable; not fit to become mothers. There is not one word of truth in it. The womanhood of the United States was never better. The girls are just as moral and their ability just as great as at any time in the past. They are more frank and open in their ideas of life it is true. They openly discuss questions that bring a blush to their mother's cheeks. But in so doing they are meeting life face to face, and with a knowledge of its pitfalls and errors.

"We must wake up to the fact that those of this generation are straight honest thinkers. They are not fooling themselves, and do not want to be fooled. Just because we of the older generation do not agree with them is no reason to believe them wholly wrong. The welfare of this nation rests in their hands and their responsibility will not be misused. They are not placing the whole burden on the shoulders of God.

"If we fail to receive the best in this life and the life to come—it is because we ourselves reject it. If we are not chosen, it is no one's fault but our own.

"Many are called but few are chosen'."

GAS EMPLOYES START LAYING ORANGE PIPES

ORANGE, Aug. 19.—Another step in the policy of the Southern California Gas company of replacing a certain amount of gas mains each year was being completed this week on the block between the plaza and Maple street on North Glassell avenue.

Work on the long 700-foot ditch began Monday morning, when 25 men followed three pneumatic drills with picks and shovels and dug down to the old gas main, which has been in continuous operation for nearly 30 years. According to Charles Berge, foreman, the work of replacing the large main will be comparatively rapid to the slower task of connecting the stores with smaller service lines.

Berge estimated that the project would be completed by the end of this week with little loss of gas supply to the consumers at any time. The main pipe being laid on Glassell avenue is three inches in diameter while the service pipes vary from one inch to two inches in width.

The main follows the west side of Glassell avenue about five feet from the curb and makes it impossible to park automobiles on that side of the street. It also tends to hinder the traffic around the plaza because only a narrow driveway is left between the end of the ditch and the circular park. It was necessary to extend it into the plaza circle in order to connect with the 12-inch gas main which follows Chapman avenue from east to west.

SABBATH RULES DISCUSSED BY EL MODENA MAN

EL MODENA, Aug. 19.—The Rev. Joseph G. Reece, pastor of the El Modena Friends church, discussed "Heart Felt Religion" in his Sunday morning address. His sermon in part was as follows:

"Two texts are needed to show two types of religion. Both are found in the same chapter, Matt. 5, verses 8 to 20. Verse 8 shows what kind of religion will take you through to God, and verse 20 reveals the kind that will in no case help you into heaven. In the early part of His ministry, Christ comes to the very crux of pure and undefiled religion. Is it just an act of outward form and ceremony or does it so effect our lives that it flows out from our very intermost nature, the heart?

"Our righteousness must exceed that of the scribes and pharisees if we expect to enter heaven. We are led to ask who are these people. Speaking in terms of today, we would refer to them as the bishops, clergy, professional and church leaders. I believe that our Lord is trying to teach us here that we are not to pattern our Christian lives after some preacher or other church leader but look away beyond and see Christ. We will get in trouble every time we follow and look to human leadership and fail to see the leadership of Christ.

"What does our religion mean to us, of what does it consist?

"Let us notice that of the scribes and pharisees, of which Jesus told us we must possess more. We are not to despise what they have, but we must have more. What did their religion consist of? It was a ceremony, a profession, dead adherence to dead formalism, synagogue going, word splitting, hand washing and an elaborate system of trifling and refining. It was rules and regulation. A law here and a law there. Just notice some of their rules for Sabbath observance. It was unlawful to untie a knot with two hands on the Sabbath if you could untie it with one. You might carry a burden on one shoulder but it was a sin to carry it between the shoulders or have some one to help you. It was a serious break if you carried a loaf of bread on the street, but it was all right if you had some one to help you carry it. It was considered wrong to visit on the Sabbath so these scribes would take a chain and place it at one end of the street and another chain at the other end and call the space between an enclosure and thus they were able to visit, feast and live high. It was bad policy to travel on the Sabbath over 2000 cubits, but where ever you placed a loaf of bread that was your home. So these scribes would take a loaf of bread on Friday and go 2000 cubits and leave their bread. Sabbath morning they would walk 2000 cubits to the loaf and then they would begin their days journey from the loaf. Sitting down to a meal without washing of hands was placed in the same catagory as killing a man. These are just samples of what was done on one day. Religion to them was a system of rules and rigid ceremony. The condition of their hearts was just the same as though they had never kept a single law.

"There is a possibility of being deceived. These scribes and pharisees thought they were right. How important that we look beyond human ingenuity and find God's leading.

"The eighth verse gives us a positive, direct and absolute statement on how to see God. There is one condition—a pure heart. We cleanse water and call it pure. We take all the rocks, stumps and weeds out of a field and call it clean. We refine gold from all the impurities and call it pure. Surely God in all His glory and majesty, and as the creator of the heart, can give each of us a pure heart. Surely God would not lay down this condition of seeing Him unless He meant for us to have it. God does not ask impossible things of us. God can not only cleanse and transform the heart but He can keep the heart pure."

CARTON BEING USED TO SELL FRUIT IN EAST

ORANGE, Aug. 19.—Declared to be the newest means of selling California oranges on the eastern markets, a new type of carton holding one dozen oranges has been perfected by the California Orange association of 119 West Chapman avenue and will be put in operation in the east at once.

Kansas City will be the first city to be equipped with the new system, association officials declared. The Owl Drug company has signed a contract to handle the cartons in all its stores, said to the first time this national organization has attempted to sell any perishable fruit.

The cartons contain one dozen oranges and are very attractive, being gold colored and covered with gold cellophane paper. Each box is hermetically sealed and has the date of packing stamped on it. Every 48 hours, the boxes are collected by the packers and refilled with fresh fruit, insuring the purchaser only the freshest oranges at all times. The association maintains its own staff of truck drivers and packers, who are also stockholders in the company.

Besides the cartons, unique vending machines are also being placed throughout the east. By placing a nickel in the slot, the buyer receives an orange which is in full sight at all times. These machines were first perfected for the sale of apples but the oranges were recently introduced.

The oranges to supply the market will be purchased from the packing houses of Orange county. They will be shipped in carload lots to the east where the distributing will be done in the individual cities by association employes. The main offices are in Los Angeles while a branch office is operated in Orange with Guy Richards and A. N. Townsend in charge.

A PLAIN STATEMENT OF FACTS

By

COUNTY AUDITOR JEROME

On Tuesday, August 26th, the citizens of Orange County will be deciding a very serious business question. They will be electing officials of the biggest business in the County. They will be selecting the men and women who will handle, for four long years, the intimate details of a corporation whose income last year was over ten millions of dollars, the proper administration of which will very vitally concern every man, woman and child in the county.

It is not a matter to be settled lightly or where passion, sympathy, prejudice or likes and dislikes should have a part.

It should call for cool thinking, sound judgment and careful consideration, for on the outcome depends much of the prosperity, happiness and well-being of the County. This, I am saying to you as a citizen and taxpayer.

The citizens of Orange County have nearly always chosen wisely in the past, and to this fact is largely due the splendid reputation this County has always had in this State. It has been looked up to as a model of clean, well managed government, where any citizen who desires can have an exact accounting of every penny spent and received and where no evidence of graft has ever been found.

The County Auditor's office, of which you elected me the head sixteen years ago, is the clearing house for all the financial transactions of the County. Not one penny enters the Treasury without our order and no money for any purpose is spent except on our approval as to legality, and the Treasurer and Auditor and their bondsmen are responsible for any illegal expenditures. We are not responsible for the wisdom of the expenditure, but we are for the legality. This puts us in the position occasionally of withholding approval of expenditures that some people think are proper, and subjects us to unjust criticism.

THROUGH ALL THESE YEARS NO GRAND JURY, COURT, OR EXPERT HAS EVER CAUSED US TO CHANGE A FIGURE IN YOUR ACCOUNTS.

It is a record of which we are proud and we submit it to you for your consideration.

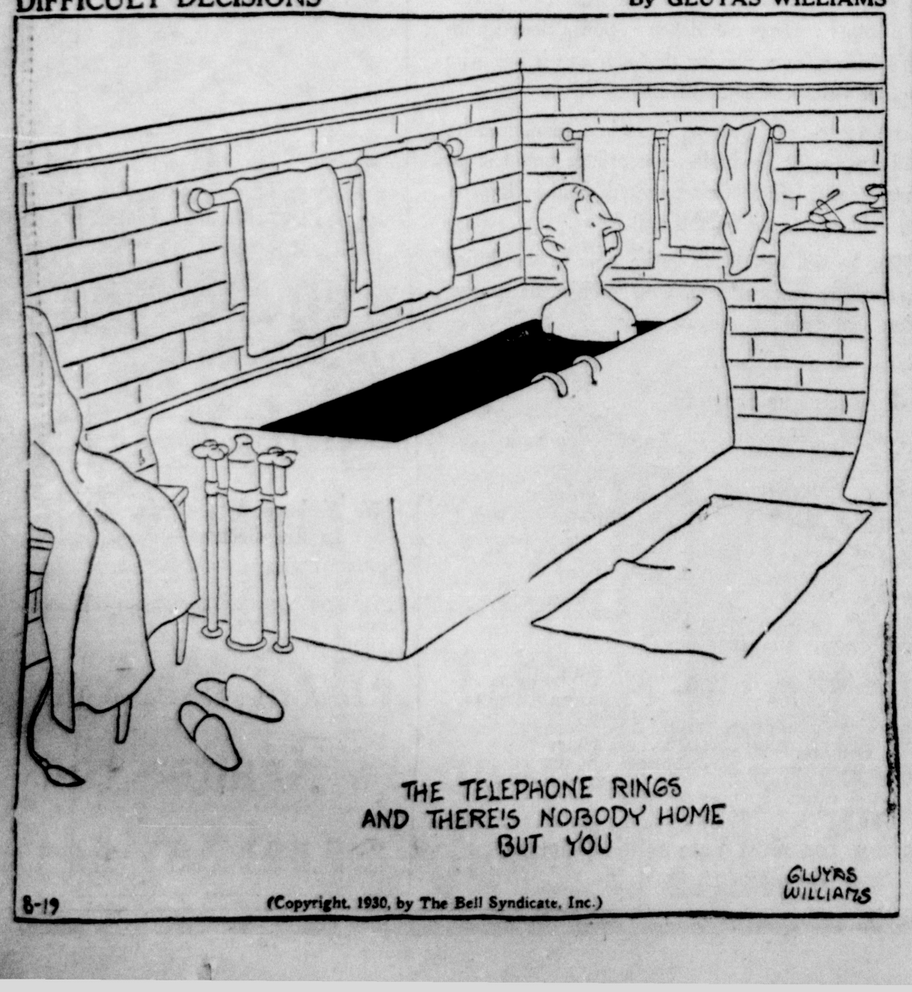

The duties of the auditor's office are probably as little understood by the average citizen as any office in the Courthouse. By many it is looked upon only as a bookkeeping office, when the facts are that this is only one of many functions. The tax department alone requiring more deputies than the bookkeeping.

Our heaviest and most exacting duties come in the months of July, August and September, and due to this fact the Auditor has little time to spend campaigning for re-election.

We have tried to serve you well, I believe we have, I have no new promises to make. What we have done in the past, we will try to do better in the future. We deeply appreciate the fine friendly support we have had in the past, and hope to be considered favorably next Tuesday.

KREG ADDRESS IS DELIVERED BY McFADDEN

Ralph McFadden, candidate for nomination as sheriff of Orange county, last night delivered a talk over KREG in which he declared that, in presenting himself as a candidate, he did so with confidence in his ability and capacity to measure up to the requirements and responsibilities of the office.

He declared that, if elected, he will strive to keep Orange county a pleasant and wholesome place in which to live, to enforce the law and maintain order.

"If elected, I will take an oath to do that very thing and independent of any oath, that thing I will do," he asserted. "In making that statement, I do so without any mental reservations, and I wish to make plain that I think too much of my personal integrity to be the goat for bootleggers or other violators of the law and the decency of the community."

McFadden, who was born in this section before it became Orange county, who has served as one of the first highway commissioners, as harbor commissioner, on the fair board and on important committees of the Associated Chambers of Commerce, declared that it is the duty of voters to "analyze the applicants as carefully as would the board of directors of a large corporation analyze a similar group of applicants for the important position of manager."

The candidate pointed out that, as city councilman of Anaheim, he assisted in "abolishing the saloons before the day of the eighteenth amendment, when saloons were operated pursuant to law. "Can anyone doubt what my attitude will be toward those who seek to operate in violation of the law?", he asked.

Pointing out that many unincorporated communities in the county have grown to the point where services of the sheriff should be more available, McFadden stated that, if elected, he would cooperate with the board of supervisors in an endeavor to work out some satisfactory plan that will make available to all the county, in the most effective manner, the services rendered by the office of sheriff.

"Should I be your sheriff, it will be my care to select to assist me only such men and women that are in harmony with my program and who have no obligation other than a clean, wholesome performance of duty.

"I will be ever ready to listen to and heed the advice and suggestions of those who have the welfare of our county foremost in their hearts, for it is only by such cooperation that your sheriff can approximate perfection in his service."

After carefully inspecting these latest radio models, the public will agree, radio values are higher than at any other time in the history of the industry—more new desirable features at new greatly lowered prices.

Tone control, acclaimed miracle by radio engineers, enables the operator to use his own personal touch to secure the finest reception from each radio program. Through Philco's tone control, four positions of tone quality—brilliant, bright, mellow, deep—enable the user to instantly change the tonal pitch of the program to suit his individual taste and mood. Also stations which come in harshly in poor locations, or are marred by "interference," now by turning tone control to mellow or deep, may be thoroughly enjoyed. Thus, many additional fine programs are made available.

Philco's new illuminated station recording dial is designed so that favorite stations may be permanently logged and turned in quickl yand easily.

The new automatic volume control will prove a great boon to distance fans, especially, for it counteracts fading, so that listeners cannot only get, but hold and enjoy th efine programs of far away stations.

The new models include console, lowboy, highboy and combination radio-phonograph, and have been richly but simply designed.

The compact 7-tube console has been ideally designed for the requirements of the modern, small living room. It is made of genuine butt walnut and birdseye maple.

The 9-tube highboy is an exceptionally artistic cabinet of American walnut, with 100 per cent figured matched walnut pilasters and instrument panel. Has automatic volume control and built-in aerial.

The new 9-tube radio-phonograph is an exquisite cabinet of American black walnut, matched butt walnut and oriental wood. Has automatic volume control, built-in aerial and new tone-arm pickup and electrical reproduction of recorder through the radio set.

CORY TALKS ABOUT WINTER COVER CROP

Editor's Note:—
The talk by Acting Farm Advisor W. M. Cory, given over KREG last night, and of which an outline is published below, will be printed in full on the Farm page of The Register next Saturday.

Acting Farm Advisor W. M. Cory delivered a talk over KREG last night in which he pointed out that consideration should be given at this time to the adoption of a soil building program for many field and horticultural crops. He stressed need for cover crops, telling what beneficial results follow their use and listing some of the best crops to plant.

In concluding his remarks Cory said:

"It can be said that if a good growth is obtained it has the value of from three to five tons of ordinary manure. Since this can be obtained at little added cost other than the cost of seed and irrigation water there are but few groves where the growing of a winter crop would not be an economical procedure. It will serve to build up organic matter and nitrogen content of the soil, both of which are essential plant foods."

TOOK IT TO BUILD HER UP

Strengthened by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

La Junta, Colo.—"After my little daughter was born, one of my neighbors persuaded me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to build me up. The first bottle made quite a change in me. I got an appetite and can sleep much better, I am not so nervous as I was. I have six children and do all my own work. I can do so much more now than I could when I began taking the Vegetable Compound and I shall certainly recommend your medicine whenever I have an opportunity."—Mrs. John Osborn, R. #2, Box 216, La Junta, Colorado.

(NEA Service Writer)

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—Babe Ruth may not club the Yankees into a pennant victory this year, but he is almost certain to break his own world's record for home runs. That, at least, is the expert opinion of his diminutive manager, who, settled back in a spacious chair intended for the Bambino's mighty frame, talked eagerly of baseball and, particularly of the Babe.

"We're making the best of a not-too-good season," said Mrs. Ruth. "I don't give the Yankees much chance for the pennant. . . We had a bad start. But Babe's injured hand is about well now, and he ought to be lifting them over the fence for the rest of the season. He's confident he'll break his record of 60 home runs . . . I am too.

No Fat Ones for Ruth

"But you know they pitch differently to him than to anybody else. Many a bad ball a mile from the plate is driven into the bleachers just because he'd rather strike out than walk. You've no idea how much he hates to walk. Still, you can't blame the pitchers . . . they want to win their games."

"I was a pretty ardent fan for ten years before I married Mr. Ruth, and now, of course, the game dictates practially ever minute of our lives."

Friends of the Sultan of Wham will tell you, however, that his pretty brunette bride of a year and a half is the one who does the dictating. Gone are the days when all fandom was deeply concerned with his consumption of hot dogs and pop and sodium bicarbonate, when his averdupois went up in inverse ratio to his batting average, or when he'd break training to sit up with the boys until 3 in the morning.

Easy to Keep Babe Fit

"Really, though, it's an awfully easy job to keep him fit," said Mrs. Ruth. "He takes orders beautifully, though it means leading a pretty secluded and unsocial life."

Friends who come to the big eleven-room apartment on Riverside drive know that their hats will be handed them at the stroke of 10:30. For the Babe must be in bed by 11. They know, too, that the latchstring isn't out every night in the week. The Babe must have a few evenings alone with his family of four—his wife and her mother, Mrs. Merritt, Mrs. Ruth's little daughter by a previous marriage, and his own adopted daughter.

The same schedule is followed when the team plays in other

EASTERNS SET PACE FOR CITY LEAGUE TEAMS

The first four tied teams to win this week, the Eastern Oil company today was mathematically ahead of all the rest in the Santa Ana City Night Baseball league as a result of its 6 to 2 triumph over the Auto Club of Orange County in the Bowl last night.

"Bomo" Koral was on the firing line for the Easterns and while hit harder than usual was never in serious trouble after his mates got to Everett Berry for a brace of runs both in the fourth and fifth innings.

The Orange County Builders' exchange scored another victory over the Dennis Printers in the eye-opener. These teams were tied for first place at the end of the first half of their split season and indulged in a playoff which the Builders won by taking two straight games. Last night's affair was a regularly scheduled contest of the second half and the Builders won as they pleased, 11 to 2.

City league play will be resumed tomorrow night. The 6:45 affray pairs the American Legion and the Richfield Oilers, two of the tied leaders. The Courthouse and the Excelsior creamery outfits mingle at 8:15.

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Aug. 19.—Despite the absence of its two greatest stars, Mrs. Helen Wills Moody and Helen Jacobs, California today stood better than an even chance to keep the National women's tennis singles championship.

No less than seven Californians, four of them seeded players, were still in the running as the tournament moved into the second round. Headed by Mrs. Lawrence A. Harper of Oakland, this group came through the first round Monday without effort.

Mrs. Harper, seeded No. 1 of the American group, displayed a wide variety of shots in her match with Dorrance Chase of Boston and proved that her high place in the seeding was justified.

The California group is likely to meet its sternest opposition in Betty Nuthall, English ace and No. 1 in the foreign seedings. Miss Nuthall advanced to the second round without trouble, disposing of Louise McFarland, one of the lesser California lights, 6-0, 6-1.

The younger American stars went into the second round with ease. Eleanor Goss, seeded No. 3, displayed her old time game in defeating Eleanor Cottman, Baltimore, 6-2, 6-2. Sarah Palfrey, Wightman cup player and Boston's chief hope, breezed to a victory over Laura Pittenger, Camden, N. J.

Majorie Morrill, Dedham, Mass., seeded No. 2 and Josephine Cruickshank, Santa Ana, Calif., seeded No. 8, in the American group, and Baroness Levi of Italy, seeded No. 2 inthe invading forces, drew byes in the first round but moved into action today.

Today's outstanding matches found Marjorie Morrill opposed to Clara Zinke, Cincinnati star; Eleanor Goss opposed to Helen Marlowe, Los Angeles; Betty Nuthall opposed to Mrs. A. J. Lamme, Rye, N. Y., and Sarah Palfrey opposed to Mrs. B. F. Stenz, Garden City, N. Y.

Miss Nuthall paired with Sarah Palfrey to form the first seeded team in the doubles, which started today. Mrs. Harper-Edith Cross, Marjorie Gladman-Josephine Cruickshank, and Dorothy Andrus-Marjorie Morrill form the other seeded combinations.

BILL TILDEN WINS FROM NEW YORK STAR

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 19.—Showing an improvement over his play of yesterday, William T. Tilden won from John Millen, New York, in the third round of the 14th annual Newport invitation tournament before a large crowd today, 8-6, 7-5.

Millen kept the national champion moving fast at all times but Tilden seemed to be surer afoot and was hitting better than in his match with Ellsworth Vines jr., yesterday.

Gregory Mangin, Newark, N. J., gained the fourth round by default. Ted Burwell, Charlotte, N. C., scored a neat victory over the English star, H. G. B. Lee, 3-6, 9-7, 8-6, in the first round and E. W. Feibleman, New York, went into the third with a victory over Harris Coggeshall, Des Moines, 1-6, 7-5, 9-7.

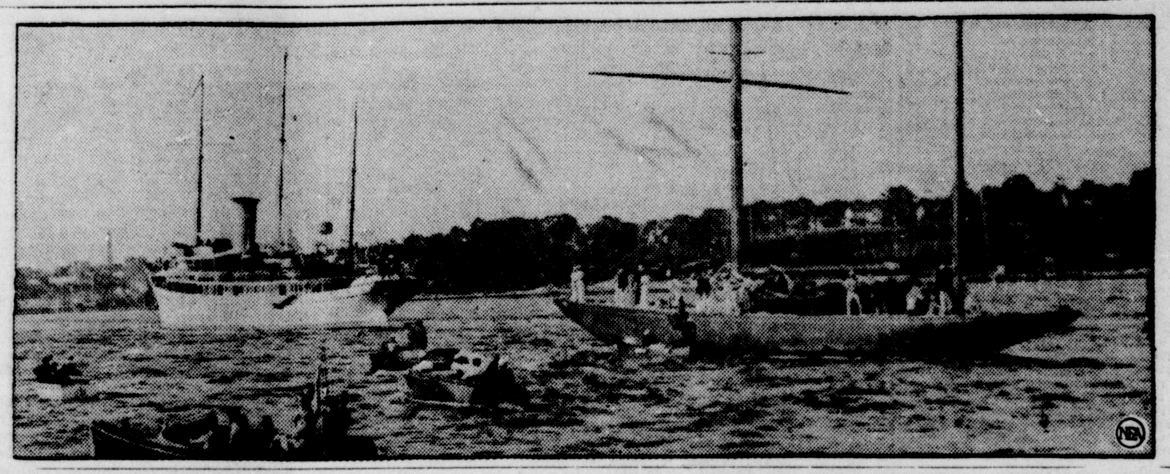

Frank Shields, 19-year-old New Yorker, who took the Maine title Sunday, arrived here today to face three successive opponents. He defeated the first, Brainer Whitbeck, Bronxville, N. Y., 6-1, 11-9.

John Van Ryn, East Orange, N. J., gained a second round default and then was extended to three sets before beating David Jones, New York, 3-6, 6-1, 6-3. The victory placed him in the fourth round with Allison, Mangin and Tilden.

SHAMROCK V COMES IN QUEST OF FAMOUS YACHTING CUP

MEDICINE MEN THINK CARNERA HEALTH TO FAIL

BY DAVIS J. WALSH
(I. N. S. Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—Primo Carnera, I am informed today by medical specialists who have examined this walking box car of a man, is liable to have only another year, possibly two, of normal health and strength before the seemingly inevitable over takes him. After that, it seems, it is quite possible that he will first waste away to a mere hogshead and then decline physically to a point where he no longer will be able to fight, if, indeed, he doesn't become a daily subject for medical attention.

The doctors diagnose him as "pituitary" case, meaning that they believe the gland which regulates the nutrition of bone and other tissues doesn't function properly and won't. In brief, they think that Carnera, having grown abnormally, will now begin to deteriorate with proportionate haste.

"There is absolutely no truth in the report," said Carnera's No. 1 manager, Mr. Billy Duffy, today when confronted with the alleged facts.

But, after all, it is only a question of judgment between Mr. Duffy and the doctors, which naturally places the latter at a disadvantage. Mr. Duffy is his own authority, whereas all they have to depend on is the science of medicine.

However, it is my understanding that the doctors plan to mask their real feelings and go on receiving patients in the regular way, meanwhile leaving Mr. Duffy to take care of the fighter's health. They realize, of course, that he will do what he can toward taking care of his fighter's money. If the man loses the former, for instance, the latter is no good to him and, if he hasn't the latter, the former isn't very important to anybody. It is all so complicated.

Anyhow, the doctors find what they term "indicatory evidence" of the alleged condition in Carnera's cheek bone formation, in the aspect of his nose and teeth and in the formation of his knuckles and they say that a specimen like this will just fritter himself away into what the press boys call a hollow shell.

In addition the doctors view with alarm the Morse system of veins in Carnera's legs, which leaves very little of him that they approve. As a matter of fact if they find anything else wrong, it might be necessary to call in the authorities and have him condemned.

SHOOTING with SHUTE

by DENNY SHUTE

I discussed in a recent article the value of watching star golf players in action. As an example, I'd like to tell you of what happened in Columbus, O., my home town.

The Scioto Country club of Columbus was the scene of the National Open tournament in 1926. Up to that time, a Columbus golfer had never won a title of importance, aside from the women's state championship by Mrs. Curtis Sohl back in 1921.

Then came the open championship and the whole golfing population seemed to wake up. So much pep was generated that last year Columbus golfers won nearly everything in which they competed.

I won the state championship in 1927 while I still was an amateur. Bill Deuschle, another Columbus boy, won it the next year—and 20-year-old Johnny Florio of Columbus won it last year. Florio had caddied for Gene Sarazen while the former open champion was practicing at Scioto and he freely admits that he got the golf to win the state title from observing Sarazen.

Aside from the National Amateur, in which Florio played, and the National Open and National P. G. A., in which I took part, a Columbus player won every event in which there were Columbus players entered last year. Possibly it's merely coincidence. I think it's mainly inspiration.

WEST WINDS

Here and There in Local Sport

A "NATURAL" WASTED

Although powerful influences are at work endeavoring to arrange a match at the Orange County Athletic club between "Wild Man" Macias and Romeo Lemon, there seems little chance for it to bear fruit.

Many obstacles appear in the way of a Macias-Lemon collision but all these can be cleared except that little clause.

So far he never has violated this rule which was written into his contract. Macias is barely 20 and had to have his parents' consent to box.

NOTHING FOR NOTHING

Don't be misled by reports that it won't cost you anything to get past the doorman at Whittier tonight. The Poet park is situated on school property but the "oday" there is the same as elsewhere—two bits.

Should the Stars get by Whittier and into the Southern California playoffs with Colton, the tariff may be as high as 50 cents for choice vantage points. I understand the American leaguers expect to levy that rate of admission, although Santa Ana officials may hold out for a 35-cent "top," which is plenty.

One of the reasons why night baseball has been so tremendously successful is that it affords entertainment for the whole family at a modest sum.

COLTON EXCITED

Colton is all "hot and bothered" about its forthcoming series with the champion of the National Night league—Santa Ana or Whittier.

President Elmer Coble of the inland circuit has ruled that seats must be provided for all spectators at games played in Colton. The Colton Chamber of Commerce and city council are assembling temporary bleachers from everywhere. They plan to accommodate 3000 persons.

Meanwhile the Colton club is playing a series of exhibition games to remain in condition for the "little world series."

The Reds wil meet Arlington Friday, Riverside Monday and Wednesday and Olive Friday-week.

Colton knocked over all the "hot shots" of the league but dropped a 2-1 decision in 10 innings to Corona, sixth place team, the last night of its season. All of the runs of the game were made in the extra frame.

TENNIS ON AIR

Josephine Cruickshank, Santa Ana's brilliant young tennis player who is an outside possibility to win the National women's singles championship Helen Willis Moody is relinquishing this summer, may make her debut as a radio speaker during this tournament.

The Columbia Broadcasting network is going to describe details of the classic, and Ted Hussing, its crack sports announcer, will introduce some of the leading players. Miss Cruickshank probably among them. Louis Dailey, president of the United States Lawn Tennis association, and other officials will discuss the progress of the matches in daily radio talks.

The schedule for these broadcasts follows:

Tuesday, 6:15 to 6:30 p. m. (resume.)

Wednesday, 7:15 to 7:30 p. m. (resume.)

Thursday 6:15 to 6:30 p. m. (resume.)

Friday 7:15 to 7:30 p. m. (resume.)

Saturday 2:30 to 5:30 p. m. (play by play report).

The times given are for Eastern daylight saving.

PITCHING AND HITTING

If you would have a lesson on the importance of pitching, even though the ball be lively, the best town in which to study it is Philadelphia. In quaint old Quakertown, the Phils are leading the National league in batting, and they are last in the pennant race. In the other league the Yankees, Indians and Senators are hitting above the Athletics, yet the A's have the pennant practically cinched.

The Phils have suffered some putrid pitching. The A's mound staff is about the best in either league. There is the answer. Take away Grove and Earnshaw, or shave their effectiveness by say 20 per cent and you would see a race in the American league like that of the National. Thirty games mean a lot on this side of the ledger or that.

The Phunny Phils have basked baseballs all over the place, yet they get nowhere. The combined batting average of three men on the team—Klein, O'Doul and Sherlock — is something like .380.

Here is what the increased number of long hits has done: It has reduced the quantity known as batting power. Three hundred hitters used to be sluggers. But that's no hitting any more. The good hitters bat around .400 now, and almost anybody who knows how to stand up to the plate can get at least one out of four. Hitting doesn't mean so much these days. The importance of a hard-hitting ball club has been minimized.

The Phils right now have scored about 700 runs. They have averaged nearly seven runs per game. In the days of Doyle, Cobb and Wagner, when pitchers were tougher than they seem to be at present, seven runs would have won almost any ball game. Yet the Phils have lost almost twice as many games as they have won.

There's another reason. Everybody is hitting long drives. In the National league, out of 100 players who have been hitting .215 or better, only 16 have failed to hit home runs. In the American league, out of about the same number with a similar average

"Wild Man" Macias, Los Alamitos two-fisted socker who knocked out Matt Codan and Paul De Hate in the same week recently, draws dangerous opposition at the Orange County Athletic club this week.

Promoter H. T. Foust is asking Bill Darnley's rugged protege to fight Willard Tedford Thompson, better known as just plain Ted Thompson, in a 10-round windup to a 34-round "bargain bill" Thursday night.

Thompson shapes up like the best boxer Macias has encountered since the first of the year. The colored man has been beating them all at Culver City, Ocean Park and other comparatively small arenas where he has been working lately.

Among Thompson's souvenirs are Russell Brock, "Sandy" Garrison, Joe Peregrina, Cecil Balding, Jack Grande, Al Hererra, Bob Pryor and Charlie Timms. Students of boxing know this kind of competition averages better than most of Macias' late lamented victims.

Macias completed his training yesterday with a vigorous workout at the Santa Ana gymnasium. He claimed he was in splendid condition. Darnley says he will come in about 154 pounds, which will give him a pound or two on Willard Tedford.

Another newcomer who packs a pretty pretentious record is Frankie Manns, semi-windup rival of Tony Moreno. Like Thompson, Mr. Manns has been main-eventing at harbor clubs with considerable success. Some of his recent foes are Augie de Mille, Ramon Lugo, Kid Avelino, "Dutch" Easter, Johnny Previs, Leo Domingo and Martin Zuniga. Manns is reputed to be a step-forward fighter of the Moreno type so a truly aggressive bout is anticipated.

Other contests this week are "Spike" Harvey vs. Eddie Lozano, six rounds; John Todd vs. Nick Mestas, four rounds; "Bucky" O'Brien vs. "Bull" Carraway, four rounds; Ralph Garcia vs. Henry Pitts, four rounds.

Night baseball's "little world series"—at least an important preliminary to it—gets going up Whittier way tonight.

Santa Ana's Stars and Whittier's Quakers, divisional champions, begin a five-game playoff to determine which will represent the National Night Baseball league against Colton for the 1930 Southern California championship.

The second game will be played here Friday, the third at Whittier next Monday, the fourth and fifth on the following Wednesday and Friday, if necessary.

Off past performances, the clubs figure to engage in a long series. It will be a real surprise if one team shows enough ginger ti take the flag in three straight jumps.

Whittier won the first half of the split season all by itself. Santa Ana took the second half but did not cinch first place until the last night of the schedule.

Whittier's Decline Unexplained

Slow away from the barrier, the Stars were lucky to finish third in the half that Whittier won. Weakening or coasting or just plain "dogging" it, Whittier ended fifth for the second half that Santa Ana won. No satisfactory reasons have yet been given for Whittier's decline, and it may take the Santa Ana series to render an explanation.

Santa Ana has a better record for the whole campaign and has been playing so much better ball of late that the team will enter the series a slight favorite.

Whittier is popularly supposed to have the better pitching, while Santa Ana's infield and outfield are rated better, both on offense and defense.

If Hugh Fullerton were doping the series he would pick Santa Ana to win in four games.

The Stars hope to get off in front tonight so they can breathe easier if they have to "dig in" for a prolonged argument with their limited mound corps.

Cornelius to Pitch

There was some talk that Herb Salveson would pull a "Connie Mack" and start Ray Price, the slow-ball expert, in the opener, but this is not likely. Salveson intimated he would use Joe Cornelius, the iron man ,himself who won 20 games while losing three for the Stars since May 1. Cornelius has worked seven games in succession.

Some of the folk thought Price might draw the first assignment because he has never opposed Whittier, whereas Cornelius has three times and lost twice.

Likes to Hear Wife Play

Sweeter to him than the cheers of the fans is popular and semi-classical music, especially from the grand piano which his wife often plays. She once taught music in her home town of Athens, Ga. Before that she had attended Bereau college at Gainsville and the State Normal at Athens, incidentally taking some domestic science courses which later were to govern the diet of a sports hero.

"I don't care a lot about doing the cooking," Mrs. Ruth confessed, "but I like to see that it's done right. We're blessed with an excellent cook now, but of course there are lots of times when I get meals myself."

Ham and cabbage is the Bambino's particular passion at the domestic plate. He counts on having it at least once a week. In the winter it's real Italian spaghetti, prepared by Mrs. Ruth. Sometimes when he has been a particularly good boy, extra conscientious in his diet and exercise, or in celebration of a brace of home runs, she turns out a freezer of home-made ice cream. That, to the idol of fandom, is just about the ultimate reward.

Drive Own Automobile

Because Ruth and his wife both enjoy driving their 16-cylinder car —she recently piloted it alone from Detroit to New York—they refuse to have a chauffeur. She now takes him to and from the ball park every day. And because they enjoy the fan mail which pours in from all over the country, they never have a hired secretary.

"Most of the letters, of course, are rather ridiculous," she said. "We get requests for everything from uniforms and baseballs to tickets for the world series. Scores of autograph books are sent in, and bushels of balls for his signature. I answer by hand all the letters that deserve a reply.

"We have complete charge of our business affairs too. Babe and I just talk over investments and salaries and things like that. It seems to me that money is easy enough to take care of once one gets it."

Winter Plans Already Made

Their winter plans are about the same as last year. He'll go hunting in Maryland, and will play golf until snow drives him from the links. Mrs. Ruth gave up the game after one lesson, but she walks around with him for the exercise and companionship.

She declared rather decisively that there will be no barn-storming tour this fall, nor even a vaudeville engagement. They'll go to the theater and football games and prize fights, and will have more of their friends in for quiet evenings at home. Quiet, that is, until Ruth lures his cronies into the billiard room.

The children are now in a camp in Vermont, where she occasionally drives to visit them. The Babe misses them, hopes they'll be home soon. He hopes, too, that there will be some children of their own some day.

The phones rang. "Yes?—Yes—A home run in the third inning? That's fine. Tell him I'm coming up after all. I'll be there in time for the seventh!"

the nomination for Whittier unless old "Rube" Ellis, a foxy coot with a good many years of major league outfielding as a background, trys some strategy, too. Ellis might figure on using "String" McDonnell, usually effective against the Stars, instead of Johnson, who has worked wonders against every other team in the race but Santa Ana.

Wilcox Behind Bat

The rest of either lineup is not quite as puzzling.

"Eeny" Wilcox will catch for Santa Ana, with Bill Cole at first base, Leavitt Daley at second, Bill Hunter at third and "Memphy" Hill, short. Randolph Bell, Wayne Nelson and "Rosy" Merrill will be in the outfield.

Ted Rasmussen will be behind the pan for the Quakers. Unless Ellis decides to employ McDonnell at first base for his hitting, the initial sack will be guarded by Ray Johns. Sucksdorf will be at second, either Jertberg or Arley Hill at third and "Red" Moon at short.

Tom Denney, the club's best all-around ball player, will be stationed in left field, "Brass" Davis in center and Sepulveda, Rodriguez or Tom Hill in right field. McDonnell might possibly be in this spot, too. Right field has given Whittier lots of trouble all season.

No seats will be reserved for any of the games at Whittier and, as the seating capacity of the Quaker park is limited, Santa Ana fans are advised to get there early. Game time is 8 o'clock.

All seats will be reserved for the games in Santa Ana. Tickets will go on sale for the Friday contest tomorrow morning at 8 o'clock. They may be procured at Baker's bakery, 214 West Fourth street, or the El Corral service station, Third and Birch streets.

MANDELL IN BREAK WITH HIS MANAGER

CHICAGO, Aug. 19.—Sammy Mandell plans to return to the prize ring in an attempt to regain the world lightweight championship which he lost to Al Singer of New York last month.

In announcing plans for his comeback, Mandell said he was severing relations with his manager, Eddie Kane, and would handle his own affairs.

Kane, who has a contract calling for 50 per cent of Mandell's earnings until July 6, 1931, said he would not interfere with the Rockford boxer, but would insist on securing his share of Sammy's earnings.

Both Mandell and Kane denied that their break was occasioned by a suspicion Mandell was "doped" before his fight with Singer. Sammy denied that he had ever made the "doping" charges attributed to him.

BLAMES IT ON STYLE

One old-timer I talked to recently says he doesn't think the ball is livelier than it was when Wagner was playing.

"Every ball player that goes up to the plate now," he says, "draws back and takes a golf swing at the ball. It's either drive it out of the park or no count.

"The younger players have been influenced I think, by Babe Ruth. The fame that the long clouts earned for the big fellow is what draws them. They pattern their style after his. There are no more choke hitters like Willie Keeler used to be. Balls are supposed to be hit hard."

All of which, it seems to me, increases the value of a pitcher. A young man who can become good enough to hold these sluggers in leash is an even greater asset to a ball team than a couple of Babe Ruths. If you don't believe it, look at he weaoinshdriuemfwypvbb look at the two Philadelphia ball teams.

THE thing that is wrong with this picture is that the unfortunate gentlemen did not use Macmillan Gasoline. He would have passed this railroad track and gone many more miles on a tank full of Macmillan.

The Macmillan Gasoline you buy today is maufactured by a process newly discovered by Macmillan chemists. It is protected by patent and is owned exclusively by this company. It is known as the "Boner-Campbell process."

Because this process retains certain elements lost by the old methods of refining, it produces a gasoline containing qualities in a combination heretofore considered impossible: quick starting, 12 per cent greater power and more mileage.

The Macmillan Petroleum Corporation guarantees Macmillan Gasoline will give you more miles per gallon than any gasoline you ever used or your money will be refunded without argument.

CHAPTER 16

Long after the name of Aline Everett was all but forgotten by the general public, it was quoted with familiar admiration in the shop talk of the legal profession. The defendant, to be sure, was remembered only as a necessary prerequisite. What happened to Aline Everett was unimportant. It was as an example of brilliant defense against heavy odds that the Everett case achieved fame in California legal history.

The part played by Peter Piper of the Herald in shaping the course of that surprising drama was never mentioned. He held an even less important place in the recital than Aline Everett, for the reminiscent lawyers had never heard of him. Yet if it had not been for Peter, that classic defense would never have become famous, and in all likelihood twelve men and women, modern descendants of the ancient fates, would have spun a different thread of life for Aline Everett.

Jake Carter no longer had time to sit with his feet on the verandah railing. His hotel was filled with city reporters, who demanded ice water at all hours, played poker noisily long after a reasonable bed time, and consumed unlimited quantities of ginger ale. Jake viewed with abysmal contempt anyone who diluted good whisky with any milder beverage. He disliked having his rest disturbed by the clacking of typewriters and the shouting through opened transoms of requests for cigaretts and correct initials. He objected to the honking of automobile horns as press cars tore into the yard in the middle of the night, filled with reporters who had "filed their yarns" at the telegraph office ten miles away and who seemed to think that the occasion called for loud celebration.

Peter alone remained in his good graces.

"All this fuss over a mere shootin'," he said with deep disgust. "Time was when we strung a feller up or let him go, and the whole business didn't take more'n half an hour. You'd think nobody'd ever got a bullet in him before from the racket they make about it. It's plumb spoilin' the summer, that's what it is." He shuffled surlily down the hall in response to a shouted, "Hey!" Jake's hotel was innocent of bells.

"I ain't even got time to read the paper any more," he added pathetically over his shoulder. "And when I do get a look at it, it's all full of what's happenen' right around here, that I know already. What they find to write so much about, I dunno. Here the trial's been goin' on a week, and they're still pickin' a jury. I believe that city lawyer gets paid by the day, and is wastin' time on purpose. Why should he care who's on the jury? One feller's as good as another, say I."

The selection of the jury was indeed a long drawn out affair, eliciting groans from the press as well as the hotel keeper. It was increasingly difficult to make a daily spot news story from the monotonous succession of "excuseds." Moreover, Peter was worried. He wondered if he had made a mistake in selecting Jerome Travis as defense counsel. Tall, handsome, sharp-featured, with a grim mouth and humorous eyes, playing the game with the cautious deliberation of a chess player and with a chess-player's detachment from human values, Travis was easily the leading criminal lawyer in the city. His suave courtesy of manner flashed at times into rapier-keen sarcasm. When he "took an exception," judges had a way of retiring to their chambers at the earliest opportunity, and emerging to announce that they reconsidered their ruling.

His impeccably tailored gray suit seemed in some miraculous manner to shed the yellow August dust which settled on everything in the hot courtroom. The soft collar of his white silk shirt remained immaculate when other collars were wilted. But Peter, the perpendicular line of a worried frown between his eyes, sensed that the figure of Travis had served to intensify the subtle antagonism of a rural community towards an urban interloper.

The first tactical advantage lay with Travis. He had succeeded in disqualifying the local judge, who with undue frankness had express the opinion that "this business of women shooting up whoever they liked and getting away with it had gone too far," Judge Wood, appointed by the Judicial Council to try the case, was at least impartial. With a Vermont accent which decades of residence in California had left unimpaired, he hectored the men and women in the jury box like a patient but sorely tried school master.

Travis wisely hoarded his peremptory challenges, leaving the general questioning to the judge as slip after slip was drawn from the revolving tin box.

"You understand, Mr. Hankins, that it is the province of the court to rule in matters of law. Will you abide by the court's ruling?" the judge repeated for the twenteith time.

"If I think they're right, I will!"

"Now, Mr. Hankins," Judge Wood spoke with elaborate reasonableness, "it is not the province of the juror to determine matters of law but only matters of fact. The court is the sole judge of the law in the case."

Mr. Hankins' round face reddened stubbornly.

"Well, if I thought you was wrong, I'd sure vote again you."

"The court will excuse Mr. Hankins."

Travis drew a neat line through the name of Albert Hankins on the list before him, and leaned back, fingering his gold pencil.

The questions rumbled on.

"You have heard the questions put to the other jurors, Miss Hinman, would you be prejudiced in favor of the defendant because she is a woman?"

"Not when she's that kind of a woman!" The words came with venomous energy from thin and spinsterish lips.

"The defense will excuse Miss Hinman for cause." The gold pencil rapped sharply on the scarred table top.

"Would you be prejudiced against the defendant because she is a woman?" Linforth, the district attorney, interposed.

"I'm certainly prejudiced against any woman who—"

"One moment, please," Travis spoke so quickly that Miss Hinman's pale lips remained half open. "In the interests of time, the defense is quite willing to leave it to his honor to question the juror."

The judge leaned forward.

"Well, now, Miss—er—Hinman, laying such prejudice aside, would you be willing to be tried in a case of this kind by a jury of like mind with yourself?"

Miss Hinman's lips pursed with conscious virtue.

"If I'd acted like Mrs. Everett, I'd certainly think any jury was a parcel of fools that let me off!"

"The court will excuse Miss Hinman."

Again and again the same questions were repeated.

"Conscientious scruples against the death penalty in a proper case ...." At each mention of the death penalty, Aline Everett flinched. She sat at the table next to Travis, but she disregarded him. Her eyes were fixed on the procession of men and women who filed forward to the jury box.

"Mr. Hicks, you have heard what I said to the other jurors. Do you understand the nature of circumstantial evidence?"

"Well, I'll tell you how it is," Mr. Hicks, who had held forth as local philosopher in front of the general store on numerous occasions, leaned back at his ease, pressing the tips of his bony fingers together.

"I wouldn't convict nobody on circumstantial evidence unless I was right there and saw the crime committed."

"But if you saw the crime committed, you would not be allowed to serve as a juror. You would be a witness," the judge explained patiently.

"I've said m ysay, and I'll stick to it. I'd want to see what happened with my own eyes."

"The people will excuse Mr. Hicks," Linforth interposed hastily.

"Mr. Linforth, the court is questioning this juror." The judge's lean, worn face with its crown of carefully brushed gray hair turned to the district attorney as if he were a child who had spoken out of turn. Peter somehow expected him to produre a ruler and rap Linforth voer the knuckles with it. "The court will excuse Mr. Hicks."

"The challenge is with the people..The challenge is with the defense.." The words sang in her ears like some endlessly repeated refrain.

"And the defense, your honor."

Content! What an odd word to use! Aline's eyes roved over the two rows of chairs in the jury box, resting on each face in turn—faces red and glistening with the heat, faces dry and pinched, faces dull and blank, or self-important or eager with curiosity—the faces of the men and women who could send her to the gallows. Somewhere she had read the phrase, "a jury of your peers." But they were not her peers! "Conscientious scruples against the death penalty in a proper case." They could sentence her to death. She was in the power of those stupid, pompous faces. But they were not her peers. They could kill her, but that did not make her one of them. Going down to death, between those rows of leering faces, hers was still the victory. They could not bring her to their level, nor make her less than herself.

As the jury rose to file out, she opened her small brocaded bag, and with swift, sure fingers drew out her long green holder and deftly inserted a cigarette.

"The challenge is with the defense—"

She challenged them. "Dauntless the slug horn—" She met their inimical eyes with a mocking smile of her carefully rouged lips. A series of perfect smoke rings floated towards the empty jury box. Above the smile her eyes stared straight before her with the glittering brightness of an unsheathed sword.

She scarcely noticed when Travis's long, dry fingers seized her wrist. Unresisting, she allowed him to wrench the cigarette holder from her hand, and grind it under his heel on the court room floor.

COOLIDGE TELLS HOW TO PICK GOOD MEN FOR PUBLIC OFFICE

Pearson Measures Up

Declaring that our government needs good public officers more now than ever before, that the beginning of good government is in good nominations and that the people should nominate the best qualified candidates, Calvin Coolidge, former President of the United States, according to press dispatches Saturday made a statement that fits conditions in Orange county and which may very appropriately be applied to the selection of the right candidate for nomination for sheriff.

He said in part: "At this season we are engaged in selecting candidates. Those now nominated will dominate the government in a few months. The beginning of good government is in good nominations. It is time we gave serious and conscientious attention to our right to vote by nominating the best qualified candidates.

"The people do know men. They can judge of character, ability and experience. Our government never needed good public officers more than now. The people can have them if they will take them. Unless we make our nominations on merit, public questions will not be decided on merit."

This statement is particularly pertinent to the race for sheriff in Orange county. The voters have an opportunity to nominate—and later elect—a man of character, ability and experience, who is unquestionably qualified for the position. They can do it by voting for James M. Pearson, chief of police at Fullerton.

Pearson is a trained peace officer of unquestioned integrity and loyalty. He is a capable executive who has proved his ability — a man whose life will bear the most rigorous inspection—who is interested deeply in good government—who recognizes no "boss" but the voice of the people as expressed through the laws they have adopted.

IMPROVEMENTS ALSO PLANNED BY OFFICIALS

Over the negative vote of Councilman John L. McBride, the city council last night, at its regular session, adopted a resolution providing for the creation of an assessment district for improving Flower street from Walnut to Seventeenth. The proposed assessment district takes in the entire length of Flower street.

Proposed improvements include the opening of the thoroughfare between Fifth and Sixth streets, for which right-of-way must be acquired through condemnation proceedings; the widening of the street from 40 to 70 feet between Washington and Seventeenth; and the straightening of the thoroughfare at First street, removing a jog at that intersection. The cost of securing rights-of-way for the proposed changes will cost about $23,000, City Engineer Clyde Jenken declared.

Mayor Frank L. Purinton, and Trustees W. G. Kelly and B. O. Sutton voted in favor of the project; Trustee John L. McBride voted against it. Councilman Stanley Goode was not present at the meeting. Though McBride did not give any reasons for his opposition, inquiries revealed that he thought that the matter had not been sufficiently discussed among the property owners who will be called upon to foot the bills.

Robert Brown, owner of the Santa Ana Book store, an done of Santa Ana Book store, and one of Sanwill favor the club members with songs. Alan Revill wil laccompany Brown. President B. Z. McKinney urged a big attendance and also stated the meeting will be open to the public.

Why Fat Men Stay Fat

"The trouble with me, and I guess this applies to 99 per cent of the men who are putting on weight, I didn't have the energy or 'pep' to keep it off. Lost all interest in any healthy activity and just lazied around accumulating the old pounds until I got that 'Kruschen feeling'."

Start taking Kruschen Salts—that's the common sense way to reduce—but don't take them with the idea that they possess reducing qualities in themselves.

This is what they do—they clean out the impurities in your blood by keeping the bowels, kidneys and liver in splendid working shape and fill you with a vigor and tireless energy you'd most forgotten had existed.

As a result instead of planting yourself in an easy chair every free moment and letting flabby fat accumulate, you feel an urge for activity that keeps you moving around doing the things you've always wanted to do and needed to do to keep you in good condition.

Then watch the pounds slide off! Kruschen Salts are the up-to-date Fountain of Youth. Take one-half teaspoonful in a glass of hot or cold water tomorrow morning and every morning—and if they don't change your whole idea about reducing, go back and get the small price you paid for them. Get an 85 cent bottle of Kruschen Salts—lasts 4 weeks—at Mateer's Drug Co., and Givens & Cannon, or any progressive druggist anywhere in the world.—Adv.

Yesterday at 11:30 p. m., he heard a disturbance in his chicken house and, covering the door of the chicken house with his shotgun, decided to capture the thief as he appeared from the chicken pen.

Silently he waited until cautiously a head appeared in the doorway. He pulled the trigger and the thief fell dead. it was a skunk.

CITY DECIDES NOT TO BID ON WILLARD SITE

Because of lack of funds and not desiring to burden the taxpayers with another bond issue, the city of Santa Ana will not be a bidder for the school property on North Main street, now used as a site for the old Frances E. Willard junior high school, suggested for a civic center, it was learned last night at the city council meeting.

The matter of negotiating for the site was taken up at a conference meeting held yesterday afternoon. Following a lengthy discussion of the various phases of the situation, it was decided to drop the project for financial reasons. In this connection it was learned that an offer to trade the city hall property for the old Willard school site is not favorably entertained by the school trustees, who want cash for the school site. Likewise, inquiries revealed, there are no immediate prospects for selling the city hall property. Negotiations undertaken some time ago to that end were of no avail, it was added.

Mayor F. L. Purinton said that personally he favored the civic center idea, but that the project was out of question at this time because of lack of money.

"The construction of a group of buildings, composing the proposed civic center, would cost several hundred thousand dollars, and I doubt the willingness of the taxpayers to vote a bond issue for that purpose," he declared.

ROCKHILL RESIGNS POSITION IN BANK

Edwin Rockhill, cashier of the Commercial National bank since its organization some time ago, presented his resignation at a recent board of directors meeting, stating that on the advice of his physician, he was leaving because of ill health.

Rockhill will devote his time to outside interests but has not definitely decided what he will do. A. I. Mellenthin, vice president, was appointed to fill Rockhill's place as cashier, and Leland Finley and G. C. Brooks were advanced to the positions of assistant cashiers. Finley was a note teller and Brooks a receiving teller.

SCHOOL TO BE BUILT BY LONG BEACH CONCERN

After receiving a pledge from Charles W. Pettifer of Long Beach, that his company would place the contractor's bond in Santa Ana, employ Santa Ana labor and purchase materials so far as possible in this city, the Santa Ana board of education, with one dissenting vote, last night awarded the general contract for the erection of the Frances Willard Junior High school to the Charles W. Pettifer company of Long Beach.

This company was low bidder for the work at a price of $221,000. The awarding of this contract and the others covering electrical, plumbing and heating work was made in accordance with recommendations of the supervising architects, Allison and Allison.

Total cost of the new northside junior high school plant, as determined by the awards last night, which included some alternates that had been provided for in the specifications, amounted to $277,339. The alternates added $1200 for genuine slate blackboards, $6950 for using battleship linoleum as floor coverings throughout, $420 for a different type of electric clock, and deducted $580 for a change in roofing specification, from the original bids.

Plumbing contract was awarded to Ora King of South Pasadena, at $14,985. The electrical contract went to Cave Electric company of Santa Ana, at $12,680, plus the additional for the electric clock, and the heating contract was awarded to H. O. Ehlen of Orange, at $20,684. The general contract, which went to the Long Beach company, totaled $228,570.

The awards were made on a motion by Dr. Roy Horton, after an executive session of the board lasting for an hour, during which Pettifer was called before the board and an ineffectual effort was made to get in touch with William Rohrbacher, Santa Ana contractor, who was second low bidder on the general contract. The dissenting vote was cast by Herbert Miller, who, it was learned, favored awarding the contract to Rohrbacher, whose bid was $1945 higher than Pettifer's.

Work on the new junior high school will begin as soon as equipment can be moved over from Long Beach, Pettifer stated. It is anticipated that operations will be started next Monday morning at the site, corner of Ross street and West Washington avenue.

S. M. Duff, associated with Pettifer in the contracting company, was also present at the meeting last night. Four operating points will be maintained on the job, in order to handle the concrete efficiently, it was declared, and the general contractors pointed out that there would be 225 men on the job at times after it was well under way. A big crew will not be employed until after excavating and preliminary work is completed.

The new plant probably will be completed late next May, according to an estimate by Pettifer last night. It will be one of the finest schools in Southern California, providing the most modern facilities for junior high school students There will be an auditorium with a seating capacity of 600, main class room, laboratory and office building built on a court style, cafeteria and shop buildings.

JEFFERSON SCHOOL LOCATION PUZZLE AGAIN BEFORE BOARD

A solution of the problem of where to locate the new Jefferson school that has been promised by the Santa Ana board of education to the citizens of the northwest part of the city and for which plans have been prepared, was suggested at the board meeting last night by C. C. Downie, who called attention of the board to a 10 acre tract at the northwest corner of Flower street and Santa Clara avenue, owned by Harry Smith.

It was suggested to the board that this site would be acceptable to the planning commission and city council provided a strip 200 feet deep along Flower street were reserved for home sites facing Flower street. This would leave about 6.6 acres for the board's use, but there was some objection concerning this being too much ground for a school.

Objection also was raised by board members concerning the probable opening of streets through parts of this tract. It was announced by Dr. John Ball that the price for the tract was in the neighborhood of $5000 per acre.

An audit of books of the city school system and some additions to the bookkeeping plan now in operation may be undertaken, it developed last night. Some changes have been recommended by a Los Angeles accountant, A. B. Henry, to members of the board to provide a more complete set up, and he is to be invited to confer with the board on this subject at the September meeting. Henry, it is said, found the books here more complete than in most places and in good condition.

SCORES ATTEND 'FAMILY CAMP' IN MOUNTAINS

The "Family Camp" being conducted at Osceola, by the Orange county Y. M. C. A. is proving a drawing card for scores of friends of the Y. M. C. A. who welcome the opportunity to visit this famous recreation ground, so much beloved by the boys who go there from year to year, it was revealed today.

R. C. Smedley, general secretary of the local Y, returning from camp yesterday, reported that 78 people were at Osceola for the week end, and that about 50 are remaining for the entire camp period, while others are driving up for shorter stays.

A very simple program is being carried on, including long nights of sleep and three good meals every day. Swimming, hiking, nature study, golf and other games are enjoyed, while most of the campers are appreciating especially the opportunity for rest and quiet.

The church service at 11 a. m. Sunday attracted campers from outside Osceola. The service was conducted by R. C. Smedley, and the music was in charge of Miss Jacobs, of Orange, who used a choir made up of the younger girls of the camp. The evening campfire was addressed by Mrs. E. H. Brunemeier, of Placentia, who gave an interesting account of her experiences as a missionary in China, and her encounters with bandits there.

The "Osceola Daily Grumbler" is being edited this week by a large staff of reporters and editors. Marian Parsons is editor in chief, while Helen Heil has the position of city editor, with many assistants.

The camp will be crowded again over next week end, and will come to its close next Monday, when the campers will return home, leaving the camp for the annual meeting of the Southern California Hi-Y boys.

Visitors who wish to go to camp for a day or two this week will find accommodations awaiting them there.

LOCAL REVIVAL SERVICES WILL BE CONTINUED

Despite the vacation season, the interest in the revival among the young people of the Church of The Nazarene is increasing, according to the pastor, the Rev. U. E. Harding. The house was packed Sunday evening and many were turned away for lack of seating space. And while Monday night is considered an off night in such campaigns, the house was filled again last night and the Sunday school rooms had to be thrown open to care for the people.

The meetings were scheduled to close last Sunday but the interest seemed to warrant continuation throughout this week.

Last night the young people of the Nazarene churches of Midway City and Placentia attended in a body. The message was delivered by Mendle Taylor, son of the Rev. Taylor, pastor of the Nazarene Church at Brea. The young preacher is but 17 years old, and has had one year in college, but during the vacation season is filling the pulpit for his father, who is spending the vacation in Oklahoma. It was announced that the young preacher will speak again Thursday night in Santa Ana Nazarene church.

Tonight, the young people of Nazarene churches of Anaheim and Fullerton will attend in a body and will put on the musical program, while the Rev. Cora Isham, pastor of the church at Anaheim will preach. The Santa Ana society will be in charge of the services tomorrow night with Ruth Sweeney as speaker.

STUDENTS STOP HERE ON TOUR THROUGH WEST

Traveling in a large auto bus, 25 students of the University of Missouri, on their first annual geography field tour through the western states and Mexico, arrived here last night and registered at Hotel Santa Ana. They have been on the road since August 2, having visited points in Nebraska, Wyoming, including the Yellowstone National park, Idaho, Nevada and Northern California.

The party is composed of both men and women, and the primary purpose of the tour is to supplement courses given at the university by first hand impressions of local conditions, particularly as they relate to development of industry and agriculture.

Traveling with the students are three members of the university faculty: Professor Leslie Fahrner, conductor, in charge of the party; Dr. John Quincy Adams, assistant conductor, and Elmer Keithley, business manager. Mrs. B. M. King is chaperon, and Miss Mary A. Hutchinson is the trained nurse.

This is the first trip west of the Rocky Mountains by most of the members, declared Professor Fahrner, and most of them have been agreeably surprised by the magnificence of the scenery which even surpasses the impression gained from seeing photographs or motion pictures. The students were much impressed with the high state of agricultural development in California, he said.

The names of the students in the party follow: Arch Joe Beatty, Mrs. Edward Beatty and Miss Virginia Beatty, Warrensburg, Mo.; Miss Hazel Dobbs, Marysville, Kan.; Alex Byron Campbell, Marysville, Kan.; Miss Pearl T. Greeno, St. Louis, Mo.; Miss Alma H. Harper, Piedmont, Mo.; Miss E. Elizabeth Herrick, Nashua, N. H.; Miss Helen Houston, Newburg, Mo.; Miss Bernice I. Johnson, West Plains, Mo.; Miss Chloe H. ORDINANCE ON TAXI QUESTION GIVEN READING

An ordinance, regulating the operation of local taxi companies, passed its first reading at the city council meeting held last night. The ordinance, drafted in a tentative form, will be presented at a conference meeting next Monday afternoon, to be attended by representatives of the bus company and the local taxi concerns.

City Attorney Charles D. Swanner informed the council that ordinances adopted by larger cities, covering the activities of taxi companies, were not applicable to a community like Santa Ana. For this reason suggestions that the taxicabs be equipped with meters and measuring up to certain specifications in design, style and color, were discarded. It also was thought inadvisable to fix rates by establishing zones.

Councilman John L. McBride took the stand that the taxi companies should have the right to fix their own rates, and that the principal purpose of the ordinance should be to regulate competition with the bus lines. Councilman B. O. Sutton thought that the objective could be reached by requiring the taxi companies to furnish individual service, eliminating the assembling of passengers for group loads.

DO AWAY WITH ASSESSMENT FAVORITISM

George D. Montgomery
—for—
County Tax Assessor

He is pledged to equalized assessments, which will result in the large landowners paying taxes proportionate to those levied upon the small land owners and home buyers. This will bring about a decrease in taxes for all of us.

FOR INSTANCE:

The Irvine Company owns 98,321 acres, or 23% of the total assessed acreage in Orange county.

The assessed valuation is $7,109,075 or 4% of the taxable valuation of the county.

The Irvine taxes amount to $202,489, or only 3% of the county's total tax, according to records of the county auditor.

THINK OF IT! 23% OF THE ACREAGE PAYS ONLY 3% OF THE TAXES!

Do YOUR taxes, Mr. Voter, conform to any such proportion?

The Irvine assessed valuation is $7,109,075, supposed to represent one-fourth of the market value. But TRY to buy the entire Irvine holdings for $60,000, 000! For even $75,000,000.

Does YOUR assessment, Mr. Voter, represent such a ridiculous percentage of the market value of YOUR property?

On the basis of value, and in justice to all other taxpayers, the Irvine ranch assessment should be raised at least $8,000,000. This would mean an increased tax of $212,000, which would bring about lower rates for every taxpayer in the county.

This is only one instance, and there are others, where the average taxpayers are being burdened for the benefit of the few. These glaring inequalities of taxation have already gone on too long.

There MUST BE a change in the office of County Assessor. The only way in which the taxpayers can hope to have assessments equalized is to elect George D. Montgomery to this important office on Tuesday, August 26.

This committee has throughly examined his qualifications and they are without a flaw. If you do not know him personally, we assure you that Mr. Montgomery is the type of man you would be proud of to represent your interests at the courthouse. He is a man of upright character and unquestioned integrity. He is safe, sound, level-headed and broad-minded. He is fearless in the performance of duty; he plays no favorites; he shows no partiality; he caters to no one, and is an independent candidate, seeking your votes as a representative of the public rather than any political group or machine. He is a man big enough to ask and receive advice, but strong enough to withstand any undue influence. He is the man for the job and we urge your vote for him on August 26.

He also appeared with the same orchestra in several radio network programs.

Later Mr. Delgado sang a part in the opera, "Oh, Susanna," presented in Los Angeles and San Francisco. He has received all of his training from Madame Manuela Budrow, of the Hollywood Conservatory of Music, and Santa Ana, where she still maintains her studio.

Members of the Business and Professional Women's club entertained each other at their luncheon yesterday, for those who have been traveling about during their vacations told of the places they visited and events connected with the period. The vacation talks were preceded by Mrs. Minnie Mayhill's reading a letter from Miss Lulu B. Finley who, with her brother, is touring Europe. The letter was written from Vienna. Abundant rain throughout sections in which she has traveled has brought forth much green grass. At the time she wrote the letter Oberammergau and the battle fields were already among the places visited.

The talks by those who were present were led by Mrs. Wilbur Schopfle, who with her husband, Wilbur Schopfle spent the first week of her vacation in the high Sierras, mostly at Virginia Lakes. The trip was made through Lone Pine and Bishop with a stop for a night or two at the latter place. Virginia Lakes is located at an altitude in excess of 10,000 feet and although it was very beautiful the altitude proved too high for Mrs. Schoepfle and the travelers were forced to a lower altitude. They spent the second week of thier vacation quietly at home. It proved to be one of the most successful and delightful vacations, said Mrs. Schoepfle.

Miss Harriet Whidden, who with Miss Lula Ott visited in the Feather River county during her vacation, gave the second talk. They, too, motored to their resting place via Lone Pine and Bishop and on to Reno and Lake Tahoe, by way of Kinsbury Pass. They deviated from the through route for a visit to Twin Lakes and Lake Mary and Lake George. At Feather River they stayed in a lumbering camp. It was arranged, during the period of their stay, for them to camp out of doors at night, without even a tent. Miss Whidden told of visiting the Oriental branch of the Bank of America, located in China. There she said the employees are practically all women, including a woman manager.

Miss Alma Karlson gave the third talk. Miss Damaris Beem and Miss Karlson went to Hawaii for their vacation. In addition to visiting at the usual points of interest for tourists to the islands they were escorted to points of interest not usually visited by the tourists by welfare workers in Honolulu with whom they made contacts. Miss Karlson particularly deplored the intermarriages on the islands from which have issued children who are social outcasts on the islands and frequently neglected by one or both parents.

Mrs. Hazel Northcross, the president of the organization who presided, announced that a miniature golf tournament had been proposed, with the members playing once a week for a series of weeks, turning in four scores and then holding a final run-off of these with the lowest scores, or those with the lowest and those with the highest as well as the lowest, with an award to the winner. Friday night was selected as the night for play, though members can play at any time on the Tom Thumb golf course at South Main and McFadden streets and turn in their scores with their name and Business and Professional Women's club on them, in the course of the next six weeks. The effort was made to accommodate those who will be on their vacations part of the period.

European Visitors Relate Interesting Tales of Travels

Dr. Peryl Magill and Miss Julia Magill, who have just completed three wonderful years spent in Europe, and who have returned here to make their home on a ranch on West Chapman street, have received a warm welcome from their many friends, who have feted them with numerous teas and parties. The travelers are noting with interest the many changes that have taken place here during their absence.

The recent craze for endurance contests of all descriptions seems especially strange to them, as yet these contests have not been introduced abroad. They remarked, however, that the bull fights, which are fostered by the same instinct as marathons, are yet in full sway in Spain. The bull fighters have the appearance usually supposed to be shared by Spanish men in general, the travelers said, and these popular idols are a handsome, dashing lot, with the picturesque attributes of their profession.

While discussing this land of romance, the travelers remarked that they were especially interested in noting Southern Spain's geographical resemblance to Southern California, finding that both places have an abundance of rolling hills and a temperate climate. The trees grown on Spanish land, however, are allowed to grow without pruning. The result is very evident in the olive trees, which bear tiny olives, some no larger than peas.

Part of the extensive journey included a tour of the Riff country, with Xuean as the principal point of interest. Up until three years oga, no Christian had trespassed on this territory, it was said.

Santa Ana women were much interested in the customes of Spanish Morroco, where the women are illiterates and are forced to perform all of the tiresome labor while the men idle their time away on the streets, or perhaps manage some wee shop. Carrying charcoal and cleaning the streets are two of the chief employments for the wage-earners, who are generally sturdy women.

During their European stay, Dr. Magill and Miss Julia Magill were not always traveling, for their winters were usually spent in one place where Dr. Magill practiced her profession. One of these periods was spent o nthe Riviera, while another was spent in Paris. The French were found by them to be exceptionally polite and considerate, as were the Italians. Spain, too, is awaking to the importance of pleasing its tourists, and is instigating various bureaus for this purpose, the travelers said.

While in Paris, the Santa Anans noted that although many of the foremost world styles are created in Paris, the French women lack the iniative to introduce them, and it remains for the American women to popularize the style-center fashions. Long hair, too, is the vogue, but only moderately long locks are the most fashionable decree, these are a length which would be considered as "in between."

Bridge Tea Honors Returned Travelers

Dr. Peryl Magill and Miss Julia Magill have been the honor guests at numerous social affairs since their return to Santa Ana following a period of three years which they spent in Europe. One of the loveliest of recent events of the sort was a bridge tea of the past week, when Miss Louise Tubbs entertained in her attractive Tustin home.

Bridge occupied the afternoon hours, and was played amidst a colorful setting of zinnias in pastel tints. Mrs. Ernest Winbigler held high score, while Mrs. Fannie Reeves was consoled. Each received a most desirable prize.

Tea in the interesting garden of the home where blossoms and plants of all description are in abundance, was a delightful feature of the afternoon. Snowy white linens covered the table, adorned with bouquets of scabiosas and maidenhair fern. Mrs. Fannie Reeves presided at the tea urn.

Santa Anans Return From Delightful Trip

Sixty-five hundred miles in five weeks is the travel record made by Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Trapley, 606 West Eighth street, who have just returned from an automobile tour of ten states of the United States, with the Southern regions more extensively explored by the travelers.

Variety of climate, scenery and highways was experienced by Mr. and Mrs. Tarpley, who encountered rain storms, rough roads and hot weather as well as smooth boulevards and moderate climate. Arkansas was the hottest place of all, with 116 as its peak of heat, they state. From California the couple traveled through northern Texas, and continued to Arizona, Tennessee, Florida, Mexico, Georgia, Mississippi, Louisiana and back through the southern part of Texas.

Mr. Tarpley was almost favorably impressed with conditions in the southern states, and stated that hard times have not as yet gained prominence, but have been magnified by ambitious imaginations.

He thought:
"You're most attractive to look at, but a hint of 'B. O.' spoils your charm."
Yet, to be polite,
He said:
"Sorry I can't join you... it's so hot I'm going for a swim."

and summer heat kept admirers away

MONDAY — they met. Tuesday — a date. Wednesday—their romance was over. True, it was scorching weather. But that didn't excuse . . . body odor. And in a girl who looked so dainty!

Naturally people hesitate to mention such a personal matter, even under the polite term—"B.O." But finally a friend, an older woman, plucked up courage to tell her and suggest an easy way to avoid offending . . . What a difference it has made! Now she wins friends and keeps them—has "dates" galore. "B. O." and unpopularity are banished forever.

Perspiration can be kept odorless

Even on sultriest summer days when we perspire most, there's no need for even a trace of "B. O." But here's the thing to remember. Don't simply trust to luck that you won't offend. We never know when we do. We quickly become accustomed to an ever-present odor and don't notice "B. O." in ourselves. But others do—instantly!

Play safe. Adopt the delightful safeguard used by millions of particular men and women. Wash and bathe with Lifebuoy. Lathers abundantly—even in hardest water. Rich, creamy, antiseptic lather that purifies pores—removes every trace of "B. O."

Work Lifebuoy's bland, creamy, deep-cleansing lather well into the skin. It's the finest kind of a "facial". Gently frees pores of clogged impurities—freshens dull skins—promotes radiant healthy beauty. Hot Foods For Picnic Lunches

Picnic dinners, along with the horse and buggy days of the Gay Nineties, have undergone a complete renovation. No more will the family tolerate soggy, tepid sandwiches, cake and pie, mashed and unappetizing coffee cooked over a campfire which contributes more than its just share of sticks and smoke to the coffee flavor.

When the modern family a-picnicing goes, hot food and attractive service is demanded. This is easy if capacious thermos jugs and coffee bottles can be afforded, when they can't something else must serve, and here the principle back of the fireless cooker comes to the fore.

Supposing the hot dish is fricasseed chicken and noodles; it can be carried miles 'n' miles and still come out of the kettle, steaming hot, if you will just cover the kettle securely, wrap it tightly in many thicknesses of newspaper, and over all an old bath towel wrapped and securely tied.

That's just an idea for you to remember in carrying hot food along when admiring the beauties of nature. Tomorrow I am going to tell you about an appetizing picnic dinner to be cooked at home and carried wherever the day may lead you.

TODAY'S RECIPE

Apple-Cheese Fritters

6 very large tart apples
Grated cheese
1 egg, beaten
Prepared mustard for cheese
Salt and pepper
Cracked dust
Hot fat for frying

Use an apple which cooks through quickly. Right now Bellfleurs are coming in and they are unsurpassed for this purpose or for making pie. Their season is so short I like to use them whenever possible.

Peel the apples but do not core. Cut into slices one-fourth inch thick. Dip the slices of apple into the beaten egg and make a sandwich of two pieces with grated cheese seasoned with mustard as the filling.

Press the apple sandwiches together firmly, dip again into egg, coat with cracker crumbs and fry in medium hot fat until a fork will easily pierce the apple. Serve at once garnished with minced parsley and crisp curls of bacon.

Each apple-cheese fritter has a calory value of approximately 75, half of which belongs to the proteins. This is an unusually happy combination—the apple is good to taste and an aid in digesting the heavier cheese and fat used in frying.

A CHEF'S PASTRY SCERET is offered you just for the trouble of sending in a stamped, self-addressed envelope for the free copy we offer this week only. You'll enjoy the story of how I managed to get this recipe, even if you never use the recipe, so I hope you will send for it right away. If apple pie is a favorite in your family send for it without fail.

Tomorrow's dessert will be Fruit Sponge, easy to make and a dessert everyone likes. Particularly good for children.

Wee Kirk o' Heather Setting For Lovely Morning Wedding

Choosing to solemnize her nuptial vows in the Wee Kirk o' the Heather, in Glendale, Miss Freda Young, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Snyder, of Los Angeles, and Clarence B. Pool, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Pool, of this city, were united in marriage at an impressive early morning service, Saturday. Officiating was the Rev. Norman B. Henderson, pastor of the First Congregational church of Fresno, who was minister of a Redlands church attended by the bridegroom. The natural charm of the surroundings was enhanced by early fall flowers in harmonizing tones of orange and russet.

When the strains of "O Promise Me" and "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life" had softly echoed away, the bridal party entered to Lohengrin's wedding march. The bride's petite and brunette, was very attractive in a princess fitted gown of egg shell with bouffant skirt. She wore an embroidered net veil held by a wreath of orange blossoms. Her bouquet was an exquisite shower of creamy rose buds and lilies of the valley. She was attended by the Misses Gadriat Harrah and Frances Stewart, as bridesmaids, wearing peach georgette and carrying bouquets of pastel sweet peas. Miss Marie Stutz, of Vancouver, Wash., as maid of honor, was very lovely in a pale green crepe frock. The bridegroom was attended by his brother, Elwin Pool, as best man, while Richard Snyder and Gurstane Mack served as ushers. The bride was given away by her father.

Following the quiet ceremony, attended by relatives and a few friends of the young couple, the party motored to the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Pool on West First street, where a delectable wedding breakfast was served. A silver model airplane built by the bridegroom when he was just a lad, hung from a central chandelier, while place cards at the table were copies of the ship, painted by Miss Viola Pool, his sister. These were symbols of Mr. Pool's future life work, as aeronautical engineer. Table appointments featured a huge wedding cake prettily decorated with love birds and baked by the bridegroom's mother, who followed the recipe she used in her own bridal cake.

Those attending the breakfast were Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Snyder, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Pool, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Olsen, Mrs. J. W. Hillyer, the Misses Marie Stutz, Gadriat Harrah, Viola Pool, Messrs. Richard Snyder, Hugh and Henry Rossire, Enell Daniels, Elwin Pool, and the newly married couple, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence B. Pool.

The young people will make their home in Hollywood, where Mr. Pool is employed by the Beverly Hills Motors, Inc., as head of the paint department.

PLANE THRILL

TULSA, Okla., Aug. 19.—Bill Barnwell, assistant at the municipal airport here, got his biggest thrill in a runaway plane recently. Getting into a plane in which the motor was idling, Barnwell accidentally opened the throttle and the plane was well on its way to a ditch at the end of the field before he discovered that there was no pilot at the stick. Quick work saved the plane.

Whittier Church Is Chosen By Santa Ana Girl For Wedding

The First Baptist church of Whittier was the scene of a charming wedding Saturday evening, when Miss Lucille Morgan, of this city, became the bride of H. E. McCullough of Garden Grove.

The bride, a lovely blonde, was attired in a becoming ensemble of blue chiffon and lace and she wore a white taffeta hat, and white accessories. She was attended by her sister, Miss Marie Morgan, who wore a tan ensemble with black accessories.

Frank Hoover, of this city, acted as best man. The service was read by the Rev. Otto S. Russell of Los Angeles, former pastor of the First Baptist church of which the former Miss Morgan was a member.

Upon their return, the couple will live in Los Angeles, where they have a newly finished home.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Morgan of 2033 Greenleaf street. She is a graduate of Santa Ana high school, and for the past year has been employed as assistant secretary in the junior college office.

H. E. McCullough, is the son of John McCullough of Garden Grove, and is a graduate of Garden Grove high school.

R. E. Bernhardts Return From Trip

The summer season is an especially pleasurable one for R. E. Bernhardt, 2203 Lincoln avenue, who as motor boat specialist for the Standard Oil company travels to many of the interesting spots of the United States. He has just returned from an extended journey which included visits to Spokane and Seattle, Wash., and Reno, Nev. He was accompanied from Reno by Mrs. Bernhardt, who motored to that city to meet her husband. The two continued to San Francisco, where they spent a short time.

Motor boat races at Lake Elsinore were enjoyed by Mr. and Mrs. Bernhardt Saturday and Sunday, after which Mr. Bernhardt left for Corvallis, Ore. He will return to Southern California the latter part of the week to attend the motor boat races at Malibu Lake, near Los Angeles.

"LAST OF DUANES" WELL TAKEN HERE

George O'Brien, athletic and handsome young screen actor has a new leading lady in "The Last of the Duanes" the Fox Movietone soul stirring and pulse beating romance of the southwest, which is now playing at the Fox West Coast theater. She is Lucile Browne, petite and beautiful blonde, recently recruited from the New York speaking stage.

The combination is a happy one, both O'Brien and Miss Browne being particularly well suited to their roles. In fact the entire cast is a carefully selected one with Myrna Loy and Walter McGrail portraying the other featured characters and James Bradbury, Jr., Lloyd Ingraham, Nat Pendleton, Frank Campeau, Blanche Friderici, James Mason and Willard Robertson in the supporting roles.

The story was adapted from Zane Grey's widely read novel of the same name by Ernest Pascal and is the first of the Fox Movietone "Greater Outdoor Romances." It deals with the romantic and exciting adventures of Buck Duane, handsome young rancher, who becomes an outlaw after he has killed his father's cowardly assassin. He later wins his pardon as well as the heart and hand of a beautiful girl, by aiding in the extermination of a daring and ruthless band of cattle rustlers and killers.

They will be Mrs. Goodchild, Mrs. Strupp as assistant conductor, Mrs. Mae Delacour as chaplain and a musician and color bearer will be named, following the resignation of Mrs. Eva McFadden, who is ill.

WILL ROGERS HERE IN NEWEST FILM

One of the many hilarious scenes in the Movietone comedy, "So This Is London," starring Will Rogers, which is now playing at the Fox Broadway theater, is the scene in the passport office where Will, with his screen wife, Irene Rich, and his screen son, Frank Albertson, go through the formality of answering all questions answered by the office.

Will gets along fairly well until the official demands proof of his birth.

"Say," yells Will, "down where I come from when we meet a fella we kinda take it for granted he's been born."

With that out of the way the official demands witnesses to his birth and Will flares back:

"Well, you see my folks were plain sort of people and mother wasn't the kind to make a public ceremony over a birth. There warn't nobody around at the time but mother and me and the doctor."

"So This Is London" is based on the stage success written by Arthur Goodrich and produced by George M. Cohen.

A treasure hunt with all of its interesting features was the theme of a party given by the Senior Christian Endeavor society of the Buena Park Congregational church Friday evening.

Instructions were issued to the young people to meet at the church where notices were posted to go to the R. D. Bacon home on South Grand avenue. From there the members were instructed to go to the corner of Ball road and Stanton avenue and notices posted on a telephone pole informed them that a treasure box was buried at the G. S. Davis ranch on Ball road, near Magnolia avenue. After a search in the sand in the orchard at the Davis ranch, Billy Dow uncovered the treasure, which was a box of candy.

Games and stunts provided entertainment for a merry evening, and home made cakes and ice cream were served at a late hour, by the hostess committee, comprising the Misses Estelle Upshaw, Margaret Cole and Lelia and Lloyd Foster. Fred Davis was general which was attended by a group of 27 of the young people of the chairman of this unique party church.

Mrs. H. S. Horn and children, Leona and Harold, are enjoying the family camp at Camp Osceola in the San Bernardino mountains. Mr. Horn went up for over the week end.

New scenes the bunch set out to find and left the Parthenon behind. When far away they all looked back. "My, what a wondrous sight," said Scouty. "I am sure that we have been as lucky as could be to visit such a place as that. You'll all agree I'm right."

"You bet we will," the bunch replied. And then the Travel Man sighed and said, "Well, there is more to come. Just wait until you see the other buildings 'round about. They will amaze you all, no doubt. I've seen them all before, but they are still a thrill to me."

They shortly reached a real small street and Coppy said, "You cannot beat these folks for saving space. They sure make use of every bit. Instead of highways being wide, the shops and houses, side by side, leave little space for traffic and the folks seem proud of it."

"You're right," said Carpy, "look up there. A porch sticks right out in the air and overhangs this little street. It's rather neat, at that." They passed beneath the porch and heard, from up above, a friendly word. Some women said, "Hello," and every Tiny tipped his hat.

The Travel Man then said, "Let's go out to the stadium. I know that you'll enjoy the races that they're putting on today. A track meet is a lot of fun and you will see fast runners run." "Oh, goody!" cried the Tinymites. And they were on their way.

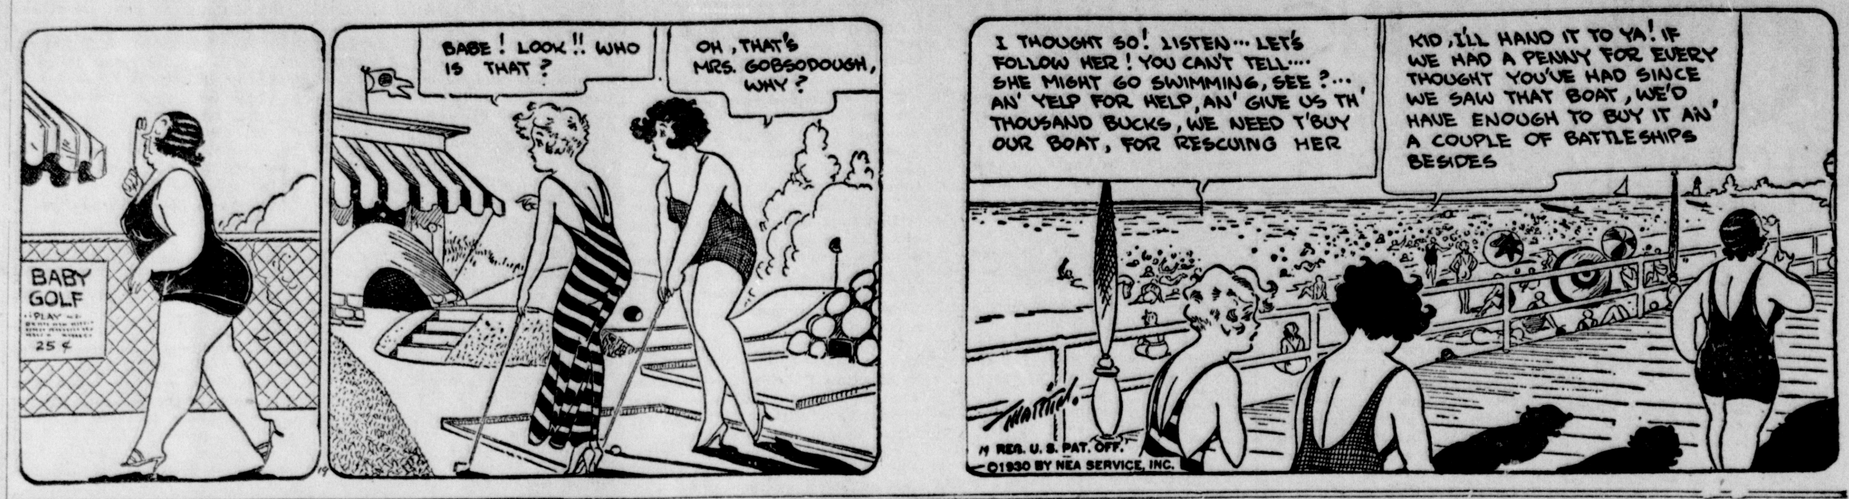

Outside the stadium they found that folks had gathered all around. The gates were shortly opened and the big crowd surged inside. Right near the gate the Tinies stayed and watched a picturesque parade. A band of college students marched in splendor, side by side.

Missing Letter Links

RULES

1. In playing golf on the Missing Letter Links the object is to change one word to another in a given number of strokes which is par. For example, to go from TEE to PIN in three strokes sounds hard but isn't: TEE-TIE-PIE-PIN. It's probably more difficult on a real course.

2. Change but one letter at a time and be sure the word you have used is one in good usage.

3. The order of the letters cannot be changed.

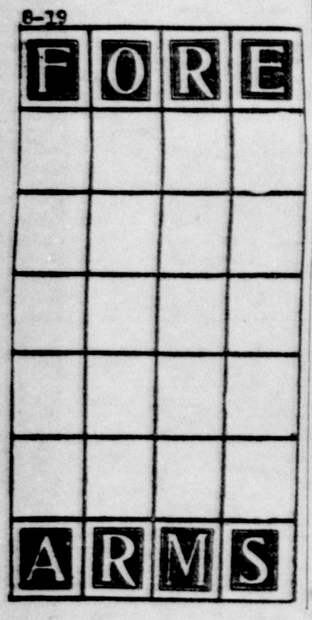

FORE TO ARMS—A powerful pair of FORE ARMS aren't necessary to shoot this long par seven hole. Anyone that can wield a pencil can take a crack at it.

NEW PARKING LAW ADOPTED IN BEACH CITY

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Aug. 19.—Huntington Beach is to have its first parking ordinance. The city council in session Monday afternoon at the city hall instructed the city attorney, Lewis W. Blodget, to frame an ordinance providing for two-hour parking limits on Main street, between Ocean avenue and Olive avenue and between Third and Fifth on the north side of Ocean avenue. The action was taken i ncompliance with a request from the Business Men's association. Action of the council was not unanimous, Councilman Chris H. King voting no on the motion, which was offered by Councilman Elson G. Conrad and seconded by Councilman Bayard Butcher. Councilman Butcher, Conrad and Stevens and Mayor Bowen voted yes.

A letter was read by the city engineer, Merwin Rosson, from Engineer Cortelyou of the state highway commission, in which Cortelyou announced that he would be here at an early date to confer with the city officials relative to the state paving a strip five feet on each side of Ocean avenue, between Twenty-third street and the west city limits and between First street and the east city limits. This will widen the coast highway at two bottlenecks inside the city limits.

On motion of Councilman Conrad, seconded by Councilman Butcher, the city attorney and city clerk were authorized to communicate with the state railroad commission relative to installation of a wigwag signal system over the Southern Pacific tracks on Ocean avenue, east of First street.

City Engineer Rosson was instructed to prepare plans and cost estimate for rock and oil surfaced streets on Quincy and on Crest and for the extension of Frankfort to Main street. It developed there may be two plans for eliminating the short turn in Frankfort street on Alabama at Acacia. One plan contemplates the extension as a new street crossing two blocks. The other plan contemplates a widening of Frankfort street at Alabama.

The matter of permitting camping o nthe beach inside the city limits was discussed at length. Councilman Conrad called attention to a resolution adopted at the council meeting April 8 of this year, which instructed the city attorney to draft an ordinance prohibiting closed tents on the beach. The matter had been held up pending the negotiations for the sale of the beach to the city. At a meeting the city attorney was requested to bring the ordinance before the council at the next meeting, which will be Tuesday night, September 2. John Barlow, owner of the Huntington Beach plunge, at the request of Mayor Bowen, made a short talk on the matter, saying that the beach camping this season had cost the plunge heavily in decrease of business.

A communication was read by City Clerk Charles R. Furr from the Realty board of this city stating that persons were engaged in the real estate business here who did not pay a city license and asking that the ordinance be enforced against offenders. The communication was referred by the council to the chief of police and city clerk with instructions to enforce the ordinance.

CITY COUNCIL NAMES 2 FOR HARBOR SURVEY

NEWPORT-BALBOA, Aug. 19.—A. J. Garfield and Lloyd Claire were last night named as representatives of the city council to act on a joint committee proposed by the Newport Harbor Chamber of Commerce to make a survey of anchorage space and other harbor facilities. The chamber's representatives on the committee are Frank L. Smith and J. B. McNally. City Engineer R. L. Patterson and Harbor Master M. S. Robinson will also be on the committee.

The recent $200,000 improvement at the harbor entrance has brought many new boats and boat owners here and the number is expected to grow as time goes on. During the recent coast championship regattas here the harbor facilities were taxed almost to the limit, and this caused the chamber to suggest the committee.

The new committee is expected to recommend certain improvements inside the bay and also certain arrangements for anchorage during regattas and at other times. Certain private dredging projects already started or about to start will further improve the bay for boating purposes.

Instead of the criticisms which so often comes to public bodies, the city council at its meeting last night received two petitions and a letter, all in commendation of recent actions taken by it.

One petition, signed by 50 persons, praised the city fathers for their recent action in instructing the harbor master and police to enforce the city ordinance against excessive speed of boats in the bay. Another, signed by 14, upheld the council for adopting an ordinance prohibiting the sale and shooting of fireworks.

The letter was from Burma, India, signed by H. M. Davis, now traveling there, and a property owner in Corona del Mar. He lauded the city for taking steps to acquire the shore built up by the east jetty, which is also claimed by the private owners of adjacent property. Davis also supported the proposed ferry service between Balboa peninsula and Corona del Mar, as recently suggested by the Newport Harbor Chamber of Commerce, and he commended H. L. Sherman for his activities on the planning commission and in other ways.

Plans drafted by City Engineer Patterson for a new street along the ocean front for more than half a mile in West Newport were approved by the council, the estimated cost of the acquisition being $18,825 and the entire improvement about $75,000.

An application by E. B. Cubbon and C. E. McFarland, who operate two fishing barges off the Newport pier, for an exclusive franchise for fishing barges here for three years, was taken under advisement until October. Meanwhile, City Clerk Alfred Smith was instructed to find out from other coast cities how they handle their fishing barge problems.

Charging that old buildings have at times been moved into this city, thus allowing termites and other harmful bugs to spread, the Newport Harbor Builders' exchange asked the council to adopt an ordinance prohibiting such action. This was also taken under consideration.

MERGER OF TWO METHODIST CHURCHES SLATED TONIGHT

NEWPORT-BALBOA, Aug. 19.—Members of the Newport and Balboa Methodist churches are scheduled to meet tonight at Newport to finally arrange a merger of the two churches.

There are at present two church buildings, one at Newport and the other at Balboa, and it is planned to dispose of both and build a new church on property recently acquired on the north side of Central between Fourteenth and Fifteenth streets. This property has 287 feet of frontage.

The proposed new edifice will be pretentious enough to take care of the growing community and will serve the church members better than both of the present buildings.

Plans are also being talked over whereby two other church buildings may be erected here. According to these plans, the Presbyterians of this cityw ill build either at Balboa island or Corona del Mar and the Episcopalians in West Newport.

Christian Scientists have headquarters here on the north side of Central avenue in East Newport and Roman Catholics on the south side of Central in Newport.

The home will be constructed just above the ocean and opposite the golf clubhouse. The land was sold through Mayor Thomas F. Murphine. The building when completed will be the largest home here and the first house in the new unit between the ocean and the golf course.

The builders are from Lone Pine, Inyo county, being pioneers of the Owens valley. They were forced from their ranch lands and business by the city of Los Angeles which purchased their lands for water purposes.

Sundquist declared that the California program was one of the outstanding events at the convention and was received with applause by the convention.

Entertainment at last night's meeting was furnished by Evelyn Vee Gaylord, who offered several tap dance numbers as well as other dance numbers. She was accompanied by Miss Harriett Freeman at the piano.

'Oriental Menace' Is Discussed For Fullerton Group

FULLERTON, Aug. 19.—Dangers of an "Oriental menace" were described to members of the Fullerton Kiwanis club at their noon meeting yesterday in McFarland's cafe by the Rev. M. E. Bollen, former pastor of the First Baptist church of Fullerton and now at the University Baptist church at Seattle, who compared the problems of the Southern California and Washington.

The Oriental menace described by the speaker was characterized as an awakening of China and the effort to capture the world markets in competitive trade. The competition is being felt especially by Seattle at the present time, the speaker declared. The problems of the southern districts are much the same as those now facing the north, the Rev. Mr. Bollen pointed out in describing the Oriental problem.

This competition is felt especially in the matter of Russian pulp wood, which puts the business on a plane which the northwest cannot meet.

SECTION 1. For the purpose of creating a fund to provide farm and home aid for veterans in accordance with the provisions of the veterans' farm and home purchase act approved May 30, 1921, and of any and all acts amendatory of or supplemental to said act, the veterans' welfare finance committee created by this act shall be and it hereby is authorized and empowered to create a debt or debts, liability or liabilities, of the State of California, in the manner and to the extent hereinafter provided, but not otherwise, nor in excess thereof.

SEC. 2. After the issuance of the proclamation of the governor, provided for in section 16 of this act, and immediately after adoption of any resolution by the veterans' welfare finance committee hereby created, provided for in section 11 of this act, the state treasurer shall prepare the requisite number of suitable bonds of the denomination of one thousand dollars in accordance with the specifications contained in such resolution. The aggregate par value of all bonds issued under this act shall not exceed the sum of twenty million dollars, and the bonds issued under any such resolution shall bear interest from the date of issuance of said bonds to the date of maturity thereof, at a rate to be determined by the said veterans' welfare finance committee and specified in such resolution, but in no case exceeding six per cent per annum. Both principal and interest shall be payable in gold coin of the United States, of the present standard of value, at the office of the state treasurer, or at the office of any duly authorized agent of the state treasurer, and shall be so payable at the times specified in said resolution or resolutions.

Each bond issued under this act shall contain a clause or clauses stating that interest shall cease to accrue thereon from and after the date of maturity thereof and referring to this act and to the resolution of the veterans' welfare finance committee hereunder by virtue of which said bond is issued.

SEC. 3. The requisite number of suitable interest coupons, appropriately numbered, shall be attached to each bond issued under this act. Said interest coupons shall bear the facsimile signature of the state treasurer who shall be in office on the date of issuance of the bond to which said coupons pertain.

The provisions of this section shall be applicable also to the interest coupons pertaining to the bonds authorized by this act to be issued, and shall be applicable, as far as practicable, to any duly authorized agent of the state treasurer.

SEC. 5. There is hereby appropriated from the general fund in the state treasury such sum annually as will be necessary to pay the principal of and the interest on the bonds issued and sold pursuant to the provisions of this act, as said principal and interest becomes due and payable.

There shall be collected annually in the same manner and at the same time as other state revenue is collected such a sum, in addition to the ordinary revenues of the state, as shall be required to pay the principal and interest on said bonds as herein provided, and it is hereby made the duty of all officers charged by law with any duty in regard to the collections of said revenue, to do and perform each and every act which shall be necessary to collect such additional sum.

On the several dates of maturity of said principal and interest in each fiscal year, there shall be returned into the general fund in the state treasury, all of the moneys in the specific fund into which the proceeds from the sale of the said bonds have been covered as herein prescribed, not exceeding the principal of the said bonds and interest on the said bonds then due and payable and, in the event of such moneys so returned on said dates of maturity being less than the said principal and interest then due and payable, then the balance remaining unpaid shall be returned into the general fund in the state treasury out of said specific fund as soon thereafter as it shall become available, together with interest thereon, from such dates of maturity until so returned, at the rate of five per cent per annum, compounded semiannually.

Both principal and interest of said bonds shall be paid when due upon warrants duly drawn against said appropriation from the general fund by the controller of the state in favor of the state treasurer or in favor of any duly authorized agent of the state treasurer, upon demands audited by the state board of control, and the moneys to be returned into the general fund in the state treasury pursuant to the provisions of this section shall likewise be paid as herein provided upon warrants duly drawn by the controller of the state upon demands duly audited by the state board of control.

Said amount shall be refunded to the general fund in the state treasury out of the specific funds into which the proceeds from the sale of said bonds shall be respectively covered in accordance with the provisions of this act on controller's warrant duly drawn for that purpose.

SEC. 7. When the bonds authorized to be issued under this act shall be duly executed, they shall be by the state treasurer sold at public auction to the highest bidder for cash, in such parcels and numbers as the said treasurer shall be directed by the governor of the state, under seal thereof, after a resolution requesting such sale shall have been adopted by the veterans' welfare board and approved by the governor of the state, but said treasurer must reject any and all bids for said bonds, or for any of them, which shall be below the par value of said bonds so offered plus the interest which has accrued thereon between the date of sale and the last preceding interest maturity date; and with the approval of the governor, he may from time to time, by public announcement at the place and time set for the sale, continue such sale, as to the whole of the bonds offered, or any part thereof offered, to such time and place as he may select. Before offering any of said bonds for sale the said treasurer shall detach therefrom all coupons which have matured or will mature before the day fixed for such sale.

SEC. 8. Due notice of the time and place of sale of all bonds must be given by said treasurer by publication in one newspaper published in the city and county of San Francisco and also by publication in one newspaper published in the city of Oakland, and by publication in one newspaper published in the city of Los Angeles once a week during four weeks prior to such sale. In addition to the notice last above provided for, the state treasurer may give such further notice as he may deem advisable, but the expense and cost of such additional notice shall not exceed the sum of five hundred dollars for each sale so advertised. The proceeds of the sale of such bonds and such amount as may have been paid as accrued interest thereon shall be forthwith paid over by said treasurer into the veterans' farm and home building fund and must be used exclusively in aiding veterans in the acquisition of, or payments for, farms and homes, in accordance with the provisions of the veterans' farm and home purchase act, and of any and all acts amendatory or supplemental to said act; provided, that the proceeds from the sale of said bonds may be used to pay the debt created by the issuance and sale thereof.

The veterans' welfare board shall be and hereby is authorized, with the approval of the state board of control, to invest any surplus moneys in any of the funds subject to or appropriated for its use in bonds of the United States, or of the State of California, or of the several counties or municipalities or other political subdivisions of the State of California, and to sell such bonds, or any of them, at the governing market rates, upon approval of the state board of control; or, the veterans' welfare board may, with the approval of the director of finance, invest moneys in any of the funds subject to the control of the veterans' welfare board or appropriated for its use, in interest bearing certificates of deposit of state banks having a paid up capital of five hundred thousand dollars or more; provided, that the total amount of money so deposited with any one bank shall not exceed a sum equal to fifty per cent of the paid up capital of such bank; provided, however, that nothing herein contained shall inhibit or be construed to inhibit the depositing in banks in accordance with the provisions of an act entitled "An act to authorize and control the depositing in banks of moneys belonging to or in the custody of the state and to repeal all acts or parts of acts conflicting with this act," approved April 12, 1923, and of any and all acts amendatory thereof or supplemental thereto, of moneys of any of the funds subject to the control of the veterans' welfare board or appropriated for its use.

Interest accruing upon the deposit of moneys appropriated for the use of the veterans' welfare board or of any of the funds subject to the control of said board shall be paid into and credited to the respective appropriation or fund to which the money so deposited belongs.

SEC. 10. There is hereby created a Veterans' Welfare Finance Committee composed of the governor, state controller, state treasurer, chairman of the state board of control, and chairman of veterans' welfare board, all of whom shall serve thereon without compensation and a majority of whom shall be empowered to act for said committee. The attorney general of the state shall be the legal adviser of the veterans' welfare finance committee.

Upon request of the veterans' welfare board, supported by a statement of the plans and projects of the veterans' welfare board with respect thereto, the veterans' welfare finance committee shall determine whether or not a bond issue under this act is necessary or desirable to carry such plans and projects into execution.

SEC. 11. Whenever the said veterans' welfare finance committee shall have determined that a bond issue under this act is necessary or desirable to carry such plans and projects into execution, it shall adopt a resolution to this effect. The said resolution shall authorize and direct the state treasurer to prepare the requisite number of suitable bonds and shall specify:

1. The aggregate number, aggregate par value, and the date of issuance of the bonds to be issued.

2. The date or dates of maturity of the bonds to be issued and the number and numerical sequence of the bonds maturing at each date of maturity.

3. The annual rate of interest which the bonds to be issued shall bear.

4. The number, numerical sequence, amount or amounts and the dates of maturity of the interest coupons to be attached to the said bonds.

5. The technical form and language of the bonds to be issued and of the interest coupons to be attached thereto.

In determining the date or dates of maturity of the said bonds and the amount of bonds maturing at each date of maturity, the veterans' welfare finance committee shall be guided by the amounts and dates of maturity of the revenues estimated to accrue to the veterans' welfare board from the project or projects to be financed by each issue, and shall fix and determine said dates and amounts in such manner that, together with the dates and amounts of interest payments on the said bond issue, they shall coincide, as nearly as practicable, with the dates and amounts of such estimated revenues; provided, that the bonds first to mature in each issue, shall mature not later than five years from the date of issuance thereof; provided, further, that specified numbers of bonds of specified numerical sequence shall thereafter mature at annual intervals; and provided, further, that the bonds last to mature in each issue shall mature not later than forty-five years from the date of issuance thereof.

The rate of interest to be borne by the said bonds shall be uniform for all the bonds of the same issue and shall be determined and fixed by the veterans' welfare finance committee according to the then prevailing market conditions, but shall in no case exceed six per cent per annum, and the determination of said committee as to the rate of interest shall be conclusive as to the then prevailing market conditions. The interest coupons to be attached to the said bonds shall be payable at semiannual intervals from the date of issuance of said bonds; provided, that the interest coupon first payable may, if the veterans' welfare finance committee shall so determine and specify, be payable one year after the date of issuance of said bonds.

SEC. 12. All actual and necessary expenses of the veterans' welfare finance committee and of the members thereof shall be paid out of the fund into which the proceeds from the sale of said bonds shall be covered, upon approval of the state board of control and on controller's warrant duly drawn for that purpose, and shall constitute expenses of the veterans' welfare board.

SEC. 13. The state controller, the state treasurer and the veterans' welfare finance committee shall keep full and particular account and record of all their proceedings under this act, and they shall transmit to the governor an abstract of all such proceedings thereunder, with an annual report, to be by the governor laid before the Legislature biennially; and all books and papers pertaining to the matter provided for in this act shall at all times be open to the inspection of any party interested, or the governor, or the attorney general, or a committee of either branch of the Legislature, or a joint committee of both, or any citizen of the state.

SEC. 14. This act, if adopted by the people, shall take effect on the fifteenth day of November, 1930, as to all its provisions except those relating to and necessary for its submission to the people, and for returning, canvassing, and proclaiming the votes, and as to said excepted provisions this act shall take effect immediately.

SEC. 15. This act shall be submitted to the people of the State of California for their ratification at the next general election, to be held in the month of November, 1930, and all ballots at said election shall have printed thereon and in a square thereof, the words: "For the veterans' welfare bond act of 1929," and in the same square under said words the following in brevier type: "This act provides for a bond issue of twenty million dollars to be used by the veterans' welfare board in assisting California war veterans to acquire farms or homes." In the square immediately below the square containing such words, there shall be printed on said ballot the words, "Against the veterans' welfare bond act of 1929," and in the same square immediately below said words, "Against the veterans' welfare bond act of 1929," in brevier type shall be printed "This act provides for a bond issue of twenty million dollars to be used by the veterans' welfare board in assisting California war veterans to acquire farms or homes." Opposite the words "For the veterans' welfare bond act of 1929" and "Against the veterans' welfare bond act of 1929," there shall be left spaces in which the voters may place a cross in the manner required by law to indicate whether they vote for or against said act, and those voting for said act shall do so by placing a cross opposite the words "For the veterans' welfare bond act of 1929" and those voting against the said act shall do so by placing a cross opposite the words "Against the veterans' welfare bond act of 1929." The governor of this state shall include the submission of this act to the people, as aforesaid, in his proclamation calling for said general election.

SEC. 16. The votes cast for or against this act shall be counted, returned and canvassed and declared in the same manner and subject to the same rules as votes cast for state officers; and if it appear that said act shall have received a majority of all the votes cast for and against it at said election as aforesaid, then the same shall have effect as hereinbefore provided, and shall be irrepealable until the principal and interest of the liabilities herein created shall be paid and discharged, and the governor shall make proclamation thereof; but if a majority of the votes cast as aforesaid are against this act then the same shall be and become void.

SEC. 17. It shall be the duty of the secretary of state in accordance with law to have this act published in at least one newspaper in each county, or city and county, if one be published therein, throughout this state, for three months next preceding the general election to be held in the month of November, 1930, the costs of publication shall be paid out of the general fund, on controller's warrants duly drawn for that purpose and shall be refunded to the general fund out of the veterans' farm and home building fund. Said refund shall be made upon controller's warrants duly drawn against said fund for said purpose upon demands audited by the state board of control.

SEC. 18. This act may be known and cited as the "Veterans welfare bond act of 1929."

SEC. 19. All acts and parts of acts in conflict with the provisions of this act are hereby repealed.

CHICAGO BD. OF TRADE

CHICAGO, Aug. 19.—(UP)—An unsettled wheat market that changed so fast in the latter part of the session that the tickers could not keep pace with the actual sales, closed unevenly on the Board of Trade today. Selling by commission houses and locals shortly after noon found no support and prices broke from the early highs to within a small fraction of the season's lows before recovering. Corn was easy from the start with sentiment decidedly mixed but regained some of the lost ground on the late strength in wheat.

Oats went to a new low for the cro y in the May ydelivery but like corn, rallied fractionally with wheat.

At the close wheat was ⅛ cent lower to ⅜ cent higher, corn was ⅜ to 1 cent lower and oats were ⅜ to ⅞ cent lower. Provisions were firm.

NEW YORK CURB

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—Brisk advances in specia lissuesc heered sentiment on the curb market today and prices showed wide improvement over recent levels with leading issues showing strong resistance to selling presure.

A. O. Smith and Deere & Co., were features in the specialties, each running up more than 9 points on active demnad. National Rubber recovered morme than 2 points of yesterday's break, while an early dip in Ford Limited, attracted renewed demand that sent the issue above the previous closing level. National Alation was strong, advancing more than a point.

Shorts grew nervous as the session progressed and stocks showed signs of suport on all recessions, with the result that active covering in issues with overextended short interests brot wide advances in some of the leading issues on the board.

Electric Bond and Share and American Light and Traction were prominent in this category, each advancing more than a point. Cities Service firmed up a fraction, but American Gas and Electric was in supply at a concession of a point.

The oils were featured by Gulf, which was bid up more than 3 points on short covering. Investment trusts were firm with the rest of the market and advances ranging from fractions to more than a point were scored by Goldman Sachs, Prudential Investors, Pennroad and Electric Power Associates.

A GOVERNOR FOR WHOLE STATE

Figures denoting actual accomplishment or facts proving actual ability and sincerity are the things all voters should particularly absorb and allow to influence them during political campaigns.

Governor Young has said that he has tried to be governor of all California, to be absolutely impartial, in influencing the expenditure of state funds in this section or that. People of the south as well as the north have no right to ask more of a governor.

Statistics of expenditures bear out Governor Young's assertion of impartiality. During his administration, state revenues expended within and distributed to Orange county will reach a total of $5,894,185.

To more fully appreciate this sum we must examine its distribution. The State highway system expenditures in Orange county during the four years of Governor C. C. Young's administration total $1,582,297. Orange county schools in the same period will have received a total of $2,662,611 from State funds. Disbursements to county highways of Orange county from motor vehicle fees, gasoline taxes and transportation and franchise taxes will total $1,539,542. Substantial sums have been distributed to the county for aid in welfare work, for orphans and the aged and the blind. The State has also contributed considerable substance to tubercular work in the county.

Not only have the above noted sums been spent in the county, but Governor Young has shown his sincere interest in the development of Orange county by recommending for inclusion in the State system certain new roads which investigators of traffic conditions have convinced him are needed. The highway from Pomona to the Coast Highway near Fullerton by way of Brea Canyon is one of the roads to which Governor Young's administration stands committed; this road is in both Orange and Los Angeles counties. Another highway which has been accepted for state aid is the one from the southern terminus of the San Bernardino county to Bear Lake highway to Newport Beach by way of Santa Ana canyon. Support of Governor C. C. Young is assuring ourselves that these roads will be included in the State highway system.

To expect more than a share of state aid which is in proportion to our population is only committing ourselves to regional pulling and hauling throughout the state. A governor who is the friend of every section of the state will promote the interests of the whole state. One who promises to promote the interests of any particular section, in the face of Governor Young's fair treatment of all, would not further the progress and welfare of the whole state. We could not avoid a burden of expense if we further dissatisfaction in other sections of the state, for our progress is co-operative.

Heywood Broun, columnist, who originated the "give a job" slogan, is now running for congress. If he's elected he'll have occasion to practice what he has preached.

STANDS BY CONSTITUTION EXCITES MUCH OPPOSITION

It is remarkable that a candidate for district attorney, making a declaration on behalf of law enforcement and the conduct of the district attorney's office which is entirely in harmony with everything that political scientists teach, that preachers preach, and that four-fifths of the people of Orange county have voted for, causes criticism and opposition.

Some time ago, a group of women representing the organization which led the fight for temperance and prohibition in this country for over fifty years, asked the candidates for district attorney and sheriff specifically their attitude upon what has become the outstanding issue nationally and in every state. Many of the candidates absolutely ignored this group, and the sentiment that was behind them.

There were those, however, whose personal life, belief, and teachings squared entirely with the very plan, evidently, of the movement. Among those who so replied was Attorney Harry Westover of this city, who has emphasized his position on a number of occasions. At first, we noted that his candidacy was ignored; treated practically with contempt. Mr. Westover is not a "politician" in the ordinarily accepted sense of the term.

There was no "organization" for him. There were only some "church people," some "temperance people," some "women" and "preachers" behind him, but he proceeded to state his position emphatically and to reiterate it in his addresses. And the attitude of ignoring has changed to one of opposition and hostility and misrepresentation. Evidently it is being learned that the thousands of men and women who have been talking and working for the enforcement of law are taking the matter seriously this year in Orange county. We believe those who agree with the principles which should apply to the district attorney's office, as typified in the declarations of Harry Westover and R. E. Haynes, outnumber those who disagree with those views at least four to one.

With the conditions existing as they are in this country, with the seeming determination upon the part of certain classes to do as they please with the law, it is fortunate indeed that Orange county has men who take their stand upon this question alongside of President Hoover, Governor Young, Buron Fitts and the great moral, religious and social organizations of the country which are looking upon the present conditions as utterly incompatible with the continuation of our democracy.

GLOOMY PREDICTION

The fulfillment of the gloomy prediction of Professor C. Delisle Burns of the University of Glasgow seems a long way away, even if possible. Nevertheless history supports his prediction. He said the other day at the Institute of Politics at Williamstown, Mass., that the nations of western civilization, by their policies relating to loans and armaments, are preparing now for a war in 1935 and 1940.

He drew an analogy we are told

". . . between the situation today in Europe and that in 1909, when the nations were divided into two hostile camps as to which ones were to furnish finances and armaments to those requiring such assistance. . . . Just as in the last war France financed Serbia in armaments and Germany financed Bulgaria, so Italy is today financing Rumania and is interested in an understanding with Hungary and with Germany.

"The side on which each country will fight is determined by the loans and armaments which are being sent to various countries."

People might scoff at his gloomy viewpoint were not the background history of the great war so clear in our minds through the publication of various books, which have been more popular the last one or two years, than immediately following the war. None really wants war, says Professor Burns, yet nations are preparing for war. A real peace policy he declared further, is based on a conception of the state as existing not merely to keep order but to foster the more modern functions of government such as industrial organizations, health and education. These functions are not national but cross national boundaries, and therefore, co-operation between states is essential.

In peace-loving America Professor Burns' predictions sound positively crazy but he is trying to impress us with the fact that we must constantly be on guard to preserve and promote friendly relations with other nations and give them no grounds for hating us. We can do little about their own alliances and boundary quarrels, but we can urge our representatives to refrain from doing the things that make other peoples resentful, so far as possible.

One of the enigmas of the present generation is that in spite of the prevalence of soap box orators, dirty politics still persists.

A PRACTICAL STYLE

A custom which is growing in England is not included among the new style notes where it should be. Shooting sticks are being carried to smart social functions by women who want to save their velvet dresses. The woman who pioneered carried her shooting stick to a smart afternoon musical. The cane-seated chairs provided by the hostess would have left an imprint on her dress she said.

Her idea is good, but why not carry a velvet cushion to sit on. But then carrying a velvet cushion to a party is not so good-looking as to carry a shooting stick. On the whole, the idea is good and we are glad to give it this publicity because were it not well known that it is a respectable new fad, we venture to say some Orange county hostess would be quite offended should one of her guests scorn her chairs.

Kings, Boys, and Philately

Christian Science Monitor

To kings and small boys alike who ride together, the world over, the hobby of stamp collecting, the second annual exhibition and convention of the National Philatelic Society in Boston, Mass., this week, will make an effective appeal.

While it may be a comparatively simple problem for King George of England, King Albert of Belguim, Queen Helena of Italy, Emperor Hirohito of Japan, and other celebrities to gather splendid collections, their interest scarcely can exceed the thrill of the youth who swaps tops, marbles, and his pet knife for stamps, or will mow your lawn for fifty cents that he may buy a specially desired colorful bit of airplane postage.

Although the stamp-collecting market is always bullish and the competition keen, the dividends are always largely pleasure. To be sure, fabulous profits are sometimes reported, but the value of his collection is incidental to the genuine collector, who would rather talk about his treasures than sell them.

Stamps record and teach both history and geography. To make such subjects of interest to a small child is of itself a valuable accomplishment. The present exhibit—estimated to be worth $2,000,000—representing every corner of the globe, indicates the universality and far-reaching variety of the lore of philately.

One of the curious points about the stamp business is the fact that mistakes made therein have often high money value. Some people merely profit by their errors in learning to do better, but the philatelist cashes in on them. For instance, a sheet of 100 twenty-four-cent stamps inadvertedly printed, which was purchased at face value, was later sold for $20,000.

The story of a one-cent stamp of British Guiana of 1856 quoted at $40,000 is but one of the many romances that this hobby, which serves as a splendid international ambassador of good will, boasts.

The possibilities of philately, the hobby of some, the livelihood of others and the delight of many, are hard to estimate.

San Bernardino Sun

Miss Helen Wilbert, of Mynbrook, L. I., goes to jail for 15 days as a penalty for driving 52 miles an hour. She could have got off with a $15 fine, but chose imprisonment instead, saying that she would "take the consequences for her act."

Her choice is to be commended. A lot of serious thinking can be done in 15 days, in an environment removed from all the usual distractions of life. Others, though, may need such opportunity more than this particular offender.

There is too much substitution of easy fines for jail penalties. Communities that have tried imposing the harder alternative, in order to curb dangerous infringement of the traffic regulations and other laws, have found it has a surprising moral effect.

More Truth Than Poetry

ON A TOM THUMB GOLF COURSE

"Father, dear Father come home with me now,
The clock is just striking eleven.
You told dear mamma if she's not make a row,
You'd be home to your dinner at seven."
"Be quiet my child, take this nickel and skip,
I am getting the hang of these sticks,
Somebody just taught me a fancy new grip
And I made the last fairway in six."

"But Father, the Joneses are coming tonight
To tell us about their new car,
And they surely will think you are hardly polite,
If they ever find out where you are."
"Now don't interrupt me, you chattering brat;
I am trying to lower my score,
Tell mother that I will show up at the flat
When I have played eighteen holes more."

"Hark father, the neighbors—we heard them last night—
Say you're leading a dissolute life
For a man to run out on his wife."
"I tell you I'm learning a new follow through,
That putt I just made was a bird,
And you'll certainly get what is coming to you
If you utter one single more word!"

"But father, poor Mother cried all afternoon,
She says it's a sin and a shame,
And she told me today she'll be leaving you soon
If you don't quite this terrible game."
"Say kid, go and tell her to pack up tonight,
And travel, I don't care how far,
If it wasn't for these interruptions I might

By WILLIAM TRUFANT FOSTER and WADDILL CATCHINGS

The lay reader accepts the findings of engineers and chemists. He accepts even the statement of bacteriologists that they have found five million germs on the blade of a knife, though he hasn't the slightest idea how anybody can count five million germs which he cannot see.

The lay reader accepts the findings of such men because he supposes that they are dealing with EXACT SCIENCES. He is more wary about anything that economists have to say because the so-called social sciences are not exact sciences.

As a matter of fact, there are NO exact sciences. The measurements that we rely on in physics are only approximately accurate. The engineer, for example, is so wary of his own measurements of the strength of materials that he designs bridges to stand several times the maximum load.

Many measurements in economics are sufficiently exact for every day use. By means of index numbers economists now record changes in the purchasing power of money, for example, with an instrumental error that rarely exceeds one part in 800. That amounts to an error of one cent in an eight dollar expense account, or one pound in the weight of a horse. For most practical purposes, such an error is negligible.

The accuracy of economic studies was strikingly shown, when the National Bureau of Economic Research carried on two wholly independent studies of the national income. The two studies, carried on for years by separate staffs, were based on different methods and different sources. They involved millions of computations. Yet the final results were very much the same.

Our chief trouble in the present business depression is not our inability to measure the forces which make for good business and full employment, but our failure to use the available means of measurement. For instance, we have not even tried to measure, on a national scale, changes in the numbers of unemployed workers. Yet the technical difficulties are no greater than the difficulties which are met daily and conquered by biologists.

It is as easy to count five million unemployed workers as to count five million germs.

MEDDLING PARENTS

Boys and girls of twenty-one are pretty sure to make mistakes, especially if they have been petted by their parents, and made to think that they are very unusual and talented youngsters.

Leave them alone and, provided they have any intelligence worth cultivating, their mistakes will teach them.

Fuss with them, scold them, pamper them, and try to run their lives for them, and you probably ruin them, unless they happen to have a great deal of talent or persistence.

Meddling parents do more harm to children than the children are ever likely to do to themselves.

It has been my observation that parents of this type are in the majority.

They cannot believe that young people, whom they have fed and clothed and brought up can possibly have as much sense as the elders that nurtured them.

So they insist upon telling them what callings or professions they shall follow, what social sets they shall move in, what kind of people they shall marry, where and how they shall live.

Naturally a healthy minded self reliant boy or girl resents that sort of thing.

Those who do not resent it are harmed by it even more than those who do.

If you will read the life histories of important men and women you will find that in most cases they began to run their own lives very early, and continued to run them without any hint, help or suggestion from their fathers and mothers.

Parental love is a beautiful sentiment, but when it is carried to the extent of shielding children from all temptations, and prescribing lines of conduct for them to follow it is likely to poison their lives.

Thoughts On Modern Life

By GLENN FRANK

THE PENDULUM OF PROSPERITY

This week I am trying to picture a puzzled America as she peers into her past for light on her present economic perplexities.

I want first to recall, by way of background, how the pendulum of prosperity has swung back and forth during the life of the American republic.

In our national existence, we have said hail and farewell to five distinct periods of dramatically accelerated prosperity. They are:

1. The "Pioneer" period of prosperity.

This period of prosperity lasted from 1825 to 1837. For these 12 years the economic life of America sang with vibrant energy. The business impetus of the time trailed the revival of world trade that accompanied the recovery from the disruption and destruction of the Napoleonic wars. This phase of American development saw erstwhile Easterners push their way into the Middle West, establish new frontiers, and give the enterprise of railroad building a running start. This period of prosperity came to an end with the panic of 1837.

2. The "Gold Rush" period of prosperity.

This period of prosperity lasted from 1849 to 1857. For these eight years the economic life of America drank the heady wine of gold discovery in California, was thrilled by the tramp of further westward migrations, saw the development of a new plow and harvester industry, and kept busy building still more railroads. This period of prosperity came to an end with the epidemic bank failures of 1857.

3. The "Post-Civil-War" period of prosperity.

This period of prosperity lasted from 1879 to 1893. For these 14 years the economic life of America was singularly alert and alive in the twin tasks of the further winning and working of the West and the shifting of American industry definitely to a machine basis, although the extensive mechanization and mass production of today were still in the distance. This period of prosperity came to an end with the panic of 1893.

4. The "Alaskan" period of prosperity.

This period of prosperity lasted from 1898 to 1907. For these nine years the economic life of America was stimulated by the inrush of Alaskan gold. This was the heyday of the great trusts that drew the ire of the muckrakers. Business was ruddy, regnant, and ruthless. American industry was fat and feverish, as it set ever more machines whirring. And men everywhere were told to fight for the status quo if they wanted a full dinner pail. This period of prosperity came to an end with the panic of 1907.

5. The "Post-World-War" period of prosperity.

This period of prosperity lasted from 1922 to 1929. For these eight years the economic life of America thought and acted in moods and measures for which history holds no precedent. This period of prosperity came to a dramatic end with the market crash of last November.

OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

To the Boys and Girls:

The best possible life to live is your own. You see you are a person. There is nobody else like you. You have certain faults, certain powers, certain gifts in a degree that no one else has, or ever will have. You are a distinct person.

One of the queer things you do is to wish you were somebody else. If you could only be Lindbergh. If you were Mary Pickford. Now why couldn't you be Bobby Jones? Or Rockefeller. If you could only be a moving picture king—a beauty queen. And all the time you are your own unique self.

You see that each of these people are different from all other people in the world. Their gift was so much stronger than any other quality in them, their line of power so direct, that they could do one thing better than anybody else in the world.

What about yourself? It is all very well to wish you were famous, or noble. Why not? Look inside yourself and see what gift you have. You have one. Everybody gets one, some get more. But each has one. That one makes you different from other people in the world and if you set about making the most of that gift you will be very happy.

I am not promising that you will be a king of this or a queen of that. Maybe you will and if you do I hope you will be happy. What I would like you to consider is that you are a person distinct and apart from all others. That you can be a very fine person indeed without following the pattern anybody has laid down.

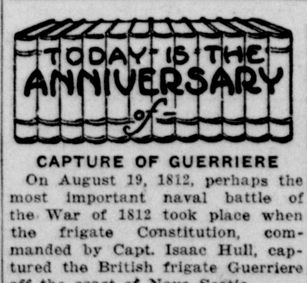

Of course some patterns are good and if you cannot follow your own idea you can follow the other man's. But you won't cultivate the precious self that was granted you in the beginning. Test this out. If somebody comes to school wearing a new style pin, or cap, or shoe will you be unhappy until you wear the same sort? If that is your way of doing then I fear you are not strengthening your own self.

If there is a group in your class who laugh at you for working hard, make fun of your high standing and call you sissie, do you smile and go your way, strong in you faith in yourself, or do you fall in with them and follow the lower level? If you fall in with the cheaper group are you not going to be king of anything, or queen of even a sandwich stand.

But if you can smile and tell the scoffer to run away and pick daisies, boy, how you are going to grow. And how everybody will cheer for you. That is everybody that it worth while. And what happiness will fill your spirit, that spirit which is at peace only when you are being true to what is best in yourself.

"To thine own self be true"—and the world is yours. A new world, for you are a new person. What fairy tale, what kingdom could out class that?

CAPTURE OF GUERRIERE

On August 19, 1812, perhaps the most important naval battle of the War of 1812 took place when the frigate Constitution, commanded by Capt. Isaac Hull, captured the British frigate Guerriere off the coast of Nova Scotia.

In less than 30 minutes after the engagement began, the Guerriere struck her colors. She was so badly cut to pieces that Hull could not tow her to port. Instead, he set her on fire and then blew her up. The American ship was undamaged.

From that time on the Constitution became popularly known as "Old Ironsides." Out of 18 naval engagements between single ships during the war the Americans won 15. These series of victories moved Daniel Webster to urge congress to increase the navy.

The success of the Americans on sea was due to the fact they handled their ships and guns far better than the British did theirs. The enemy, it is estimated, lost on the average of about five men to one for the Americans.
